DISCOVER PAIR SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTOMOBILE

Clarence Yager And Mrs. Lawrence Bird Victims Of Mysterious Shooting; Mother Awakened By Premonition Son Was Being Killed.

(Special to The Star)

HASTINGS Neb, Aug 24 — The bodies of Clarence Yager, 30, and Mrs Lawrence Bird a little younger, were found huddled down in an automobile which stood beside a road about a mile east of this city at 10 30 a m today

Both the man and the woman had been shot to death and County Attorney Walter M Crow is convinced that they were murdered The bullet which killed Yager had entered the chin and came out below the left ear Mrs Bird had been shot twice in the head The bullets were from a 38 calibre pistol but no gun was found

Mrs Bird's body was in the front seat with her head to the west while that of Yager was cramped between the divided front seat and the rear Cushions had been placed over the bodies so that they would not readily be seen and several cars had passed without stopping the bodies being discovered by Russell Miller who was bringing a load of melons to Hastings

In a field about thirty yards from the death car investigators found an overcoat and about thirty feet from the car a woman's embroidered handkerchief was picked up These are the only possible clues thus far discovered

Clarence Yager and Mrs Bird were both employed in the bakery conducted here by her father of the former Phillip Yager Mrs Bird was divorced about a year ago and her husband is supposed to be in California Clarence Yager was a widower his wife who was Hazel Robinson having committed suicide eighteen months ago having been despondent over the death of their baby The two left Hastings in a Studebaker car about nine o clock Sunday evening it not being known where they intended going Last year Mrs Bird taught school

A strange premonition of the death of her son came to Mrs Phillip Yager during the night At about five o clock this morning she awoke her daughter Mrs Effie McCullum of Trumbull and told her that she had had a dream in which she saw Clarence coming to her with his arms extended crying

Mother I am dying

The daughter sought to reassure her telling her that they had probably gone somewhere to get married

Officials have no theory as to the motive of the slayer

CHURCHILL AND CAILLAUX SEEK AN AGREEMENT

Paris Finance Minister Says He Has "Gentleman's Offer" For Settlement Of 623,000,000 Pound Obligation To Great Britain.

LONDON, Aug 24 —(By the Associated Press) —The French finance minister, M Caillaux, and the British chancellor of the exchequer Winston Churchill today began discussion of terms for settlement of France's debt to England amounting to 623 000 000 M Caillaux before the meeting told the newspapermen he was hopeful of an agreement

Today's conversations between the two ministers were expected to review the ground covered by the experts during the London conference last month which broke up when it seemed impossible to reach an agreement as to the amount of France's annual payments

It was understood at that time there was wide divergence between the British desires and the French offers The British were reported to have asked the payment of about 21 000 000 pounds annually while the French said they were only able to offer less than half the amount

In official circles it is believed the visit of M Caillaux and his personal discussions with Mr Churchill will bring these figures closer together and quite probably effect a definite and workable agreement

DISCOVER PAIR SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTOMOBILE

Clarence Yager And Mrs. Lawrence Bird Victims Of Mysterious Shooting; Mother Awakened By Premonition Son Was Being Killed.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 24. — The bodies of Clarence Yager, 30, and Mrs. Lawrence Bird a little younger, were found huddled down in an automobile which stood beside a road about a mile east of this city at 10:30 a. m. today.

Both the man and the woman had been shot to death and County Attorney Walter M. Crow is convinced that they were murdered. The bullet which killed Yager had entered the chin and came out below the left ear. Mrs. Bird had been shot twice in the head. The bullets were from a .38 calibre pistol but no gun was found.

Mrs. Bird's body was in the front seat with her head to the west, while that of Yager was cramped between the divided front seat and the rear. Cushions had been placed over the bodies so that they would not readily be seen and several cars had passed without stopping, the bodies being discovered by Russell Miller, who was bringing a load of melons to Hastings.

In a field about thirty yards from the death car investigators found an overcoat and about thirty feet from the car a woman's embroidered handkerchief was picked up. These are the only possible clues thus far discovered.

Clarence Yager and Mrs. Bird were both employed in the bakery conducted here by her father of the former, Phillip Yager. Mrs. Bird was divorced about a year ago and her husband is supposed to be in California. Clarence Yager was a widower, his wife, who was Hazel Robinson, having committed suicide eighteen months ago, having been despondent over the death of their baby. The two left Hastings in a Studebaker 6 car about nine o'clock Sunday evening, it not being known where they intended going. Last year Mrs. Bird taught school.

A strange premonition of the death of her son came to Mrs. Phillip Yager during the night. At about five o'clock this morning she awoke her daughter, Mrs. Effie McCullum of Trumbull and told her that she had had a dream in which she saw Clarence coming to her with his arms extended, crying,

"Mother I am dying."

The daughter sought to reassure her, telling her that they had probably gone somewhere to get married.

Officials have no theory as to the motive of the slayer.

CAST BLANCA, French Morocco, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Marshal Lyautey, governor general of French Morocco, is to leave Thursday for France to lay the Moroccan situation before the government. Marshal Petain, with his staff, left today for Fez.

ILLNESS RUMORED.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—The French newspapers say Marshal Lyautey is returning to France to undergo treatment for liver trouble. Official circles profess to be unable to confirm or deny the report.

FEZ, French Morocco, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)— The time has arrived to strike a decisive blow, in the opinion of military authorities and plans prepared by Marshal Lyautey and General Naulin for an offensive to start at an early date, earlier even than had at first been supopsed possible, will be submitted to Marshall Petain, who has just returned from Paris.

Recent events have greatly strengthened the advocates of immediate action so as to avoid all the inconveniences of a winter campaign. Prominent Moor, well acquainted with all the conditions and in a position to judge. declares that Abd-El-Krim's system of alliances is beginning to fall apart and that if the French follow up last week's successes they will detach him not only from all the dissident tribes in the French sphere, but from the Kelmas, Yebalas, Ghomes and other powerful tribes associatde with the Rifflans.

Great Activity Sunday.

There was great activity all along the front Sunday. Marshal Petain at Rabat studied the situation and conferring with various commanders.

Beyond a skirmish between dissident tribesmen and native tribesmen friendly to the French on the middle Ouergha sector, which culminated in a victory for the latter, no fighting was reported from the front on Sunday. The enemy, contrary to his previous custom, avoided the French reconnoitering columns.

The territory occupied by the French is becoming safer by reason of the increasing adherence of former enemy tribesmen to the French cause.

SEVERAL DIE IN BLAST AT CAMP GRANT

Seven Known Dead and Score or More Injured By Bursting of Howitzer In Eighth Infantry (Colored) Regiment—Defective Shell Blamed.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Six soldiers are reported dead and between tween twenty and thirty injured, many seriously, by the bursting of a howitzer in the Eighth infantry (colored) regiment at Camp Grant this afternoon. The victims have not been identified.

The identified dead:

Capt. Osceolia Browning, commanding the howitzer company, Eight infantry.

Corp. Henry Williams.

Pvts. Bend Anderson, Herbert Durant and Delmas Campbell, all of Chicago.

Unconfirmed rumors placed the total death list as high as fourteen.

Fifteen of the injured men have already been removed to Rockford hospitals.

The accident occurred just as the men were completing their morning's firing on the Camp Grant range. A defective shell is blamed for the tragedy.

Charlie Wright, colored, Chicago, one of the injured, died soon after he was taken to a hospital, increasing the known death list to seven.

Goes to Philadelphia To Join Faculty of Theological Seminary.

Rev. W. T. Elmore, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lincoln for the last seven years, Sunday morning tendered his resignation from that position to enter the faculty of the Eastern Baptist Theological seminary, recently organized in Philadelphia. Dr. Elmore asks in his communication that the resignation take effect the first week of September. He had just returned from a vacation in Michigan. The request, which the church is reluctant to grant, will be considered next Sunday at a congregational meeting.

Dr. Elmore was ordained at the First Baptist church twenty-five years ago, and went to India as its missionary representative for fifteen years. During half of this time he was on the faculty of the Ramapatnam Theological seminary, and since his return was pastor for three and a half years at Hamilton, N. Carries Agricultural College Exhibit—Purpose to Encourage Raising of Better Dairy Cattle.

The ten-car Union Pacific Calf club special pulled out of Lincoln about 6 a. m. Monday to visit twenty-one Nebraska towns in the interests of better dairy cows.

Twenty-one purebred sires went along in a couple of specially fitted cars. They will be left at communities where calls are made and help carry on in practice the theories that will be expounded aboard the dairy train.

The fair grounds, where for the last month the bulls have been quartered, conditioned and photographed, was the starting point for the train. Two carloads of bulls, a feed car, a stock car and two cars of exhibits were included.

Exhibits were furnished by the College of Agriculture. In one car were examples and charts showing the difference between scrub and purebred sire productivity. In the other car was a "dairyman's premier," arranged in the form of several big lesson books inscribed with the A B C of producing dairy products.

Return For Fair.

After making its ten-day swing through the Platte country, leaving a sire at each town in exchange for some worthless scrub presented by a man piked by the ommunity, the train will return to the fair grounds here just in time for the state fair. The twenty-one scrubs brought back, as well as the Agricultural College exhibits, will be on exhibit all during the fair.

The bulls distributed are to be used for the especial benefit of boys and girls calf club members. Some responsible farmer, usually one whose son or daughter is a member of a club, is selected to take charge of the animal. It will become the sire of calves by heifers now owned by the calf club members.

The twenty-one towns where the train will stop are: Stromsberg, Rising City, Fremont, Schuyler, Norfolk, Albion, Fullerton, Central City, St. Paul, Grand Island, Arnold, Kearney, Lexington, North Platte, Gering, Broadwater, Chappell, Sidney, Valley, Wahoo, Beatrice.

Among the passengers of the train are: M. L. Slack, L. I. Frisbie, R. E. Holland of the agricultural college; Otto Leibers and M. N. Lawritson of the Nebraska Dairy Development society; and R. A. Smith of the Union Pacific.

DROPS INTO EXCAVATION

William Withers, Foreman on Cornhusker Hotel Project, Escapes Serious Injury When His Machine Falls 13 Feet.

Falling with his auto 13 feet into the Cornhusker hotel excavation at Thirteenth and M streets Monday morning, and caught under the overturned car, William Withers, 44, of Kansas City, Kas., suffered three broken ribs, so far as now known. Taken to the Lincoln sanitarium, he was examined by Dr. E. A. Everett who states the man might be a victim of internal injuries but that nothing of the kind is yet apparent.

Charlie Moore, a laborer living at 1220 Vine street, also escaped injury. He was working just below when the car started over the edge, but not when it lit. Friends say they shouted warnings. Moore claims he heard the car coming and jumped. It missed him two feet.

Mr. Withers, who is here with the Gauger-Korsmo company, builders of the hotel, as general labor foreman, probably owes his life to the fact that he lit in a hole 5 feet square and 2 feet deep, in which concrete for the hotel foundation footings will soon be poured. The auto body, resting on the hole's edges, did not pin him to the earth.

His auto, a Hupmobile touring car, had been driven within 6 feet of the edge of the excavation Monday morning and kept there by a block of wood under a hind wheel. When Mr. Withers wished to move it at 8 a. m., he tried to start forward an inch or two to loosen the block, then back out. The gears did not shift as he had expected and the auto continued forward.

Witnesses saw it move on and lurch into the pit.

Workmen lifted the auto and drew him out. A Castle, Roper & Matthews' ambulance was called.

"My clutch stuck," he explained, as they drew him from the wreck.

HARRY ABBOTT, VETERAN COURT BAILIFF, DEAD

Well Known Resident of Lincoln Passes Away Early Monday.

Was An Active Figure In Early Political Campaigns In County.

Harry G. Abbott died at the Lincoln General hospital at 7:10 a. m. Monday following an illness of several months with sclerosis of the liver. Last June, upon the advice of his physician he went to California for his health but remained there only a short time. Upon his return he was taken to the hospital, where his condition became worse until the end.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Holy Trinity Episcopal church, Twelfth and J streets. Burial in Yankee Hill cemetery. The body will be held at Henry Brown's chapel until the time for the services.

Harry Abbott was born at Cranwich, Braden, Norfolk county, England, May 10, 1857, and came with his parents and four brothers and four sisters to Lincoln in 1871. His father had been a farmer in England and at once bought the farm in Denton precinct upon which he lived until his death a number of years ago. There Harry Abbott and the other children were reared and there he lived until he married and went upon a farm of his own.

Interested in Politics.

Early in life Harry Abbott acquired a liking for political affairs and these occupied much of his time and attention even before he moved to Lincoln thirty-four years ago. He was active in precinct caucuses and no delegation to a republican county convention from Denton precinct was complete unless he was a member of it.

He was employed for a time at the state capitol but upon removing to this city he took a position as a letter carrier, remaining in the postal service for a number of years. In 1895 he became deputy county treasurer under Maxey Cobb and from 1901 to 1908 he was marriage license clerk in the office of County Judge Frank R. Waters. For a time he was deputy register of deeds under C. W. Holmes and for the past sixteen years he had been a bailiff in the District court, being originally appointed by Judge

MANUFACTURER ADMITS HOLDUP OF OHIO BANK

Dayton Man Confesses $28,000 Robbery—Blames Financial Difficulties.

Mystery of Blue-Masked, Blue-Robed "Phantom Bandit" Is Solved.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Fred Nichol, Dayton manufacturer, was arrested gy detectives today and is said to have admitted to them that he is the blue-masked, blue-robed phantom bandit who on August 14, held up and robbed employes of the North Dayton Branch Savings Bank & Trust Co., escaped with $28,000, police announced today.

Nichol is president of a local manufacturing plant bearing his name. He told detectives he had turned robber because of financial difficulties. He said he was compelled to raise money; that he conceived the idea of the robbing the bank and purchased the blue material of which his robe and mask were made and the gray kid gloves, which concealed his hands.

The clue which led to Nichol's arrest was the presence of his adopted daughter, Miss Helen Sammet, an employe of the bank, at the institution at the time of the holdup. Methods employed by the robber were so weird that until the detectives started investigating the Nichol clue they had no information on which to base their investigation.

Returns To Home.

While the "phantom bandit" was being sought by police in automobiles and by an army officer in an airplane, Nichol told how the was driving aimlessly through the country surrounding Dayton. His purpose, he said, was to throw his pursuers off his trail. Then, according to his confession, he proceeded back to Dayton in his automobile, drove to his home greeted his wife and concealed the plunder.

Mrs. Nichol had no intimation that her husband was under surveillance until Inspector Yendes and the detectives searched the Nichol home today and found the hidden

CHURCHILL AND CAILLAUX SEEK AN AGREEMENT

Paris Finance Minister Says He Has "Gentleman's Offer" For Settlement Of 623,000,000 Pound Obligation To Great Britain.

LONDON, Aug. 24.— By the Associated Press.) —The French finance minister, M. Caillaux, and the British chancellor of the exchequer, Winston Churchill, today began discussion of terms for settlement of France's debt to England amounting to 623,000,000. M. Caillaux before the meeting told the newspapermen he was hopeful of an agreement.

Today's conversations between the two ministers were expected to review the ground covered by the experts during the London conference of last month, which broke up when it seemed impossible to reach an agreement, as to the amount of France's annual payments.

It was understood at that time there was wide divergence between the British desires and the French offers. The British were reported to have asked the payment of about 21,000,000 pounds annually, while the French said they were only able to offer less than half the amount.

In official circles it is believed the visit of M. Caillaux and his personal discussions with Mr. Churchill will bring these figures closer together and quite probably effect a definite and workable agreement.

Much Speculation.

PROBE DEATH OF A GIRL, 19

Body of Unidentified Slain Victim Found On Abutment Of Pier of Bridge Over Allegheny River at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—A young woman about 19, clad in black, silk, was found dying on an abutment of a center pier of the Fortieth street bridge over the Allegheny river Saturday midnight. She died a few moments after she had been carried from the ledge of masonry, without giving her name.

The point where the young woman was found after her cries had attracted a bridge watchman and several other men, is forty feet below the floor of the bridge, and forty feet above the river.

Police and detectives assigned to the case declare the girl, whom they say had been attacked, was taken to the pier in a boat and discarded upon the side of the pier from the water by means of a rough iron ladder imbedded in the masonry.

The young woman's body was cut and bruised and her throat was discolored from choking.

She was without hat, jewelry or pocketbook and weighed about 110 pounds. She was 5 feet tall.

SCOTT TO FACE GALLOWS AGAIN

Convicted Chicago Slayer Informally Declared Sane By Hospital Head.

DENIAL ISSUED.

CHESTER, Ill., Aug. 24. — (By the Associated Press.)—Dr. Frank A. Stubblefield, superintendent of the state hospital for the criminal insane here, today characterized reports that Russell T. Scott, convicted murderer, had been found sane as "all wrong."

"Scott is and has been under observation here for some time, but no decision regarding him has been made," the warden said. "Reports that he has been found sane are all wrong."

"I have reached no decision regarding Scott and have had no communication whatever with the state's attorney's office in Chicago regarding his case."

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.) — An unnamed member of the staff of State's Attorney Crowe was quoted by the Herald and Examiner today as saying that Russell T. Scott, convicted murderer, would be returned from the Chester hospital for the insane within four weeks to face the Cook county gallows once more.

The newspaper said that the attache of the state's attorney's office had revealed that an informal decision that Scott is not insane had been made by Dr. Frank A. Stubblefield, superintendent of the hospital, and that the latter was awaiting only the corroboration of his decision by two consultant experts before sending Scott back.

WORKMEN STAY IN LINCOLN NOW

Labor Office Says Drifting Away for Higher Wages Has Stopped.

The marked tendency five or six years ago of laborers and skilled building workmen to drift east or south in search of higher wages has stopped and within the last month or two hardly any have left the city according to Secretary Joe Schneider of the Lincoln Central Labor Union

It does not mean there is a shortage of labor here however as a rush of men has come in from the outside and created a large supply In spite of the extraordinary demand at this time for workmen at the capitol [illegible] four large buildings and at numerous smaller business and residence projects local contractors are finding all the help they need

That a large number of all classes of people are coming to Lincoln is shown by the published records of the Nebraska Credit bureau

In its lists of incoming and outgoing residents for the past month the incoming outnumber those leaving by thirty families Even this does not show the true state of affairs says Max Meyer of the bureau In ordinary times the outgoing usually are predominant because their movements are always reported while newcomers often arrive with a handbag and are not noticed The fact that the incom[illegible] [illegible]

VICTOR LAWSON SERVICE SIMPLE

Nationally Known Journalists Pay Last Tribute to Departed Editor.

Simple Ceremony at Chicago Church Preceding Burial At Graceland.

CHICAGO Aug 24—(By the Associated Press)—Victor Fremont Lawson was claimed today from the outstanding position into which a half century of achievements thrust him despite a disposition naturally modest and retiring for a last simple tribute from a few surviving relatives and a great host of friends

From a world figure in journalism powerful force for public good benefactor of the poor far sighted business man and mighty church leader he was in the solemn final rites for the departed permitted to become a mourned relative counsellor and friend

It was his wish that his funeral service and burial be shorn of all ostentation and display So it was that they were planned

In keeping with that wish no service was planned in the great stone mansion he and his bride spent years in devising as a home There his body has lain at rest a repose finally demanded by the exactions of nature after a lifetime virtually divested of relaxation since his death there last Wednesday night from overwork

Despite his demand for simplicity a great company of mourners many nationally known in the field of journalism, in which as proprietor and editor of the Chicago Daily News and co founder of the Associated Press Mr Lawson was a commanding figure for fifty years was here for the funeral service at 1 o clock this morning in the little New England Congregational church preceding burial at Graceland cemetery

The Rev Dr John A Hexworth pastor of the New England church is in Canada on vacation In his stead the Rev R Ozora Stearns Davis president of the Chicago Theological seminary was chosen as the officiating clergyman

In the serenity of death Mr Lawsons body was relegated to the hands of those whose co operation he had enlisted in building the Daily News to its pre eminent position the pallbearers being drawn from the news and composing rooms and business offices without however disturbing the functions of his newspaper

STATE'S RULE ON INTEREST STANDS

Bond Dealers Fail to Get Modification of 4 1-2 Per Cent Minimum.

New Policy to Discourage Use of Middle Men By Municipalities.

Local bond dealers have been unsuccessful so far in their efforts to get the state board of educational lands and funds to rescind or at least modify the rule which it recently adopted providing that no more bonds should be purchased on a basis to net less than 4 1-2 per cent interest to the state

C E Lawrence and Don Petts of Lincoln who have been buying up Nebraska municipal and school bonds issued at 4 1-2 to [illegible] per cent and reselling them to the state at 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 making 1-4 to 1-2 of 1 per cent on each transaction were at the capitol Monday forenoon and interviewed State Treasurer Robinson and Secretary of State Pool about the matter

The new policy of the state board is intended to discourage the sale of bonds by cities villages school districts and other subdivisions to private dealers who turn right around and offer them to the state after clipping off enough interest coupons to give themselves a percentage profit State officials think the local agencies of government should offer their securities direct and let the state collect the full interest for the benefit of its school fund and other investment funds

Mr Lawrence has at the present time two or three small batches of bonds issued at 4 1-2 per cent which he bought before the board adopted its present rule He expected the state would take them at a net rate of 4 1-4 If he sells to the state at 4 1-2 he will make nothing and will be out the cost of having the bonds printed

State Treasurer Robinson was asked to buy these bonds at a price to yield 4 30 but Robinson cannot depart from the 4 1-2 per cent rule unless the board authorizes him to do so The rule was proposed by Land Commissioner Swanson and voted for by all members of the board There is not much disposition in evidence to back track on it

The state is said to have lost some revenue through the activities of the outside bond men in persuading local officials to refund bond issues held by the state and drawing 5 to 6 per cent interest with new securities at 4 1-2 Where this was done and after the bond dealer took out his commission the interest return to the state was thus cut down to 4 1-4 per cent

Lawrence is said to have sent a circular letter to a number of municipalities suggesting this course of action He formerly held the position of bond examiner in the state auditor's office and is familiar with the various kinds of bonds outstanding His nephew Ralph C Lawrence is now filling the bond examiner's place

Fined on Liquor Charge.—Hazen Redwing, reputed full-blood Sioux Indian, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail in Municipal court Monday when he pleaded guilty to a liquor law violation. He told Judge Hawes that he sold a small quantity of liquor to a friend Friday night. Deputy sheriffs who arrested him say they found a quart of liquor in his pocket.

Good Corn in North Nebraska—On a trip to Brown county last week, where he inspected school lands for reappraisement, Land Commissioner Swanson found corn generally in good condition and promising a large crop in the Elkhorn river valley and its adjacent uplands. Hay production, however, is somewhat curtailed in the northern counties, owing to dry weather during July. There will not be much corn in Holt county, but Boyd will get 60 per cent of a normal yield, Swanson thinks.

Watch and Money Stolen.—A. L. Dupts, 2500 Vine, reported to the police Sunday that while he and C. L. Wilson, 1634 South Seventeenth, were working in the upstairs of a house under construction at Sixteenth and S streets, someone entered the house and rifled some garments they had left on the lower floor. A watch belonging to Wilson and $8 in money belonging to Dupts were stolen. The men told the officers that they saw a man run across the street and disappear. They then discovered their losses.

WORKMEN STAY IN LINCOLN NOW

Labor Office Says Drifting Away for Higher Wages Has Stopped.

The marked tendency five or six' [illegible] Lincoln laborers and skilled building workmen to drift east or south in search of higher wages has stopped, and within the last month or two hardly any have left the city, according to Secretary Joe Schneider of the Lincoln Central Labor Union.

That does not mean there is a shortage of labor, here, however, as a rush of men has come in from the outside and created a large supply. In spite of the extraordinary demand at this time for workmen at the capitol, at four large buildings and at numerous smaller business and residence projects, local contractors are finding all the help they need.

That a large number of all classes of people are coming to Lincoln is shown by the published records of the Nebraska Credit bureau.

In its lists of incoming and outgoing residents for the past month, the incoming outnumber those leaving by thirty families. Even this does not show the true state of affairs, says Max Meyer of the bureau. In ordinary times the outgoing usually are predominant because their movements are always reported, while newcomers often arrive with a handbag and are not noticed. The fact that the incoming families are now the most numerous on the records show what a great ascendency they have in reality.

For the month ending August 22, forty-four families left town and seventy-four arrived.

None of those leaving were headed for Florida, where wages are somewhat better than here, according to the labor secretary. A few went to Chicago, a number to Omaha and the rest scattered in many directions.

NON-STOP FLIGHT PLANES IN FRISCO

Reach Coast City in Preparation for Hop-Off for Hawaiian Island.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The three United States naval seaplanes which will attempt a non-stop flight to Honolulu from here next Friday, arrived yesterday. Two of the planes, the PN-9 No. 1 and the PN-9 No. 3, came fro mSan Diego, one of them making a non-stop voyage. The third, the PB-1, came from Coos Bay, Wash.

The two PN-9 planes left San Diego at 7:14 a. m. The PN-9 No. 3 completed a non-stop flight, arvriing here at 3 p. m. The PN-9 No. 1 made a forced landing at San Pedro at about 9:30 a. m., when she developed an oil leak. Repairs were soon made and the craft landed here shortly before 6 o'clock.

Leaving Coos Bay, Ore., at 8:30 a. m., the PB-1 landed at Crissy field at 12:55 p. m. This plane attempted to make a non-stop flight from Seattle but was forced to land at Neah Bay, Wash., with a broken oil feed line. After being repaired, she flew to Coos Bay, where she spent the night.

Governor's Tonsils To Be Removed; Halt In Speaking Dates

After making three more public addresses this week in southwestern Nebraska, Governor McMullen will abandon the speaking platform for ten days in order to undergo an operation for the removal of his tonsils. He expects to have this done by a Lincoln surgeon next Saturday.

The governor has had no recent throat trouble, but he is subject to periodic attacks of tonsilitis, one of which kept him indoors for a week or more last March after he returned from the Coolidge inaugural at Washington.

With the prospective operation in mind, Mr. McMullen has been refusing to make speaking engagements for next week. His program for this week includes Lincoln night at the Omaha Ak-Sar-Ben den, Monday evening, a farmers' union picnic at Arapahoe on Thursday, a Kiwanis dinner at McCook the same evening, and an old settlers' picnic at Cambridge on Friday. He will return to Lincoln from Cambridge.

The next speech that Governor McMullen is scheduled to deliver, after the present week, is on Labor day, September 7, at Omaha. That will give him an interval of 10 days to get over the effects of the removal of his tonsils.

Dallas, Texas, has six country clubs, six municipal golf courses, one college course and a municipal course for youngsters.

Twelve members of the University of Chicago baseball squad are enroute to Japan, where they will play a series of games.

VICTOR LAWSON SERVICE SIMPLE

Nationally Known Journalists Pay Last Tribute to Departed Editor.

Simple Ceremony at Chicago Church Preceding Burial At Graceland.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Victor Fremont Lawson was claimed today from the outstanding position into which a half century of achievements thrust him, despite a disposition naturally modest and retiring, for a last simple tribute from a few surviving relatives and a great host of friends.

From a world figure in journalism, powerful force for public good, benefactor of the poor, far sighted business man and mighty church leader, he was, in the solemn final rites for the departed, permitted to become a mourned relative, counsellor and friend.

It was his wish that his funeral service and burial be shorn of all ostentation and display. So it was that they were planned.

In keeping with that wish, no service was planned in the great stone mansion he and his bride spent years in devising as a home.

There his body has lain at rest, a repose finally demanded by the exactions of nature after a life time virtually divested of relaxation, since his death there last Wednesday night from overwork.

Despite his demand for simplicity, a great company of mourners, many nationally known in the field of journalism, in which, as proprietor and editor of the Chicago Daily News and co-founder of the Associated Press, Mr. Lawson was a commanding figure for fifty years, was here for the funeral service at 1 o'colck this morning in the little New England Congregational church preceding burial at Graceland cemetery.

The Rev. Dr. John A. Heyworth, pastor of the New England church, is in Canada on vacation. In his stead, the Rev. R. Ozora Stearns Davis, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, was chosen as the officiating clergyman.

In the serenity of death, Mr. Lawson's body was relegated to the hands of those whose co-operation he had enlisted in building the Daily News to its pre-eminent position, the pallbearers being drawn from the news and composing rooms and business offices, without, however, disturbing the functions of his newspaper.

Her secretary said she had not learned of the project until today when a newspaper informed her.

Extinguish Blaze At Harding Home

With the aid of chemicals and axes, firemen succeeded in extinguishing a roof blaze at the home of W. G. Harding, 300 South Tenth street, shortly after noon today, before the flames had gained any perceptible headway.

Defective wiring was believed responsible for the fire. The damage was estimated at $15.

Firemen were summoned to the residence of P. Rosentha, 1246 Court street, Sunday evening and quelled a fire which broke out in a pile of rubbish in a shed. No damage resulted from the blaze.

United States Fleet Leaves New Zealand For Samoan Islands

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 22.—(AP)—the American fleet was given an enthusiastic send-off on its departure this morning for Pago in the Samoan islands, after its visit here.

The flagship Seattle led the imposing procession of ships out of the harbor while four seaplanes soared overhead.

The wharves were crowded with people eager to bid Godspeed to the American sailors whose manly bearing and good behavior, the New Zealand papers unanimously declared, captured the hearts of the people.

Friendly farewell messages passed between Admiral Coontz, the governor-general, and the prime minister.

SEVEN HANG FOR DEATH OF SIRDAR

Convicted in Murder of Sir Lee Stack in Egypt, Pay Extreme Penalty.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The seven men principally concerned in the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army and governor general of the Sudan, have paid the extreme penalty for their act, which caused such a sensation last November, and which has had such far reaching political consequences.

They were sent to the scaffold yesterday and were hanged at forty-five minute intervals, the hoisting of a black flag each time notifying the crowds outside the prison walls that the trap had fallen.

All went to their deaths with apparent composure, except Dr. Mansour, former deputy, who shouted and struggled with the executioners. The others were Ali Ibrahim Mohammed, Racheb Hassan, Mahmoud Rashed, Mahmoud Ismail, Ibrahim Moussa and Abdel Hamid Enayat.

An eighth prisoner, Abdel Fattah Enayat, received an eleventh hour reprieve, and was sentenced to life imprisonment in view of his services to the crown in turning state's evidence.

CAPTIVES' FATE STILL UNKNOWN

No Word Yet of Eight British Missionaries Taken by China Bandits.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Inquiries as to the whereabouts and welfare of the eight British missionaries kidnaped by Chinese on August 16 have thus far been fruitless. The party, including Bishop Mowll of Toronto, and five women, was taken while at a holiday resort, but details of the capture are lacking.

They are being held by bandits in the province of Szechwan, where communication facilities at present are very unreliable. It is said here that the captured missionaries were among those warned by the British consulate to leave Szechwan during the recent troubles.

Advices from Munyang, in Szechwan, to the London offices of the Church Missionary society last week said all the members of the captured party were reported to be safe and receiving good treatment from their captors.

STATE'S RULE ON INTEREST STANDS

Bond Dealers Fail to Get Modification of 4 1-2 Per Cent Minimum.

New Policy to Discourage Use of Middle Men By Municipalities.

Local bond dealers have been unsuccessful so far in their efforts to get the state board of educational lands and funds to rescind, or at least modify the rule which it recently adopted providing that no more bonds should be purchased on a basis to net less than 4 1-2 per cent interest to the state.

C. E. Lawrence and Don Pettis of Lincoln, who have been buying up Nebraska municipal and school bonds issued at 4 1-2 to 5 per cent, and reselling them to the state at 4 1-4 to 4 1-2, making 1-4 to 1-2 of 1 per cent on each transaction, were at the capitol Monday forenoon and interviewed State Treasurer Robinson and Secretary of State Pool about the matter.

The new policy of the state board is intended to discourage the sale of bonds by cities, villages, school districts an dother subdivisions to private dealers who turn right around and offer them to the state, after clipping off enough interest coupons to give themselves a percentage profit. State officials think the local agencies of government should offer their securities direct and let the state collect the full interest for the benefit of its school fund an dother investment funds.

Mr. Lawrence has at the present time two or three small batches of bonds issued at 4 1-2 per cent which he bought before the board adopted its present rule. He expected the state would take them at a net rate of 4 1-4. If he sells to the state at 4 1-2 he will make nothing and will be out the cost of having the bonds printed.

State Treasurer Robinson was asked to buy these bonds at a price to yield 4.30, but Robinson cannot depart from the 4 1-2 per cent rule unless the board authorizes him to do so. The rule was proposed by Land Commissioner Swanson and voted for by all members of the board. There is not much disposition in evidence to backtrack on it.

The state is said to have lost some revenue through the activities of the outside bond men in persuading local officials to refund bond issues held by the state and drawing 5 to 6 per cent interest, with new securities at 4 1-2. Where this was done, and after the bond dealer took out his commission, the interest return to the state was thus cut down to 4 1-4 per cent.

Lawrence is said to have sent a circular letter to a number of municipalities suggesting this course of action. He formerly held the position of bond examiner in the state auditor's office and is familiar with the various kinds of bonds outstanding. His nephew, Ralph C. Lawrence, is now filling the bond examiner's place.

Dawes Plans A Trip To Coast

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Vice President Charles G. Dawes will attend the diamond jubilee on September 9 of the admission of California to statehood and will discuss his advocacy of revision of the senate rules in several addresses on the Pacific coast early next month.

Arrangements for General Dawes visit to the Pacific coast were definitely completed today. He had been planning such a trip for some time, in response to invitations from friends on the coast.

His schedule provides for a stay from September 5 to September 12. His visits have been arranged as follows:

September 5—Seattle, speaks at night.

September 8-9—San Francisco, no set speeches.

September 11-12—Los Angeles, speaking at night September 11.

The vice president has accepted the invitation of Governor Richardson of California, to attend the state's diamond jubilee celebration and will be in San Francisco for two days. His appearance at Seattle will be under the auspices of the chamber of commerce; at Portland the meeting will be arranged by civic organizations generally. The Los Angeles speech will be delivered at a meeting under the auspices of tha chamber of commerce and the American Legion. While in Los Angeles General Dawes will be the guest of Henry M. Robinson, who was a member of the Dawes committee which worked out the Dawes plan for German reparation payments.

The vice president will leave Chicago on September 1 for the east.

U. S. ENVOY DEAD.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24. —(AP)—Arthur Bailly-Blanchard, United States minister to Haiti since 1914, was found dead in his bedroom at the Mountroyal hotel early today. The coroner's inquest resulted in a verdict of death by natural causes.

Mr. Bailly-Blanchard was born at New Orleans, October 1, 1855, and has been connected with the diplomatic service of the United States since 1885, when he became private secretary to the minister to France. During his forty years of service he held several posts of responsibility, having been charge d'affaires at both Paris and Tokyo previous to his appointment at minister to Haiti in May, 1914.

Tried to Make Trip Quicker to Be With Her Longer; Fined

Desire to negotiate speedily the distance between Lincoln and Plattsmouth so that he could spend a longer time with a girl acquantance there, resulted in L. A. Bender, 2001 L street, appearing in municipal court Monday morning on a speeding charge. After listening to Bender's testimony and that of Motorcycle Patrolman Shively, Judge Hawes imposed a fine of $25 and costs.

The arresting policeman testified that Bender was traveling east on O street at about 38 miles an hour. He said he chased the alleged offender from Thirty-third to Thirty-ninth streets before overtaking him.

Before levying the fine the court admonished Bender to refrain in the future from carrying out any such inclinations to speed.

MAGEE FACING A COURT FIGHT

Albuquerque Editor To Be Given Preliminary Hearing on Slaying Charge.

Fourth Time Colorful Figure Has Been Called to the Bar of Justice.

EAST LAS VEGAS N M Aug 22—(By the Associated Press) — Carl C Magee Albuquerque editor and stormy petrel of New Mexico's politics Wednesday will be embroiled in his fourth fight in the courts of the state but this time for a different charge— he accusation of murder

Charged with the killing of J L Lassetter whom he shot during a fistic battle here Friday night with his political enemy former District Judge David J Leahy in which Lassetter had sought to aid him Magee will appear for preliminary hearing in a Justice of Peace court here next Wednesday

The Albuquerque editor left [illegible] Saturday for his home after he had been accused of being the slayer of Lassetter by a coroner's jury and after he had posted a $1[illegible] bond with the authorities for his appearance in court Wednesday

Friends Furnish Bond

Eight residents of East Las Vegas furnished the bond for the editor

Former Judge Leahy who [illegible] onslaught upon Magee in a hotel here Friday night brought about the shooting is painful [illegible] at his home here with his left [illegible] len by two of Magee's shots Magee brandished a re[volver] and fired three shots after he had been knocked to the floor by Leahy in their clash Lassetter who had rushed to Magee's rescue and was trying to pull Leahy off his prostrate body was the victim of a stray bullet

On Familiar Ground

Entering the courts of this section of New Mexico again Magee will be treading on familiar ground Thrice before he has appeared in the District court here the trials being the origin of the clash Friday night for Leahy was the judge who tried him both cases being marked with intense animosity

In July 1923 he was convicted by a jury in Leahy's court of criminal libel against a State Supreme Court chief justice but pardoned by Governor Hinkle before he served his prison sentence and in July of the next year he was sentenced by Judge Leahy for contempt of court [illegible] when another gubernatorial pardon freed him

His third trial in New Mexico's courts was in Santa Fe N M where he was acquitted of a charge of criminal libel against Jose D Sena court clerk in September 1923

MAGEE FACING A COURT FIGHT

Albuquerque Editor To Be Given Preliminary Hearing on Slaying Charge.

Fourth Time Colorful Figure Has Been Called to the Bar of Justice.

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., Aug. 22—(By the Associated Press)—Carl C. Magee, Albuquerque editor and stormy petrel of New Mexico's politics, Wednesday will be embroiled in his fourth fight in the courts of the state but this time for a different charge—the accusation of murder.

Charged with the killing of J. B. Lassetter, whom he shot during a fistic battle here Friday night with his political enemy, former District Judge David J. Leahy, in which Lassetter had sought to aid him, Magee will appear for preliminary hearing in a Justice of Peace court here next Wednesday..

The Albuquerque editor left here Saturday for his home after he had been accused of being the slayer of Lassetter by a coroner's jury, and after he had posted a $10,000 bond with the authorities for his appearance in court Wednesday.

Friends Furnish Bond.

Eight residents of East Las Vegas furnished the bond for the editor.

Former Judge Leahy, whose fistic onslaughr upon Magee in a hotel here Friday night brought about the shooting, is painfully injured at his home here, with his left arm broken by two of Magee's shots. Magee brandished a revolver and fired three shots after he had been knocked to the floor by Leahy in their clash. Lassetter, who had rushed to Magee's rescue and was trying to pull Leahy off his prostrate body was the victim of a stray bullet.

On Familiar Ground.

Entering the courts of this section of New Mexico again, Magee will be treading on familiar ground. Thrice before he has appeared in the District court here, the trials being the origin of the clash Friday night, for Leahy was the judge who tried him, both cases being marked with intense animosity.

In July, 1923, he was convicted by a jury in Leahy's court of criminal libel against a State Supreme court chief justice, but pardoned by Governor Hinkle before he served his prison sentence, and in July of the next year he was sentenced by Judge Leahy for contempt of court and served a day and a night in jail, when another gubernatorial pardon freed him.

His third trial in New Mexico's courts was in Santa Fe, N. M., where he was acquitted of a charge of criminal libel against Jose D. Sena, court clerk, in September, 1923.

'DOT' ELLINGSON FACES SENTENCE

Judge to Fix Penalty of 17-Year-Old Girl Next Wednesday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Convicted of manslaughter by a jury Saturday night, Dorothy Ellingson, 17-year-old confessed matricide, has been returned to jail to await sentence by Judge Harold Lauderback next Wednesday. A manslaughter verdict carries a penalty of one to ten years in the penitentiary. Dorothy will be eligible to parole after the first year.

The Ellingson girl took the verdict calmly. She was chewing gum when the jury filed in to announce its decision. During her previous trial the girl was emotional and at times hysterical. As a result the murder trial was halted and a sanity hearing held instead.

Since her first trial Dorothy has become a convert to the Roman Catholic faith and throughout her trial on a murder charge the Rev. R. Drathman of Stignatius church, has been near to cheer her.

The girl shot and killed her mother, Mrs. Josephine Ellingson, wife of a tailor, January 13 last at their home because her mother refused to consent to the girl's going to a "jazz" party. The girl fled after the shooting and a few hours later attended the party.

She was arrested the next day in a cheap lodging house here. Dorothy showed no remorse and readily confessed the shooting to the authorities.

At the first trial the jury found the Ellingson girl insane and she was committed to the state hospital for the insane at Napa, where she remained a month under observation. After this detention alienists pronounced her sane and she was again brought to trial on a charge of murder.

BOLD HOLDUP IS PULLED IN OMAHA

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.—While a majority of the local police department were attending a baseball game at the Western league park Sunday afternoon, a lone bandit held up and robbed the cashier of a restaurant in the downtown section and escaped with $140 in cash.

The bandit entered the establishment and quietly ordered the cashier who was seated to stand up and then walked behind the counter where he proceeded to rifle the cash register of its contents. So deftly did he work that his actions were not observed by patrons seated at the tables. They were not aware that a robbery had been committed until the robber had made his exit and the frightened cashier spread the alarm.

The bandit hailed a passing motorist, who is thought to have been an accomplice in the robbery.

The Omaha police defeated the Sioux City, Ia., police, 5 to 1 in a baseball game which is an annual event between the two forces.

The King's Bones.

By Arthur Brisbane.

It is explained that Belgium's easy terms in debt settlement are based on the fact that Woodrow Wilson, exceeding his authority and ignoring the power of congress in making treaties, fixed his signature to certain papers, thus binding the United States.

Woodrow Wilson's signature, without congressional authorization, bound the United States not at all. And it establishes a dangerous precedent, when an illegal act, even on the part of a glorious war president, inflated with enthusiasm, is accepted as binding on this country.

We might have another president wandering around Europe in the role of world savior, and heaven knows what he might do, putting the United States under obligations to foreign nations.

Treat Belgium kindly by all means, but don't recognize, even semi-officially, the binding character of any official's illegal act.

Germans, demanding first causes, investigate suicide and say that 80 per cent of all classes are caused by "hunger and love," in other words, two kinds of hunger, physical and spiritual.

At Long Beach, the wife of a stock broker kills herself with veronal, after quarreling with her husband. Her short note read, "Dear boy, sorry to cause you trouble. Goodbye." That's hunger, of a sort.

Berlin maintains an "anti-suicide bureau," where the desperate and discouraged apply, asking how life can be made worth while. More than 800 have applied within two months.

In Germany the chief trouble in 60 per cent of cases is poverty, psysical hunger. That can be adjusted. But when it's "soul hunger," a young female for instance, convinced that there is only one perfect man on earth, the one that she can't get, the case is harder.

"Time at length makes all things even, even for poor Uncle Tom. He will appear in a British musical comedy version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." And what Harriet Beecher Stowe would think aboult it, you may decide.

In the musical comedy, Uncle Tom will shoot Legree stone dead, after which he will dance the Charleston to the tune of "Them Cotton Pickin' Blues." Eliza and the bloodhounds chasing her over the ice will be cut out. The last scene will show Uncle Tom, with a big cake, at a wedding.

That performance will be equaled by the British manager determined to produce Shakespeare with actors in modern clothing. Hamlet in a "Tuxedo" would match Uncle Tom shooting Legree.

Scientists have unearthed the tomb of a king of the Mayas, ruling over Mexico and other lands long centuries before Columbus made his trip.

Pictures of the king and his high priestess are found in the tomb. Four columns, which once held up a king's body, and a few human bones, are scattered about the floor. Those bones were once the skeleton holding up a mighty king.

"I am Ozymandias, king of kings, look upon my works, ye mighty ones, and tremble."

How strange, to that old Mayan king, would seem the men that now look upon his crumbling bones.

What sort of being, in ages to come, will uncover our cities of today, decipher our books, read accounts of our wars with poison gases and say, "Very much like the wolves, but rather more intelligent."

John McCormack, Irish tenor, retiring at 50, nine years hence, if he does not change his mind, will live in Ireland, in the Curragh of Kildare. Says this popular singer, "I emphatically refuse to broadcast."

That is foolish in two ways. It diminishes McCormack's usefulness. He should be proud to be heard by millions. And it cuts down his income, which comes from talking machine records, more than concerts.

Broadcasting would increase the demand for records, millions would want to hear, over and over, at will, the voices heard on the radio. That statement is not based on any guess. Hugh Grant Straus of the great Brooklyn firm, Abraham & Straus, told this writer that following the only occasion on which McCormack sang for the radio, there was an unprecedented rush to buy records of his voice, lasting more than a week. That should interest Mr. Johnson, who controls records by McCormack and many other greater singers.

Prof. Cazzamali of Milan says the human brain sends out radio waves that travel a long distance. That may be. The human brain is certainly a receiving station for inspiration coming from afar.

Cazzamali adds that brain waves can be harnessed, arranged on a code basis and used for communication at a distance, from brain to brain. That is interesting, pseudo-scientific nonsense.

The transmission of thought requires speech, word by mouth, or letters forming speech ticked out on some instrument. If Cazzamali were right it would have been waste of time to create man as a speaking animal, living in a material world.

The whole thing might have been done by waves. But, force cannot act without matter, the brain cannot function without force and matter as its instruments. That is why we are sent down to this material plane, to do, to be, and to suffer.

HARRY ABBOTT, VETERAN COURT BAILIFF, DEAD

Albert J. Cornish and, when the latter was elevated to the supreme bench, being named for the position by Judge Willard E. Stewart.

Had Wide Acquaintance.

Harry Abbott had perhaps a wider personal acquaintance than any other one man in Lancaster county. In the old days of party caucuses and county and state nominating conventions, he was a resident of the First ward, where he was at all times reckoned with as a power. He was not only acquainted with, but was on intimate terms with practically every voter in the ward and with most of those in the adjoining precincts. And he knew where they stood. Those with whom he was associated in those stirring days knew that they could place implicit confidence in his judgment in regard to "his people" and his statements were accordingly relied upon. His precinct invariably came in "right."

Had Keen Sense of Humor.

Mr. Abbott was possessed of a wonderfully retentive memory, a keen sense of humor and a philosophical bent of mind. These qualities made him a most interesting conversationalist and when engaged in recounting reminiscenses of earlier days, as he was wont to do, he was always certain of an attentive audience. Little details of political battles of long ago, many of which might perhaps have been forgotten by all of the participants save himself, were recounted in his own inimitable way ,to the keen delight of some who heard, but at times to the embarrassment of others.

The predominating characteristic of Harry Abbott, and the one which accounted for his degree of success in political affairs, was his loyalty. He was loyal not only to those with whom he was associated and who depended upon him to "deliver the goods," but he was loyal to those whose support he solicited; whose votes he asked on behalf of his friends. These knew that when he told them a candidate stood for certain things his word could be depended upon. They were with "Harry" and they never disappointed him because he never disappointed them.

Laughed at Trouble.

Harry Abbott radiated good cheer. Good fortune was not always at his elbow, but melancholy never attended him. There were many times in his life when others placed, in like position would have been cast down, despondent and in despair. But he met adversity with a smile and trouble with a defiant laugh. He loved life, loved his family, his friends and his country. He had no enemies, hated no one. His opponents in politics and other affairs he did not even despise. He appraised them as best he might and laid his lines of battle accordingly. He did not fight to beat the other fellow; he fought that his friends might win.

During the time that Mr. Abbott was confined to the hospital he was visited by great numbers of people from every walk in life. City, county and state officials found their way to his cot, while business and professional men called to pay their respects and say a cheering word to one whose words had generally been freighted with cheer for others. And then there were visitors who were neither officials, nor business nor professional men. They were just workers from down in the old First ward, where Harry had lived so long—when he had depended upon them and they had depended upon him.

Received Many Flowers.

During the weeks that he lay there, knowing that it must be but a short time until the final summons came, flowers in profusion came to the ward, sent by people in all walks of life.

Mr. Abbott is survived by three daughters and three sons, Mrs. Roy E. Brian, Jasper, Minn.; Mrs. Earl B. Crouse, Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. Ambrose E. Alexander, Lincoln; George E., Clarence E., and Harry A., all of Lincoln. His wife, who was Miss Clara Fusha, and to whom he was married at Denton forty-four years ago, passed away two years ago.

Brothers and sisters surviving are Frank E. Abbott, Omaha; Edward C. Abbott, Gilt Edge, Mont.; John Abbott, Lincoln; James B. Abbott, Denton; Mrs. John Bellew, Omaha; Mrs. Gertrude Garrett, Tacoma, Wash.; Mrs. J. P. Wigg, Lincoln and Mrs. Fred Giles, Denton.

GOOD SEASON FOR AUTO INDUSTRIES

Summer Vacationist, Manufacturer, Oil Producer Traveling Together.

Lower Prices on Cars Brings Enormous Demand; Move High Gas.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The summer vacationist, American automobile and oil production are traveling hand in hand to a successful season. These reports of the two industries came from Detroit, the motor city, and from the southwestern oil fields.

Pa and ma and the family, paying a little less for the car, from "bus" to brougham, and paying a little more for gasoline, have helped these two industries meet their problems. The problems have been almost exactly opposite, that in the automotive field due to lowering of prices, and in the oil to the contingencies accompanying higher prices.

In motors, leaders described the problem as conservatism, the purpose being to avoid over-estimating the expected increase in buying by the public at the easier prices. Up to August 1, the increase in manufacture of passenger cars in the United States was 192,760 over the same period of the preceding year. The increase in truck manufacture for the same seven months was 56,037. Nevertheless, late in August the motor city reported business rushing to keep up with the increase in demand.

Speeding Production.

A. P. Sloan, jr., president of the General Motors corporation, said: "Every effort is being made to get production up to sales."

Several Detroit plants are working night shifts. H. Ponting, business manager of the Detroit News, said that "the number of men employed in Detroit is greater than during the same period of the last four years."

Mr. Sloan attributed price reductions to "economies in manufacture and more intensive engineering."

Another important automobile change of this summer was the increased popularity of closed cars. One large Detroit organization building many closed bodies, reported that its plants were turning out 20 per cent more bodies than had been planned.

One of the oil problems was whether higher prices might bring production and storage so fast as to force the facing of unsettling conditions of a price drop. This week opens with several active campaigns on for lowering gasoline prices, but with reports from the southwest that the basic conditions of oil production are steady.

TWO DEAD, TEN HURT IN STORM

Wind Sweeps Texas Towns and Bay Shore Littered With Debris.

HOUSTON, Aex., Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The death toll in the storm which swept Kemah and Seabrook Saturday night was raised to two Sunday when Leonard Parker, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parker, died in a local hospital. Leonard received a fractured skull when the bayside house of J. H. Bohmfalk, where the Parker family took refuge during the storm, was wrecked.

Mrs. M. J. Parker, 58, grand mother of Leonard, died Saturday night.

None of the injured was in a serious condition Sunday and all seemed to be improving rapidly. A complete check shows ten injured. All of the seriously injured were brought to Houston Saturday night, when nearly every ambulance in Houston rushed to the relief of the stricken communities.

The bay shore is littered with the debris of wrecked camps and shacks.

ACCIDENTS CAUSE INJURY TO FOUR

Victims of Two Mishaps In Lincoln Sunday Are Recovering.

Two auto accidents in Lincoln Sunday afternoon resulted in injury to four persons. None of the injuries, however, were of serious nature.

Those injured were: Mrs. C. W. Reeves, 1011 Sumner; Kathrine Michael, 18, 1015 Claremont; Mollie Trickel, 17, 731 Charleston and Alex Michael, 15, 1015 Claremont. All were reported in an improved condition Monday.

Mrs. Reeves suffered a sprained ankle and several bruises when the sedan driven by her husband collided at Thirty-third and Orchard streets with a car driven by Harold Hansen, route 1, Havelock, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Reeves car is said to have been overturned. Mrs. Reeves was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital in Castle, Roper & Matthews' ambulance. Later she was able to go to her home. In the Reeves car at the time of the accident were Mr. and Mrs. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Reeves of Denton, the former's parents and two children. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen and their four children occupied the other car.

The other three persons were injured when their automobile, driven by Alex Ostwald, 14, 1045 Charleston, overturned on North Ninth street, two blocks north of Claremont. Miss Michael suffered bruises about the face and body. Miss Trickel also received bruises about the head and body. She is said to have been partly under the car after it had overturned and was in a dazed condition for a short time. Alex Michael received cuts above the eye and on the chin. Peter Hergenrader, 948 Charleston, was also in the car at the time of the accident but escaped unhurt.

CLOSELY GUARD MANUFACTURER

Wealthy New Yorker Claims Plot to Weaken Control Of His Business.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.) — As the result of what he regards, as attempts by women to lure him, and other plots, Max Phillips, wealthy collar manufacturer and polo player, is being closely guarded on his 700 acre estate near Eatontown, N. J.

Eight armed detectives are on guard. Phillips carries a pistol. Watch dogs give warning if a stranger approaches.

Meanwhile three women, presumably detectives, and a male detective, are out on bail after being arrested on Phillips' complaint. The purpose of the plots, he says, is to weaken his control of the Phillips-Jones company. The hounding has persisted for months at the instigation of a New York banker, he says.

The women were arrested on his estate Friday night after detectives in his employ had listened to his conversation with them by means of a telephonic device. He says the women tried to lure him aboard a yacht and take a trip to New England with the intention of having him arrested for violation of the Mann act.

DENVER, Colo—Max D. Neusteter, president of the Neusteter Co., and nationally known in the women's apparel industry, died at his home here Sunday after a six months' illness.

CHICAGO PRE-MED STUDENT IS SLAIN

John Klasinn, Mankato, Kas., Slugged and Fatally Beaten Sunday.

Sweetheart of Young Woman He Spoke to On Street Admits Led Assault.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—John Klasinn, premedical student of the University of Chicago and son of a wealthy Kansas ranch owner, was slugged and fatally beaten here Sunday by friends of a young woman he addressed on the street.

Archie Carlini, 21, a checker, and sweetheart of Inez Parise, Chicago, who admitted he inspired the assault, and four youths, some of whom confessed participating in the attack, are under arrest.

James R. Mitcham, 21, also a pre-medical student, who like Klasinn was to be a junior in September, also was beaten. Mitcham's home is in Fort Worth, Tex.

Klasinn's home is in Mankato, Kas.

Carlini and his companion are alleged to have attacked Klasinn after the latter spoke to the Parise girl, who, with her two sisters, Dolores, 14, and Cima, 13, were standing on the front porch of their home talking to Carlini. A granite paving block was found near the scene of the assault.

Dies at Hospital.

Klasinn, his skull fractured, died in a hospital soon after the attack. He was a member of the Gamma Rho fraternity.

When Klasinn saw the three girls talking to Carlini, he is alleged to have said:

"Well, it's a shame that you have to be alone with three girls. Can't we make it a party?"

Whereupon Garlini resented the remark and shouted:

"What do you think these girls are? They're nice girls. Get out of here!"

"I'm sorry," Klasinn said. "We didn't mean any harm.'

The two students then turned and walked away. Inez told police she tried to restrain Garlini from any show of violence, but that he tore away from her and followed the two.

About five minutes later, Mitcham said, two or three blocks from the Parise home, six men suddenly surrounded Klasinn and Mitcham.

The two were slugged. Mitcham told officers that he fought back and then ran away. He last saw Klasinn, also fighting back, running on the same street with two men in pursuit.

Two Are Injured When Cars Crash

OMAHA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. M. W. German of Council Bluffs, Ia., was seriously injured here last night when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband collided with another machine and was wrecked. She was taken to a local hospital suffering from a fractured shoulder and severe cuts and bruises.

Donald Anderson, seven, who was riding with his father in the other machine was thrown through the windshield by the impact and received cuts and body bruises.

MANILA—Con. Francesco Di Pondo, Italian aviator, attempting a flight from Italy to Japan, landed at Antimonon, Tayabas province, Sunday to await more favorable weather for the hop to Manila. Fear for his safety had been felt after he failed to reach Manila seven hours after taking off from Cebu.

BERLIN—Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, arriving Sunday from The Hague, declared the outlook was favorable for the United States participating in the world court. The issue probably will come up in the senate December 17, he said.

TAINTED MONEY.

Wisconsin university is much aroused over the question of accepting gifts of money from rich men for the support of its educational institutions.

The recent action of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin in declining the offer of [illegible] for the purpose of constructing a new building for the medical college is not to pass unchallenged. The money was to have been given by the General Education board which has been endowed by John D. Rockefeller. By a vote of [illegible] to 6 the board decided against accepting any Rockefeller dollars. In making known their reasons the regents declared they did not want to place the university under the obligation of any great corporate interests.

Although Senator La Follette is dead his influence is seen in the action of the regents. Fighting Bob during his lifetime kept a most careful watch upon the great educational institution of his native state. He carefully abstained from dragging it into politics but nevertheless he did succeed in exercising a large influence in the shaping of its policies. Men were called to positions on the faculty at Wisconsin who shared similar economic and political views. From Nebraska went one man who expounded a philosophy very similar to that which La Follette preached for twenty five years. In the last decade a dozen men who had attained distinction in a similar fashion received attractive offers from Wisconsin. When the question of selecting a new president for the university of Wisconsin a few months ago was uppermost one of the difficulties which had to be met was to pick a man who was willing to accept the La Follette view of government. That situation was responsible it was said for the declination of at least one man who was tendered the place.

So in refusing to accept a Rockefeller endowment the regents spoke as the late Senator La Follette would have had them speak. Unfortunately neither the regents or La Follette's followers have sensed the change that has come in the attitude of big business so far as it relates to gifts of money. There was a time when such endowments represented a sinister and menacing influence. They gave for the selfish purpose of cultivating thought favorable to their purposes. That day has passed. Great corporations know now that they cannot influence public opinion in this fashion. They would be the last to try it. The fact is that many of the very rich men of the country are giving huge sums to education and charity for the joy of giving. They have ample for their needs. They give away their surplus to fill out an otherwise well rounded and successful life.

Even in Wisconsin there is coming to be a recognition of the new attitude which big business has adopted. The legislature of that state will be asked to take definite steps to force the regents to accept the gift. It promises to develop into the most bitter fight in the battle torn history of Wisconsin.

THE LARGEST LIBRARIES

In the well-known yearbook 'Index Generalis' there appears a list of the fifty three biggest libraries in the world. The largest is the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris with 3,500,000 volumes. Our Library of Congress stands next with 2,918,256 volumes and is fast overtaking its French rival. The New York public library is third with 2,63[illegible]0 volumes and the British Museum library at London fourth with [illegible]00,000 volumes. The Harvard University library in this country comes fifth with [illegible]1,000 volumes.

Of the fifty three listed all having [illegible]00,000 volumes or more sixteen are in this country or 30 per cent. Of the sixteen libraries having a million volumes or more six are in the United States—practically 40 per cent.

Again our country typifies bigness.

And bigness in many minds typifies crudeness.

Of course we're crude. So was Athens at the height of her intellectual reign and so was Rome at the top of her power. When those cities started down the long easy slope they lost most of their crudeness. When they were on that slope Alexandria city of commerce at the mouth of the Nile was boasting of her riches and her strength and assembling the greatest library the world has ever seen.

In the crude Egyptian city where men thought only of business and power was saved the fruits of ancient civilization for the modern world. More than that a huge volume of new science new art and new literature poured out. The New Testament was written in Alexandrian Greek and thus reached Europe.

Crudeness and bigness may not be virtues to boast. America is really rather ashamed of them. At least they are indications however of a vigorous state of society that is likely to live and carry on knowledge when others have forgotten theirs or lost it.

UNJUSTIFIED SALARY GRABBING

The spectacle of a former appointive official trying to collect several thousand dollars of extra pay for his services real or imaginary as the receiver of several failed banks covering the same period of time when he was drawing a regular salary of $4,000 a year as head of the state trade and commerce department again raises the question as to whether public office is a public trust or a privy to snap for the whole hog [illegible].

A few [illegible] ago [illegible] the running of the [illegible] the private receivers of suspended banks in Nebraska [illegible] the affairs of these institutions became more [illegible] valuable assets [illegible] them were dissipated and [illegible] being eaten up by huge fees of the receivers their lawyers and other assistants so that little or none of the money went back into the state guaranty fund to reimburse it for what had been taken out to pay the depositors of these banks.

There were conspicuous exceptions where receivers conscientiously worked to save as much as possible out of the assets and succeeded in returning substantial amounts to the guaranty fund. Had all of them done so it would have materially lightened the burden of special assessments upon solvent banks [illegible] pay the losses of those which went under. [illegible] private receivership system [illegible] wasted the property of the failed banks and [illegible] fitted nobody except those who drew fat salaries and fees for administration and legal services.

It was to end that state of things that the state bankers of Nebraska asked and the legislature of 1923 created the guaranty fund commission. The new body made up of practical and successful bankers was authorized to take over all the receiverships and did soon after it came into existence. It adopted the plan of having its own members take charge of the closed banks each in his own section of the state. Monthly meetings are held at which reports are made and notes compared. The commission claims to have greatly reduced the cost of handling the assets of failed banks by this method.

Under the law the head of the state trade and commerce department who is entrusted with the supervision of state banks insurance companies and blue sky administration is ex officio chairman of the guaranty fund commission. He is in effect a liaison officer between the state department and the commission. He is not supposed to take time away from his official duties at the capitol to go out over the state and personally assume the management of failed banks but only to see that they are administered honestly and efficiently.

It now develops that when R. C. Knudson was acting as trade and commerce secretary and head of the state banking bureau in 1923 and 1924 he had a private arrangement with the guaranty fund commission whereby he was to act as receiver for two banks in Omaha one in Lincoln and one at Waverly and was to receive out of their assets collectively the sum of $2,500 a year over and above the $4,000 a year which the state paid him in the official position he held.

This arrangement appears to have been in direct violation of section 7 47 of the Nebraska law governing all officers assistants and employes of the code departments which says:

"Secretaries and appointees to devote their entire time to office. Each secretary and each appointee in each department shall devote his entire time to the duties of his office and shall hold no other office or position of profit."

Nothing could be plainer than this language. Mr. Knudson was holding the position as trade and commerce secretary at $4,000 a year. He was bound by law to give his entire time to the duties of that office. He was not privileged to act on the side as a bank receiver and draw $2,500 a year more.

Aside from the legal aspect the transaction was hardly an honorable one. It was less creditable for Mr. Knudson to use his official prestige and authority in this manner to increase his own personal income in disregard of the law then it was for some of the other code department heads under the Bryan regime to go before the last legislature asking for additional pay. The latter were courageous enough to brave the public condemnation which they must have known beforehand such a request would arouse.

One payment of $750 has been made under court order as receivership fees to the ex department head. He has claims pending for $3,499 more. Should these be finally allowed and paid it will not tend to increase popular respect for the way in which laws are administered and the courts apply them.

THE NEW TURKEY

Turkey still occupies the overland trade routes to the rich lands of the east as Mohammedan peoples have done for hundreds of years and shows no immediate tendency of departing. Yet the Christian world's prospect for free communication with certain inner regions of Asia are brighter than ever for the simple reason that Turkey is adopting the ways of its neighbors.

Dr. William P. Peet retiring treasurer of the American Red Cross in Constantinople and former Lincoln resident who returned to this country recently after forty-five years spent in the east as a missionary worker came back with a great faith in the future of Turkey. The American automobile is being introduced there he states as well as the American newspaper system.

A land of huge natural resources Turkey has nevertheless been a debtor nation for many years states Dr. Peet in an interview given recently. Lack of national unity and transportation facilities has caused that situation. Now the government hopes to unify the people by newspapers while roads and automobiles will do much to supply transportation.

What will be the change in Turkey if it emerges from the debtor class? How many unreasoning wars would it enter as it has in the past? As a creditor it would feel more responsibility and more stability and as a creditor it would not be tempted to battle as a means of wiping off those debts. Since the seventh century A. D. when the Arabs fawned on the then all powerful Constantinople to borrow funds and then finally destroyed that city to cancel the obligations Mohammedans have hated Europeans because of their financial superiority.

If Europeans and Christians will look on their difficulties more in the light of economic problems than religious differences they will sooner find that those problems have become negligible.

A REJECTED GIFT

It is hard lines when one tries to be generous and cannot.

That is the unpleasant experience of Edmund Stinnes the son of the late Hugo Stinnes German industrialist whose amazing supertrust has gone to smash. Young Stinnes attempted to give the stock controlling interest in the Aga Automobile company's plant to 12,000 workmen who had been employed by him. It was estimated that the stock was worth about $500,000 in American money. Stinnes motives in turning it over to the workmen were not wholly philanthropic for he hoped in this manner to even the score with German bankers who refused to extend him credit and who held notes against him.

But the socialistic element among the workmen looked with suspicion on the gift. They succeeded in convincing their fellow workers that it should not be accepted. As a result they turned it down.

The incident is typical of the practical workings of socialism. In making the gift to the workmen Stinnes was making it possible for them to put their political theories into actual practice. It carried with it control of the factory—the largest automobile manufacturing plant in Germany. But the workmen were not able to trust themselves or their benefactor. They thought there was a hidden trick because they were naturally suspicious of human nature. Socialism is a fine topic for parlor discussion but a poor formula for actual achievement.

THE CALL OF THE GYPSY SPIRIT

Come, he said, let's press along,
You and I, my love, together.
You shall find that I am strong,
I have the [illegible] leather.
It is time that we were forth,
[illegible]
[illegible] shall be sharing
And [illegible] each [illegible]
What, my sweet one, do you say?

There's a wild[illegible] gypsy spirit
That is calling me to go.
Listen, darling, can't you hear it
Yonder where the free winds blow?
There are hills that roads wind over,
There are valleys green and wide
That are sweet with scents of clover,
And I long to be a rover
With you roving at my side.

"Let us turn our backs to those
Who prefer the crowded places,
And at night find sweet repose
Though the rain splash in our faces.
I am strong, my soul is yearning
For the highways winding far.
There with me you shall be learning
How [illegible]
All the wonders that there are."

"It's a very lovely earful
That you've handed out," said she,
"But I'm just a little fearful
Of this gypsy stuff, ah me.
Sunsets yonder may be ruddy
And the nights sometimes be clear,
But the roads will oft be muddy,
And if you're so darned strong, Buddy,
Why not find a job right here?"

In Sickness and in Health

The average man likes to believe that he is possessed of some unusual mysterious physical quality that sets him on a pinnacle just a little above his fellows. While on the other hand we have the other extreme in those who think that they have their own only for [illegible] two the happy medium stage but it is so commonplace that it does not appeal to most of us.

Too much stress cannot be placed upon one's mental attitude in cases of illness. The cheerful optimistic type of person who minimize their sickness and look upon it as a transient or inevitable visitation are those who will respond most favorably and quickly to treatment.

The melancholy depressed individual who is continually harping of the misery and suffering he endures is the most unsatisfactory patient. Doctor [illegible] to treat the [illegible] because they [illegible] that better results are [illegible] in those who look upon the bright side of things.

In every large hospital there are helpless cases that doctors or nurses cannot help to any great extent. Amongst these incurables are those who although possessing full knowledge of their condition continue to smile and radiate cheer. It hearten those in attendance to know that their efforts are appreciated even though they can do but little things to give relief.

The individual with a [illegible] disposition when well becomes a [illegible] when ill. All of us slip off some of our veneer of refinement and politeness when feeling badly. It is almost unbelievable that man with his much vaunted mental achievement will resort so easily to the primordial.

Those who are in attendance on the sick should have their sense [illegible] cheer up the sick patient but an unexpected rebuff when one is doing all that is humanely possible will often put to flight the consideration that the patient is out of sorts.

Friends and relatives feel concern in proportion as they feel affection for the afflicted one. However all emotion is transitory. If you are cross and mean when indisposed you cannot blame people if they [illegible] accept that as your real nature and relieve you alone.

Questions on health topics may be addressed to Dr. Perry in care of this newspaper.

Q. I am a woman 45 years of age. As a girl I worked in the fields walking over hard ground and I [illegible] have big puffs in front and [illegible] ankle bones on the outside of my feet. My ankles and feet are tired and ache all the time. Please advise me what to do. Farmer's Wife.

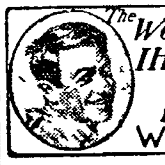
The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS



The worst story I heard today was told to me by Jim McIntyre of that wonderful team of McIntyre and Heath who can entertain an audience just as good today as they ever could. Jim teaches the negro language to most of the New York negroes.

Jim sold me some lots on Long Island once that was seventeen years ago and I haven't ever been able to find them yet. Jim always was a comical kind of a bird either off or on. We won't speak of the lots now but if I ever find em—

Well Jim and Tom Heath were traveling down south years ago with their own minstrel troup when Jim says he found an old man all bent over and limping.

"Hello Zeb what's ailing you?"

"Got a big corn between my two toes and it sure is hurting something terrible."

"Lemme see it maybe I can do you some good."

"Taint no good to bother with it. It's been there for six weeks."

"But it won't do any harm to let me try." So he removed the old man's boot.

"Great gun man how long you say you been suffering?"

"Jes about 6 weeks."

"Why this aint any corn. It's a collar button."

Now come to think of it that would [illegible] and it may be what's the matter with a lot of [illegible] there is certainly [illegible] in the world.

Then it is possible with that man [illegible] to find out what was the matter with his feet. There's no way of seeing.

But this story never happened in those days where Jim was because there was no collar buttons around where they traveled.

Repeal Capital Punishment

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Aug. 21.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I read a number of articles where the war mothers and others tried to save the life of Walter Simmons from the electric chair. I am as much opposed to capital punishment as any one but to go to the governor with sympathetic pleas in such matters is just heaping additional burdens upon him. The governor would gladly have saved the life. No governor wants to have a man put to death. It is not the governor nor the pardon board nor the courts. It is the people that have the laws made and the laws as they stand demand life upon such occasions. The people of Nebraska [illegible]

They call it law. The people elect the legislature and from that body comes the law.

Now ladies and gentlemen if you don't like this law repeal it by direct initiative and referendum. That is just what we have the initiative and referendum for to give the people a chance to make laws if the legislature don't work to suit them. In order to initiate this or any matter it requires a large petition and no one or two persons can swing that part of the game so it is up to some organization. Why don't those war mothers all over the state get up a petition with headquarters at Omaha and have the people vote on the repeal of the law. Then we will get some where and not until then. What about the Woman's clubs of Nebraska and all such good organizations. Here is a chance to exercise your rights and good motives and accomplish something and not wait until some other fellow is just about to be led out to the chair and then begin to ask the governor to take law into his own hands after he has taken oath of office to execute the law.

An Inspector's Appetite

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 21.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: If newspapers have quoted Mr. Dalby correctly relative to the great saving he contemplates making via his ruling that state inspectors must confine themselves to an allowance of $1.60 per day eats then indeed he raises a fine haired question.

Mr. Dalby holds that his daily expenses to satisfy his appetite hover around the $1.60 mark.

But Mr. Dalby's appetite is a swivel chair appetite. It isn't fanned by any labor after 5 o'clock each day and on Saturday afternoon it isn't agitated at all.

Can a swivel chair appetite be compared with one out in the state working long hours each day? Can it be compared with the pounding along from town to town via automobile.

But Dalby wants to Coolidgize on economy.

Why not begin on his own $5,000 a year salary? That his predecessors drew only $4,000 for doing the same work we all know. But Dalby never thought of that. He just picked out the poorest paid laborers in the state and nailed him on his grub allowance. Like Josh Billings he is so patriotic he would sacrifice all his wife's relations.

The state inspector is the fellow who does the work—the real work—in any department. He has a right to be measured other than via his appetite. Big business concerns never quibble over what their employes eat. It is what they do that counts. Not so with Dalby. Why hire an inspector with an appetite at all?

Guards at The Pen

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 24.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Just now you are hearing a lot of talk about prisoners getting away from the penitentiary. I want to say it is not the fault of the warden. When the present warden took charge of the penitentiary there were over 200 men [illegible] now there are almost 700 with many waiting to get in and not many more employes to guard them. One thing I want to ask the taxpayers of the state board of control [illegible] you expect to hire men that will take interest in their work and risk their lives every day for [illegible] $60 [illegible] month [illegible] hours per day [illegible] one [illegible] get any time off. How can a man give service under these conditions. Is there any wonder that they go to sleep on the walls and [illegible] two men where there is but one. I say when they get good men at the pen they will not stay long under such circumstances. I say give those men a living wage and make working conditions pleasant [illegible] their lives every day for the people of this state and [illegible] My plan would be to get [illegible] guards give good wages and make working conditions better and then demand service. When we send men to the pen we want them to stay and serve their time. I want to say that the warden at the pen is O. K. and a good man for the place and the good people of this state will never get a better man for the head of the institution but he must have tools to work with. I want to relate one instance where the warden is saving money for the state which I think is wrong. I understand there is a life term convict who examines all packages sent to the prisoners. I admit this man saves the state $1 [illegible] a year but I want you to expect this man to [illegible] in his work. There is nothing to prevent this man from letting guns or [illegible] in. He violated the law once why won't he do it again. When the blow-up comes and three or four men get killed it will be too late. The man [illegible] this important work. I am not censuring Mr. Fenton for trying to save the state money but I think this is the wrong kind of economy. I say a man should not get less than $100 per month and every year he is there he should get a raise in pay that will induce him to stay and the longer he stays the better man he will be for the place and then we will have no more will men going to sleep on the job and seeing two men where there is but one. I ask you to publish this letter so the taxpayers and board of control will have something to think about.

Here and There

Rivers Hold the Key

(Kansas City Star.)

The Mississippi Warrior barge lines [illegible] of the middle-western states [illegible] and [illegible] showed a net profit of more than 4 per cent on investment in property and equipment the first five months of this year. And the lines made that showing by operating at a rate [illegible] per cent below that charged by the railroads.

Isn't there a lesson here for this region? Can any doubt remain that the transportation relief this section needs must come through [illegible] rivers? [illegible] increased [illegible] but if the [illegible] in this [illegible]

[illegible] would remain. The rail rates now are burdensome. They are not likely to be lightened. This section is paying the penalty that often is exacted where there is dependence upon a single form of transportation. River navigation would promote carrier competition of a wholesome kind. It would aid development of the region and the [illegible] increased traffic [illegible] would be handled by the railroads and at lower rates than now prevail.

The rivers point the way out. They [illegible] the permanent solution of the middle West's transportation problem.

Improved Highways

(Harvard Courier.)

One who doesn't use the roads in a state with [illegible] can hardly realize how much improvement has been made in the highways during the last few years. Four or five years ago I drove over a certain stretch of road that was so rough that it took me all day to negotiate it. Saturday I covered the same road starting after dinner and was [illegible] in time for supper. This condition is becoming true all over the state. I know of roads that used to [illegible] impassible. Now they are graded and graveled and are as smooth as pavement.

TAINTED MONEY.

Wisconsin university is much aroused over the question of accepting gifts of money from rich men for the support of its educational institutions.

The recent action of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin in declining the offer of $600,000 for the purpose of constructing a new building for the medical college is not to pass unchallenged. The money was to have been given by the General Education board which has been endowed by John D. Rockefeller. By a vote of 9 to 6 the board decided against accepting any Rockefeller dollars. In making known their reasons, the regents declared they did not want to place the university under the obligation of any great corporate interests.

Although Senator La Follette is dead, his influence is seen in the action of the regents. Fighting Bob during his lifetime kept a most careful watch upon the great educational institution of his native state. He carefully abstained from dragging it into politics, but nevertheless he did succeed in exercising a large influence in the shaping of its policies. Men were called to positions on the faculty at Wisconsin who shared similar economic and political views. From Nebraska went one man who expounded a philosophy very similar to that which La Follette preached for twenty-five years. In the last decade a dozen men who had attained distinction in a similar fashion received attractive offers from Wisconsin. When the question of selecting a new president for the university of Wisconsin a few months ago was uppermost, one of the difficulties which had to be met was to pick a man who was willing to accept the La Follette view of government. That situation was responsible, it was said, for the declination of at least one man who was tendered the place.

So in refusing to accept a Rockefeller endowment the regents spoke as the late Senator La Follette would have had them speak. Unfortunately neither the regents or La Follette's followers have sensed the change that has come in the attitude of big business so far as it relates to gifts of money. There was a time when such endowments represented a sinister and menacing influence. They gave for the selfish purpose of cultivating thought favorable to their purposes. That day has passed. Great corporations know now that they cannot influence public opinion in this fashion. They would be the last to try it. The fact is that many of the very rich men of the country are giving huge sums to education and charity for the joy of giving. They have ample for their needs. They give away their surplus to fill out an otherwise well-rounded and successful life.

Even in Wisconsin there is coming to be a recognition of the new attitude which big business has adopted. The legslature of that state will be asked to take definite steps to force the regents to accept the gift. It promises to develop into the most bitter fight in the battle-torn history of Wisconsin.

THE LARGEST LIBRARIES.

In the well-known yearbook, "Index Generalis," there appears a list of the fifty-three biggest libraries in the world. The largest is the Biblitheque Nationale in Paris with 3,500,000 volumes. Our Library of Congress stands next with 2,918,256 volumes and is fast overtaking its French rival. The New York public library is third with 2,637,505 volumes; and the British Museum library at London fourth with 2,500,000 volumes. The Harvard University library in this country comes fifth with 2,101,000 volumes.

Of the fifty-three listed, all having 500,000 volumes or more, sixteen are in this country or 30 per cent. Of the sixteen libraries having a million volumes or more, six are in the United States—practically 40 per cent.

Again our country typifies bigness.

And bigness, in many minds, typifies crudeness.

Of course we're crude. So was Athens at the height of her intellectual reign, and so was Rome at the top of her power. When those cities started down the long easy slope they lost most of their crudeness. When they were on that slope, Alexandria, city of commerce at the mouth of the Nile, was boasting of her riches and her strength and assembling the greatest library the world has ever seen.

In the crude Egyptian city, where men thought only of business and power, was saved the fruits of ancient civilization for the modern world. More than that, a huge volume of new science, new art and new literature poured out. The New Testament was written in Alexandrian Greek, and thus reached Europe.

Crudeness and bigness may not be virtues to boast. America is really rather ashamed of them. At least they are indications, however, of a vigorous state of society that is likely to live and carry on knowledge when others have forgotten theirs or lost it.

UNJUSTIFIED SALARY GRABBING.

The spectacle of a former appointive official trying to collect several thousand dollars of extra pay for his services, real or imaginary, as the receiver of several failed banks, covering the same period of time when he was drawing a regular salary of $4,000 a year as head of the state trade and commerce department, again raises the question as to whether public office is a public trust or a private snap for those who hold it.

A few years ago the manner in which some of the private receivers of suspended banks in Nebraska were handling the affairs of those institutions became more or less of a scandal. Valuable assets which belonged to them were dissipated and cash realized therefrom was being eaten up by huge fees of the receivers, their lawyers and other assistants, so that little or none of the money went back into the state guaranty fund to reimburse it for what had been taken out to pay the depositors of these banks.

There were conspicuous exceptions where receivers conscientiously worked to save as much as possible out of the assets and succeeded in returning substantial amounts to the guaranty fund. Had all of them done so it would have materially lightened the burden of special assessments upon solvent banks to pay the losses of those which went under. But the private receivership system, generally speaking, wasted the property of the failed banks and benefitted nobody except those who drew fat salaries and fees for administration and legal services.

It was to end that state of things that the state bankers of Nebraska asked and the legislature of 1923 created the guaranty fund commission. The new body, made up of practical and successful bankers, was authorized to take over all the receiverships and did soon after it came into existence. It adopted the plan of having its own members take charge of the closed banks, each in his own section of the state. Monthly meetings are held at which reports are made and notes compared. The commission claims to have greatly reduced the cost of handling the assets of failed banks by this method.

Under the law, the head of the state trade and commerce department, who is entrusted with the supervision of state banks, insurance companies, and blue sky administration, is ex-officio chairman of the guaranty fund commission. He is, in effect a liaison officer between the state department and the commission. He is not supposed to take time away from his official duties at the capitol to go out over the state and personally assume the management of failed banks, but only to see that they are administered honestly and efficiently.

It now develops that when K. C. Knudson was acting as trade and commerce secretary and head of the state banking bureau in 1923 and 1924, he had a private arrangement with the guaranty fund commission whereby he was to act as receiver for two banks in Omaha, one in Lincoln, and one at Waverly, and was to receive out of their assets collectively the sum of $2,500 a year, over and above the $4,000 a year which the state paid him in the official position he held.

This arrangement appears to have been in direct violation of section 7,247 of the Nebraska law governing all officers, assistants and employes of the code departmenst, which says:

"Secretaries and appointees to devote their entire time to office. Each secretary, and each appointee in each department, shall devote his entire time to the duties of his office, and shall hold no other office or position of profit."

Nothing could be plainer than this language. Mr. Knudson was holding the position as trade and commerce secretary, at $4,000 a year. He was bound by law to give his entire time to the duties of that office. He was not privileged to act on the side as a bank receiver and draw $2,500 a year more."

Aside from the legal aspect, the transaction was hardly an honorable one. It was less creditable for Mr. Knudson to use his official prestige and authority in this manner to increase his own personal income, in disregard of the law, then it was for some of the other code department heads under the Bryan regime to go before the last legislature asking for additional pay. The latter were courageous enough to brave the public condemnation which they must have known beforehand such a request would arouse.

One payment of $750 has been made, under court order, as receivership fees to the ex-department head. He has claims pending for $3,499 more. Should these be finally allowed and paid, it will not tend to increase popular respect for the way in which laws are administered and the courts apply them.

THE NEW TURKEY.

Turkey still occupies the overland trade routes to the rich lands of the east, as Mohammedan peoples have done for hundreds of years, and shows no immediate tendency of departing. Yet the Christian world's prospect for free communication with certain inner regions of Asia are brighter than ever for simple reason that Turkey is adopting the ways of its neighbors.

Dr. William P. Peet, retiring treasurer of the American Red Cross in Constantinople and former Lincoln resident who returned to this country recently after forty-five years spent in the east as a missionary worker, came back with a great faith in the future of Turkey. The American automobile is being introduced there, he states, as well as the American newspaper system.

A land of huge natural resources, Turkey has nevertheless been a debtor nation for many years, states Dr. Peet, in an interview given recently. Lack of national unity and transportation facilities has caused that situation. Now the government hopes to unify the people by newspapers, while roads and automobiles will do much to supply transportation.

What will be the change in Turkev if it emerges from the debtor class? How many unreasoning wars would it enter, as it has in the past? As a creditor, it would feel more responsibility and more stability, and as a creditor it would not be tempted to battle as a means of wiping off those debts. Since the seventh century A. D. when the Arabs fawned on the then all-powerful Constantinople to borrow funds, and then finally destroyed that city to cancel the obligations, Mohammedans have hated Europeans because of their financial superiority.

If Europeans and Christians will look on their difficulties more in the light of economic problems than religious differences, they will sooner find that those problems have become negligible.

A REJECTED GIFT.

It is hard lines when one tries to be generous and cannot.

That is the unpleasant experience of Edmund Stinnes, the son of the late Hugo Stinnes, German industrialist, whose amazing supertrust has gone to smash. Young Stinnes attempted to give the stock controlling interest in the Aga Automobile company's plant to 12,000 workmen who had been employed by him. It was estimated that the stock was worth about $500,000 in American money. Stinnes' motives in turning it over to the workmen were not wholly philanthropic for he hoped in this manner to even the score with German bankers, who refused to extend him credit and who held notes against him.

But the socialistic element among the workmen looked with suspicion on the gift. They succeeded in convincing their fellow workers that it should not be accepted. As a result they turned it down.

The incident is typical of the practical workings of socialism. In making the gift to the workmen, Stinnes was making it possible for them to put their political theories into actual practice. It carried with it control of the factory—the largest automobile manufacturing plant in Germany. But the workmen were not able to trust themselves or their benefactor. They thought there was a hidden trick because they were naturally suspicious of human nature. Socialism is a fine topic for parlor discussion but a poor formula for actual achievement.

That is calling me to go;
Listen, darling, can't you hear it
Yonger where the free winds blow?
There are hills that roads wind over,
There are valleys, green and wide
That are sweet with scents of clover,
And I long to be a rover,
With you roving at my side.

"Let us turn our backs to those
Who prefer the crowded places,
And at night find sweet repose
Though the rain splash in our faces.
I am strong; my soul is yearning
For the highways winding far;
There, with me, you shall be learning
How to dream, and much concerning
All the wonders that there are."

"It's a very lovely earful
That you've handed out," said she;
"But I'm just a little fearful
Of this gypsy stuff, ah me!
Sunsets yonder may be ruddy,
And the nights sometimes be clear,
But the roads will oft be muddy,
And if you're so darned strong, Buddy,
Why not find a job right here?"

Daily Health Talks

In Sickness and in Health.

The average man likes to believe that he is possessed of some unusual, mysterious, physical quality that sets him on a pinnacle just a little above his fellows. While, on the other hand, we have the other extreme in those who think that they have their own "only for me" afflictions of the flesh. Between the two the happy medium stage, but it is so commonplace that it does not appeal to most of us.

Too much stress cannot be placed upon one's mental attitude, in cases of illness. The cheerful, optimistic type of persons, who minimize their sickness and look upon it as a transient or inevitable visitation, are those who will respond most favorably and quickly to treatment.

The melancholy, depressed individual, who is continually harping of the misery and suffering he endures, is the most unsatisfactory patient. Doctors much prefer to treat the former, because they know that better results are attained in those who look upon the bright side of things.

In every large hospital there are hopeless cases that doctors or nurses cannot help to any great extent. Amongst these incurables are those who, although possessing full knowledge of their condition, continue to smile and radiate cheer. It heartens those in attendance to know that their efforts are appreciated, even though they can do but little things to give relief.

The individual with a "touchy" disposition, when well, becomes a pest when ill. All of us slip off some of our veneer of refinement and politeness, when feeling badly. It is almost unbelievable that man, with his much vaunted mental achievement, will resort so easily to the primordial.

Those who are in attendance on the sick should have their sensibilities intact. Everyone expects to cheer up the sick patient, but an unexpected rebuff, when one is doing all that is humanely possible will often put to flight the consideration that the patient is "out-of-sorts."

Friends and relatives feel concern in proportion as they feel affection for the afflicted one. However, all emotion is transitory. If you are cross and mean when indisposed you cannot blame people if they accept that as your real nature and relieve you alone.

Questions on health topics may be addressed to Dr. Perry in care of this newspaper.

Q. I am a woman 45 years of age. As a girl I worked in the fields, walking over hard ground, and I now have air puffs in front of my ankle bones, on the outside of my feet. My ankles and feet are tired and ache all the time. Please advise me what to do. Farmer's Wife, Mrs. M. N.

A. It is highly probable that your arches have been injured. I cannot advise treatment by long distance. A good doctor can determine the exact deformity and prescribe for you in a suitable manner.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

The worst story I heard today was told to me by Jim McIntyre of that wonderful team of McIntyre and Heath, who can entertain an audience just as good today as they ever could. Jim teaches the negro language to most of the New York negroes.

Jim sold me some lots on Long Island once; that was seventeen years ago and I haven't ever been able to find them yet. Jim always was a comical kind of a bird either off or on. We won't speak of the lots now, but if I ever find 'em—!

Well, Jim and Tom Heath were traveling down south years ago with their own ministrel troup, when Jim says he found an old man all bent over and limping.

"Hello Zeb, what's ailing you?"

"Got a big corn between my two toes, and it sure is hurting something terrible."

"Lemme see it, maybe I can do you some good."

"'Tain't no good to bother with it, it's been there for six weeks."

"But it won't do any harm to let me try." So he removed the old man's boot.

"Great guns, man, how long you say you been suffering?"

"Jes' about 6 weeks."

"Why this ain't any corn. It's a collar button."

"Now come to think of it that would bother a fellow, and it may be what's the matter with a lot of people, because there is certainly some bad dogs in the world.

Then it is possible with a fat man to never be able to find out what was the matter with his feet. There is no way of seeing.

But this story never happened in those days where Jim was because there was no collar buttons around where they traveled.

Repeal Capital Punishment.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Aug. 21.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I read a number of articles where the war mothers and others, tried to save the life of Walter Simmons from the electric chair. I am as much opposed to capital punishment as any one, but to go to the governor with sympathetic pleas in such matters is just heaping additional burdens upon him. The governor would gladly have saved the life. No governor wants to have a man put to death, it is not the governor nor the pardon board nor the courts. it is the people that have the laws made and the laws as they stand, demand life upon such occasions. The people of Nebraska hired a man with the tax money to kill the prisoner. They call it law. The people elect the legislature and from that body comes the law.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you don't like this law, repeal it by direct initiative and referendum. That is just what we have the initiative and referendum for, to give the people a chance to make laws if the legisture don't work to suit them. In order to initiate this or any matter it requires a large petition, and no one or two persons can swing that part of the game, so it is up to some organization. Why don't those war mothers all over the state get up a petition, with headquarters at Omaha and have the people vote on the repeal of the law. Then we will get some where and not until then. What about the Woman's clubs of Nebraska and all such good organizations. Here is a chance to exercise your rights and good motives and accomplish something and not wait until some other fellow is just about to be led out to the chair and then begin to ask the governor to take law into his own hands after he has taken oath of office to execute the law.

JAMES PEARSON.

An Inspector's Appetite.

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 21.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: If newspapers have quoted Mr. Dalby correctly, relative to the great saving he contemplates making via his ruling that state inspectors must confine themselves to an allowance of $1.60 per day eats, then indeed he raises a fine-haired question.

Mr. Dalby holds that his daily expenses to satisfy his appetite, hover around the $1.60 mark.

But Mr. Dalby's appetite is a swivel chair appetite. It isn't fanned by any labor after 5 o'clock each day, and on Saturday afternoon it isn't agitated at all.

Can a swivel chair appetite be compared with one out in the state working long hours each day? Can it be compared with the pounding along from town to town via automobile?

But Dalby wants to Coolcrize on economy!

Why not begin on his own $5,000 a year salary? That his predecessors drew only $4,000 for doing the same work, we all know. But Dalby never thought of that. He just picked out the poorest paid laborers in the state and nailed him on his grub allowance. Like Josh Billings, he is so patriotic he would sacrifice all his wife's relations.

The state inspector is the fellow who does the work—the real work—in any department. He has a right to be measured other than via his appetite. Big business concerns never quibble over what their employes eat. It is what they do that counts. Not so with Dalby. Why hire an inspector with an appetite at all?

CECIL MATTHEWS.

Guards at The Pen.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 24.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Just now you are hearing a lot of talk about prisoners getting away from the penitentiary. I want to say it is not the fault of the warden. When the present warden took charge of the pen, there were over 200 men and now there are almost 700 with many wanting to get in, and not many more employes to guard them. One thing I want to ask the taxpayers and state board of control. How can you expect to hire men that will take interest in their work and risk their lives every day for from $60 to $75 a month working 12 hours per day? The day men, I understand, get off one day every two weeks, the night men never get any time off. How can men give service under these conditions? Is there any wonder they go to sleep on the walls and see two men where there is but one? I say when they get good men at the pen they will not stay long under such circumstances. I say give those men a living wage and make working conditions pleasant for them because they are risking their lives every day for the people of this state and nation. My plan would be to get plenty of guards, give good wages and make working conditions better and then demand service. When we send men to the pen we want them to stay and serve their time. I want to say that the warden at the pen is O. K. and a good man for the place and the good people of this state will never get a better man for the head of the institution, but he must have tools to work with. I want to relate one instance where the warden is saving money for the state which I think is wrong. I understand there is a life term convict, who examiner all packages sent to the prisoners. I admit this man saves the state $1,500 a year, but how can you expect this man to be careful and take interest in his work? There is nothing to prevent this man from letting guns or dope come in. He violated the law once, why won't he do it again? When the blow-up comes and three or four men get killed it will be too late to hire a man to do this important work. I am not censuring Mr. Fenton for trying to save the state money, but I think this is the wrong kind of economy. I say a man should not get less than $100 per month and every year he is there he should get a raise in pay that will induce him to stay and the longer he stays the better man he will be for the place, and then we will have no more wall men going to sleep on the job and seeing two men where there is but one. I ask you to publish this letter so the taxpayers and board of control will have something to think about.

BURCHARD PICNIC.

(Special to The Star.)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., Aug. 24.—Burchard's two-day picnic closed Saturday night with a record attendance at the affair. Numerous forms of entertainment were on the grounds with a ball game each day as the major attraction. The first day Liberty was defeated by Burchard, and Saturday afternoon's game resulted in a 7 to 6 victory for Steinauer.

Here and There

Rivers Hold the Key.

(Kansas City Star.)

The Mississippi-Warrior barge line saved shippers of the mid-western states $658,000 and in addition showed a net profit of more than 4 per cent on investment in property and equipment the first five months of this year. And the lines made that showing by operating at a rate of 20 per cent below that charged by the railroads.

Isn't there a lesson here for this region? Can any doubt remain that the transportation relief this section needs must come through use of the rivers? The railroads are seeking increased rates. But if their efforts in this direction are blocked, as they should be, the transportation problem would remain. The rail rates now are burdensome. The load is not likely to be lightened. This section is paying the penalty that often is exacted where there is dependence upon a single form of transportation. River navigation would promote carrier competition of a wholesome kind. It would aid development of the region and the produce increased traffic, part of which could be handled by the railroads and at lower rates than now prevail.

The rivers point the way out. They offer the permanent solution of the middle West's transportation problem.

Improved Highways.

(Harvard Courier.)

One who does not use the roads on a statewide scale can hardly realize how much improvement has been made in the highways during the last few years. Four or five years ago I drove over a certain stretch of road that was so rough that it took me all day to negotiate it. Saturday I covered the same road, starting after dinner and was home in time for supper. This condition is becoming true all over the state. I know of roads that used to be almost impassable. Now they are graded, and graveled, and are as smooth as pavement.

Links Divide Sunday Twin Bill With Indians

EVEN DIVISION OF SUNDAY SPOILS

Links Lose First Game When Whitey Felber Smashes Homer In Ninth.

Wilson Balks Redskins In Second Game and Links Win, 5 to 4.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 24—Links and Indians divided the spoils in a Sunday doubleheader, the home tribe annexing victory, 5 to 4, in a ninth-inning rally and the visitors forging to the front in the second encounter by a similar score.

Jimmie Christian for the Links and Joe Brown for the Indians collided in a hurling duel in the curtain-raiser, the Lincoln right-hander having a distinct edge until the combat entered the final lap. Trailing on the short end of a 4-2 score when the Indians took their final turn at bat, Whitney Felber pounded out a home run with two runners on the bases, netting the Indians the three runs needed to win. The Links outbatted the Indians by a comfortable margin, but Felber spoiled it all with his cricuit smash.

Wilson Outpitched Roberts.

Lefty Wilson stacked up against Red Roberts in the second game and the Lincoln southpaw demonstrated that he has conquered his tendency to wildness by walking but one batter and striking out eight. The result was in doubt until the eighth, when the Links peeled off three runs and compiled a commanding advantage of 5 to 1 in the scoring. The Indians came right back with three runs in their half, but Wilson was supreme in the ninth and turned back the Redskins without a run.

Moore, Shaner and Gottleber accounted for the bulk of the batting and run-making for the Links, each poling four hits in the two games.

The final contest of the Links-Indians series is scheduled for Monday, following which the Links will pull away to St. Joseph. The Sunday scores:

Corpse of Fighter To Lay In State

MANILA, Aug. 24.—(I. N. S.)—The body of Pancho Villa, flyweight boxing champion, lay in state here today, with plans for a week of mourning until the burial next Saturday. Crowds were at the dock yesterday when the steamer President Harrison arrived from California with the body of the little fighter.

Charles Welch, past 50 years of age, of the Baldwin team of the Monroe-Randolph County league, in Illinois, boasts a batting record of 400 for the present season. He is a pitcher for the team.

When the American league started in 1900, the annual expense for baseballs for the entire league was about $4,000, while it is now five times that amount. An average of 24 balls is used in each game.

BENNET YOUTH IS COUNTY CHAMPION

Lewis Russell Shows Up As Best of Them All In Barnyard Sport.

HORSESHOE WINNERS.
Champion—Lewis Russell.
Second—A. W. Ewing.
Third—Bernard Good.
Fourth—William Boyd.
Fifth—Joe Hamlon.
Sixth—C. L. Finlay.

Lewis Russell, eighteen-year-old farmer lad of Bennet, won the 1925 horseshoe pitching championship of Lincoln and Lancaster county in competition with a field of twenty-five pitchers Sunday. The matches were held on the Nebraska State fair grounds lanes, which also will be the scene of the annual state tournament to be held during the Nebraska exposition early in September.

Russell, the new champion, has only been tossing the iron for a year and one-half, practicing noons and evenings in his father's barnyard. He throws a shoe with a one and one-quarter turn, his shoes being swift and low, showing perhaps less variation than any of the Sunday pitchers.

In Tie With Ewing.

The crowd of barnyard golf followers that gathered at the fair grounds was treated to an extra thrill when young Russell and A. W. Ewing, 1924 champion, finished the finals in a tie, having won eleven of the thirteen contests. Bernard Good took the measure of both players, while Feathers had beaten Ewing and the 1924 champ had trimmed Russell.

In the match game of fifty points between Ewing and Russell, the Bennet lad won by a decisive margin, 50 to 18. Russell tossed thirteen ringers and Ewing was credited with eight.

Good Wins From Boyd.

In the pitch-off for third money, Bernard Good won from Boyd, 51 to 31. Good had the best record of ringers thrown in any game Sunday, tossing twelve ringers out of 26 six shoes for a mark of 46 per cent.

In an exhibition match following the windup of the tourney, Thompson of Ashland defeated Russell, 50-22. Thompson, however, was fresh for the contest, while the Lincoln champion had been through a gruelling series of play to win his title.

Touching the Bases.

Despite the fact that the present Giants-Pirate series may cut New York out of its share of the 1925 world series, 55,000 fans saw the Pirates break even in a Sunday doubleheader and maintain their five-game lead over the Giants. Young Greenfield proved more effective in the opener than old man Adams and the Giants registered, 7 to 4. In the second the Giants got 12 hits, but had 13 left on the paths and the Pirates won, 3 to 2.

Vance pitched the Robins into fourth place, but the Cubs took the second game 9 to 7, with Alexander on the mound.

Alex Ferguson held the slugging Tigers to four hits and the Senators won, 6 to 4, maintaining their one-game lead over the Athletics.

Gray outpitched Lyons and Philadelphia, with the aid of home runs by Simmons and Miller, defeated the White Sox, 3 to 0.

A wild pitch by Pennock, a piece of strategy in the ninth, nearly went out of the park and the Indians accepted a game from the Yankees, 7 to 6.

Ray Schalk, aged 33, catcher for the Chicago White Sox for 13 years, played in more than 1620 games. His period of service behind the bat has established a record in organized baseball.

PIRATES SURELY ON WAY TO FLAG

Smoky City Outfit Proves Class and Courage In Gotham Series.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(I. N. S.)—If the writer's memory does not play him false, it is his impression that it was only a few days ago that the Pittsburgh Pirates were being referred to in certain articles as a club with a competitive heart the size of a ball bearing. That was the Pirates' trouble, they said. Just a ball club that couldn't rise to an emergency.

This might be taken as a deplorable state of affairs and the writer would be only too glad to have the volunteer pall bearers form on the left, if it had not been for the fact that the late week-end provided an emergency and the Pirates provided the self-rising batter, both human and semifluid.

Equal To Emergency.

They simply bounded right up to meet the emergency at the top of its arc, and beat in the Giants in three of the first four games. A fifth and final contest is scheduled for this afternoon, but it seems to have become of slight consequence.

Working on a five-game lead, about the only way the Pirates can lose the pennant now is to leave the country. They have thirty-nine games to play and if they lose more than half of them, they still can head the Giants at the wire even if the latter considerably improve their present pace by winning twenty and losing thirteen.

The burden of proof, therefore, is all on the Giants and they are carrying more than they want right now.

Giants Failed in Crisis.

They were the ones to show the strain most in the early games of the present series. They won the first game yesterday, but it was the Pirates who came from behind to win the second, which also was the case Saturday, when Pittsburgh pulled out a victory in the late innings of the second game. This would appear to be the manners of a pretty good ball club.

As a matter of fact, the Pirates have had to show more than gameness to win the majority of games played. Like the Giants, they entered the series somewhat weakened from injuries. They had a substitute at second base and in right field, but the former, Johnny Rawlings, proved to be the life of the series.

Carey Out of Lineup.

The club, however, has missed Max Carey, its field captain, best base runner and outfielder and one of its leading hitters. You don't replace men like Carey seven days in every week, but the Pirates have managed to live this down.

It takes real courage to go on winning with two of your best ball players lost to you on the eve of the year's biggest series.

Pirates-Giants Divide Pair At New York Park

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates drew an even break in a twin program with the New York Giants Sunday winning the second game, 3 to 2, after losing the opener, 7 to 4. Pittsburgh continues to lead in the National league flag race by a five-game margin. Rawlings, New York cast-off, drove in the winning run for the Corsairs. A crowd of 55,000 saw the game, thousands of others being turned away. By innings:

Dodgers-Cubs Split Pair.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 24.—Brooklyn divided a doubleheader with Chicago yesterday winning the first game, 6 to 0, and dropping the second, 9 to 7. Dazzy Vance was close to a no-hit game in the opener, the Cubs getting only two scratch hits. Vance fanned nine batters. Alexander had a rocky road to victory as the Robins outbatted the Cubs in the second encounter. A. Brown, a southpaw recruit, was permitted to pitch six innings, Captain Fournier deferring to the fans, although Brown was erratic. By innings:

Second Round In Antelope Tourney

Elton George won a second round match in the second flight of the annual Antelope Golf club tournament Sunday, defeating J. W. McKibbin, 3 and 2. Jim Beltzer won over J. L. Roscow in the fourth flight, 4 and 3.

In fourth flight first round matches, W. S. Elliott defeated W. C. DeVriendt, 4 and 3, and Glenn Fordyce won from W. R. Rumel, 7 and 6.

Fairmont Shooter High Gun Sunday

Frank Baand of Fairmont was high gun in a Sunday practice shoot staged by the Lincoln Gun club at Capital Beach. Baand broke 92 targets in shooting at 100. R. A. Brown of Lincoln ranked second with 45 hits out of 50. The Sunday scores: Baand, 92x100; Brown 45x50; Carter, 44x50; Linderman, 43x50; H. L. Wood, 41x50; Bivins, 36x50; J. A. Wood, 35x50; VanDorn, 20x50; Schnake, 29x50.

HERE AND THERE IN BASEBALL

Pirates Look Like Cinch.

Pennant prospects of the Pittsburgh Pirates are soaring with the clouds. Knocking down the Giants in three of the four games of the present New York series, the Buccaneers can lose the Monday battle and still pull away from Gotham with a commanding lead—a margin so great that it appears to be quite beyond the hopes of the McGraw aggregation to overtake its rivals. The standings of the two teams today follow:

	G	W	L	Pct.
Pirates	115	70	45	.609
Giants	121	68	53	.562

The remainder of the 154-game schedule favors the Pirates, who will play only three series away from home. The Giants must go on the road in September, making the complete swing around the western circle. The western trip was disastrous to the Giants on their last junket, as the McGraw club was well drubbed in St. Louis and Cincinnati, although it succeeded in winning three out of four from the Cubs and getting an even break of four games with the Pirates at the Smoky City park.

Assuming that the Pirates will win at least twenty of their remaining thirty-nine games, an analysis of the figures discloses that the Giants to capture the flag, must reel off twenty-three victories in thirty-three starts during the final six weeks of the pennant race—a task which appears to be quite beyond the New York club's possibilities.

Instead of winning only twenty games, the Pirates, like as not, will add at least twenty-three to their victory column, while the Giants would be doing well indeed to win nineteen and lose only fourteen during the final dash to the wire. If this latter phophesy is verified by actual results, the percentage figures at the windup of the season would read:

	G	W	L	Pct.
Pirates	154	93	61	.604
Giants	154	87	67	.565

Conceding to the Pirates only twenty victories in thirty-nine games, the Smoky City crew would finish the season with a percentage of .584. To climb to a tie with Pittsburghers, the New Yorkers must win twenty-two games while losing eleven, in which event the figures would stand:

	G	W	L	Pct.
Pirates	154	90	64	.584
Giants	154	90	64	.584

It isn't in the dope, quite apparently, for the Giants to win a fifth successive pennant. This is a Pittsburgh year.

All Depends on Marberry.

Judging from the figures, Pitcher Fred Marberry will or will not win the pennant for Washington. The bunting seems to be in the keeping of Fred's rubber arm, which has swung into action 49 times this year. That means that he has been on the slab in every two and a third game. From these relief expeditions, he has drawn seven victories and four defeats. He has issued 33 bases on balls and fanned 47. Vangilder of St. Louis, Rommel and Walberg of the Athletics have each figured in 38 games.

Roy Hutson started out to be a teacher down Missouri way, but the Brooklyn scouts saw him play in the outfield for Springfield of the Western association and now he is a Robin.

Demons Grab Two Games From Saints

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 24.—Des Moines took both games from the Saints in a Sunday double-header by scores of 8-2 and 6-0. Thomas and Moon went the full route for the Demons, who fielded with but one error in the two games and made their hits with runners on the bases. Griffin and Stuvengen each poled five hits in the two games. The scores:

AMATEURS CLASH IN THREE GAMES

Sandlotters Do Their Stuff In Triple Bill At Landis Field.

Gaddis, Cleaners and Woodmen Teams Victorious In Opening Round.

Before a good-sized gathering of fans, the Lincoln amateur championship baseball tournament got under way at Landis Field Sunday afternoon with a triple bill of three fast ball games.

In the curtain-raiser, the Gaddis Construction Co. won over the Lincoln Ramblers, 7 to 3. The Varsity Cleaners disposed of the City Hall Wildcats, 10 to 7, in the second game. In the final encounter, the Modern Woodmen defeated the Havelock Boilermakers, 13 to 7.

Heavy hitting in the first and fifth innings enabled the Gaddis Contractors to eliminate the Ramblers. The Contractors rushed Barney to the showers in the first frame and nicked Dick, Rambler relief pitcher, for four runs in the fifth.

Recroft Fans Twelve.

Recroft, who toiled for the Gaddis club, scattered eight hits throughout the game, turning back twelve batters by the strikeout route.

The Varsity Cleaners scored seven runs in the first two innings of their game with the City Hall Wildcats and coasted through to a 10 to 7 victory. The Wildcats were wild with the willow, but perfectly tame on the bases and in the field. The City Hall bunch outhit the Cleaners two to one, but seemed to carry a trifle too much avoirdupois to shine in the field or on the paths.

Daugherty, who started for the Cleaners, was effective, but was forced to retire in the sixth. Floth who took up the mound duty, seemed fairly easy for the Wildcats.

Gilliland to Rescue.

Excellent relief pitching by Gilliland enabled the Modern Woodmen to defeat the Havelock Boilermakers, 13 to 7. The shoptown pastimers bunched hits with errors for several runs off Latta in the first two innings and apparently were off to win by a big margin. Pitcher Gilliland, however, was rushed to the rescue and he proceeded to stand the Boilermakers on their heads the remainder of the game, striking out twelve and allowing but two hits in seven innings. WITH THE AMATEURS.

Monday and Tuesday [illegible] Mursons and Lincoln Independents [illegible] tangle tonight and the Capital City Tires and Snozo Ulinias will cross bats Tuesday. Both games are called for 5 p. m., and fans will be admitted free.

Gilliland, relief pitcher for the Woodmen, showed the real goods in smothering the Havelock Boilermakers. "Gillie" struck out nine of the first ten batters to face him. His fast ball caught the Boilermakers flat footed. The Shoptowns scratched two hits off of him in the eighth, but he fanned two men to pull himself out of trouble in that inning.

Frank Ullstrom of the Cleaners had a big day at bat. He poled a triple and two doubles, drew a walk and lived on an error in five trips to the plate. Cameron of the Contractors got a single, double and triple in three official trips at bat.

Louis Stroud of the Contractors made a fine stop of [illegible] in left field. [illegible] a nice catch in left field. [illegible] the Boilermakers made a fine throw to the plate from center field in the final game. Kean, who was trying to score from second after R. Yordy's single, was nipped with several yards to spare.

The three games were run off in a speedy manner, the caliber and manner of play looking improved over two years ago, when the Lincoln Amateur association had two leagues in operation.

Mickey Risks His Crown In Indiana Ring

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will take his title into the ring with him when he meets Sailor Freedman tonight at the East Chicago arena. Both fighters will be under the 147-pound welterweight limit.

The row over the selection of a referee, which for a time threatened to bring about cancellation of the match, was settled yesterday when Jim Mullen, Aurora, Ill., promoter, was accepted by both sides.

Rods Twice Drubbed By Wichita Izzies

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 24— The Izzies had all the better of the Burch Rods in both hitting and pitching yesterday and snatched two victories by scores of 14-5 and 14-0. Gregory's pitching featured the second game, the Wichita veteran allowing one scratch hit in the seven innings. The scores:

Gray Puzzle To White Sox; Wins Shutout Victory

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—Home run smashes by Al Simmons and "Bing" Miller, the latter with a man on base, enabled Philadelphia to shut out Chicago, 3 to 0, yesterday. Sam Gray, ace of the Athletics' pitching staff, held the White Sox to seven hits, four of which were made by Bob Falk. Ted Lyons also pitched good ball, the two four-baggers being the only heavy blows off him. Simmons' blow was his twenty-second homer of the year.

The White Sox played without the services of Manager Eddie Collins who is in the hospital with a strained ligament. Collins will be unable to play for at least a week. By innings: R H E

DETROIT, Aug. 24—Alex Ferguson, Boston and New York castoff, held Detroit to four scattered hits and Washington won Sunday's game 6 to 4. A home run by Stanley Harris in the seventh, scoring Ferguson and Rice, gave Washington the runs that were the margin of its victory. After holding Detroit to two hits, up to the ninth Ferguson faltered, allowing two hits and passing two men. Marberry, who relieved him, pitched one ball, Rigney driving it to Rice in deep right for the last put out of the game. By innings: R H E

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—For the third successive day Cleveland defeated New York by one run, yesterday's score being 7 to 6. Both Shocker and Karr, who started the game, were knocked out of the box. Speece, who replaced Karr, did not allow a man to reach first. Pennock, who also was effective, lost in the ninth when J. Sewell reached third when Combs let his single go through him. Burns was passed purposely and with Sturgeon at bat a wild pitch scored Sewell. Ruth made his fourteenth homer of the year, Karr being the victim. By innings: R H E

FINAL TRIBUTE IS PAID PIONEER

Funeral Services Are Held For Mrs. Anna Thomssen At Alda.

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 24.—Paying their final tribute to the late Mrs. Anna Thomssen, well known and highly esteemed nonagenarian settler and pioneer of Hall county, fully five hundred persons attended the funeral services held at Alda Friday afternoon. After two services, one at the home and another at the church, burial was made in the Grand Island cemetery.

A brief service conducted in the German language was held at the home of the deceased at two o'clock, the Rev. H. Schumann, of Grand Island, officiating. At 2:30 p. m. the casket was removed to the Methodist church, across the street from the residence, and a service was held in English language with the Rev. A. V. Hunter, also of Grand Island, in charge.

Following reading of the scriptures, the twenty-third Psalm and chapter 4, of John, Rev. Hunter drew a picture of the life of Mrs. Thomssen, as she had met and lived it on the wide expanses of the Nebraska praries, during the early days, and to her death. Her task had been well preformed, he said, and her life had been a distinct contribution to her community. The pastor emphasized that even with the humble start, comparatively, to enter upon life, the performance of her task, of right living, might well serve as a model for those of our day, who have so many conveniences in life.

The floral display was rich in its store. Six women were named as honorary pall bearers and they assisted in carrying the flowers. They included the Mesdames James Modesitt, J. D. Shriner, J. C. Jaskel, R. R. Simpson, William Barr and E. V Bush

Special music at the church included two hymns, "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee," sung by the Methodist church choir. All sons of early pioneers of Hall county, the pallbearers were Charles Menck, Henry Joehnck, William Hagge, Emil Stolley, Ben Ewoldt, and August Schoel.

New Traffic Rules For Pawnee City

(Special to The Star.)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., Aug. 24.—New regulations governing auto traffic in this city are embodied in an ordinance just passed by the council. A speed limit of 15 miles per hour in the business district and 20 miles per hour elsewhere in the city is fixed, and parking is set at defined places. Half-block turns are prohibited, as is open cutout driving.

Gotham Fight Over A Mayor Waxes Warm

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—References to millionaires, "high brows" and a wide open town figure in the latest appeals to New Yorkers as to why they should not vote for some of the candidates for mayoralty nominations at the primaries September 15.

William M. Bennett and John J. Lyons, insurgent republicans, regard the regular republican designee, Frank D. Waterman, as a "carpet bagger democrat masquerading with the republican ticket," and as a "millionaire hand-picked by a group of millionaires."

While they were airing these views on the Sabbath, Mayor Hylan was giving warning that a wide open town was being sought by Tammany, which is opposing him for the democratic nomination.

On Staten Island, County Judge J. H. Harry Tiernan, described Mayor Hylan as the puppet of William R. Hearst. Every vote for the mayor, he said, is a vote for Hearst against Smith in the 1928 democratic national convention.

Catholics Plan New Church And School Building

M'COOK, Neb., Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—The return of Bishop Beckman to Lincoln from his pilgrimmage to Rome revives the big building project contemplated for Indianola, near here, which has been in abeyance during the bishop's three month's absence.

A Catholic church, parochial school and priest's house are planned in the project, and $100,000 is to be expended. The church and priest's house will first be built, the school to come later. A tract of five acres has been purchased adjoining the Indianola city park on the west.

James Dolan of Los Angeles California, has given $50,000 for this project. Mr. Dolan was formerly a banker at Indianola.

COOLIDGE FACES RESTFUL WEEK

Executive May Extend Swampscott Stay Until After Labor Day.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Coolidge began another week of vacation today with indications that it will be perhaps the most quiet he has enjoyed since his arrival here late in June. He plans to continue his practice of conferring from time to time with high government officials and congressional leaders, but few appointments have been made for this week, and it is likely to be comparatively free of engagements.

Thus far there have been no indications as to when the president will return to Washington, although there is a strong possibility that he will remain here until after Labor day.

The impending tie-up of anthracite mines, scheduled for a week from tomorrow as a result of the failure of operators and miners to agree on a new wage scale, is not likely to have any effect on Mr. Coolidge's vacation plans. It is understood he does not consider that suspension of operations would in any way necessitate his return to the capital, as he is determined for the present at least to maintain a hands off policy.

Mr. Coolidge spends several hours daily at his desk at White Court and feels that he is keeping as close tab on affairs of government as he would in Washington, and in addition, is having the benefit of more invigorating weather.

No Marked Trend In Wheat Market During the Week

Wheat displayed no marked trend during the past week, the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture said Monday. Some uncertainty as to the final outcome of the spring wheat crop caused some price fluctuations. The movement of spring wheat increased but receipts were readily absorbed by the mills, which at times advanced premiums slightly on desirable grades. The receipts of hard winter wheat at the interior markets were further reduced during the week, reflecting heavier buying by interior mills and then tendency of farmers to hold for the $2 level. Soft winter wheat prices ranged very firm reaching new high levels for the crop year at St. Louis.

While corn prices held fairly firm, the report said, there was a weaker tone to the market. Country offerings were more liberal as farmers were more disposed to market their surplus with the improved prospects for the new crop. The weather during the past week was generally favorable to the development of the crop. Feeders were the principal buyers, taking only sufficient for their present needs. Pacific coast buyers took some corn from Omaha.

Heavy offerings of oats were well cleaned up.

Starts Move For Memorial To William Jennings Bryan

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Philadelphia Record today takes the initiative in forming a committee to finance and erect a national memorial to William Jennings Bryan. The Record solicits the support of citizens and newspapers throughout the nation and names as the prospective chairman of the committee, Josephus Daniels, publisher of the Raleigh News and Observer, Secretary of the navy in President Wilson's cabinet and a firm friend of the Great Commoner.

The Record says:

Influenced Lives of Others.

"Mr. Bryan will be remembered, without any formal reminder of his achievements, for his influence upon the lives of his fellow citizns; for his long, ardent and untirin defense of the rights of the common people against the encroachment of privilege; for his vigorous promulgation of the social precept finally embodied in the Eighteenth amendment; for his earnest advocacy of peace, and for his militant stand, at the climax of a life fraught with critical moments, in behalf of the Christianity as he interpreted it against what he conceived to be the attacks of science.

"These things will be recalled, we say, long after his errors have been forgotten. The beneficent influence of the man, his earnestness of purpose, his miraculous sway over some millions of his fellow citizens are some facts that must be recognized even by those who do not agree with his political or social theories or entertain his religous convictions. He was a great American.

"The Record has observed reports from Tennessee of a movement to be found there, as a memorial to Mr. Bryan, a college dedicated to opposing the theories of evolution. Such a movement, unless it is intended to be merely a local character, would be an egregious mistake.

"Unquestionably, the services of Mr. Bryan to his countrymen should be recognized by the erection of a national memorial—not to Bryan the fundamentalist, to Bryan the prohibitionist, or to Bryan the democrat, but to Bryan the fearless crusader, to Bryan the statesman."

BURLINGTON WILL BRING IN COLONY

Large Tracts in Chase and Hayes Counties to be Broken Up.

M'COOK, Neb., Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—An ambitious colonization scheme is being promoted by the Burlington company, having for its purpose the settlement of a large colony of Bohemians in Western Hayes and eastern Chase counties.

These colonists will be of the Lutheran faith and will form a desirable colony, the road officials believe.

The special aim of the road is to break up the large land holdings of corporations and individuals in both Hayes and Chase counties so far as practicable and to place individual farmers and stock raisers on these lands now only used for the most part in pasturage. Local land men are co-operating in the work of bringing the settlement to pass.

The Fremont Merchants defeated Snyder, 6 to 5, in ten innings. Beranek, North Bend pitcher, hit a home run with the bases full but the Hubs managed to crowd out with the heavy end of a 7 to 6 score.

PREPARING STATE CROP STATISTICS

But Agriculture Secretary McLaughlin Won't Estimate 1925 Yields.

(Associated Press.)

With several so-called "million dollar rains" falling over Nebraska's corn and wheat fields during August, much speculation is prevalent among farmers and grain men over the state as to the annual agricultural statistical report being prepared by Secretary McLaughlin of the state department of agriculture.

The publication, issued co-operatively by the United States department of agriculture and the Nebraska department, will be ready for distribution about the first of the year. However, the office forces of both federal and state departments have already begun compilation of the Nebraska report.

Secretary McLaughlin would not venture to estimate the grain yields this year as he declared, not enough reports have been received to indicate the probable yield. He has, however, prepared a comparative report for Nebraska for 1922, 1923, and 1924, as follows.

BANNER AWARDED TO DUBOIS HIGH

Pawnee County Town Makes Best Showing in Winning Track Numerals.

Dubois high school won the team banner emblematic of the 1925 Nebraska interscholastic track numeral championship. Complete awards for the various high school were announced today by Coach Henry F. Schulte of the University of Nebraska, who is in charge of the annual event.

Numerals are awarded by the university athletic department to Nebraska high school athletes for proficiency in the cinder sport. Athletes scoring twelve points are awarded light blue numerals while higher ranking athletes are granted "full blue" awards. The championship banner was awarded to the team with the greatest number of numeral awards considered in relation to the number of boys enrolled in the high school.

Dubois Had Sixteen Boys.

Dubois, with an enrollment of 16 boys, received three full blue numerals and four half-blue numerals for a rating of 62.5 per cent. Dewitt high school was second with 48.3 per cent, Cambridge third with 46 per cent and Bridgeport fourth with 45 per cent. Ansley scored 39.5 per cent and Danbury 32 per cent.

Comstock won the 1924 banner with 41.2 per cent. None of the high point teams last year repeated in this year's competition.

Track Enjoyed Boom.

Coach Schulte, in making the announcement, was enthusiastic over the showing made by the track men in numeral competition.

"Track enjoyed a big season in Nebraska high schools last spring," the veteran track coach said. "In 1924 sixty-eight schools competed for numerals, while this year 111 schools sent in numeral records. In 1924 numerals awarded totalled 389. This year 548 were granted—296 full blue and 252 half-blue."

High schools winning numerals follow:

Save Seventeen Babies From Fire

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.— — seventeen babies all under one month in age were saved from suffocation Sunday when nurses carried them from a smoke filled nursery at the Presbyterian hospital. The smoke was from a fire in the hospital laboratory, resulting from an overheated culture incubator which was put out with a minimum of damage.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Mabel?

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like real man.

Tell him he won't have to swallow the nasty oil with the fishy taste, because the McCoy Laboratories, of New York are now putting up Cod Liver Oil in sugar coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—Harley's Drug and Piller's Pharmacy and every druggist worthy the name sells them—60 tablets—60 cents. Any man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in thirty days or the money paid for the tablets will be refunded.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong.

PROTEST LEGION'S PART IN PROGRAM

Civil Liberties Union Objects to Vets in Educational Celebration.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Participation of the American Legion in the National Education week celebration would be "an offense against broad educational principles," the American Civil Liberties union stated Sunday in a letter to Federal Educational Commissioner Tigert.

"This objection is not to instruction in patriotism as such," the letter said, "but it is a protest against a compliment to the American Legion, which we believe to be unmerited. The American Legion is distinctly a partisan organization and not in any sense an educational organization. If its record in the past had been one of vision in educational matters, instead one of arrogant intolerance, we should feel otherwise than we do about the prominence which the bureau of education has seen fit to accord it."

SCHOONER MAUD GOING TO FRISCO

Amundsen Ship, In Ice Since 1923, Claimed by Norwegian Government.

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Roald Amundsen's exploration schooner Maud, which has been drifting in Arctic ice since June, 1923, in an attempt to cross the North Pole, reached Nome late Saturday night on her way to San Francisco to be sold.

After Carl Lomen had taken possession of the vessel in the name of the Norwegian government as vice consul, United States Marshal Charles D. Jones went aboard with an attachment of more than $600 which an oil company contended was owed for fuel taken by the Maud before her departure in 1822.

Lomen posted a bond for the amount.

The Maud came here from East Cape, Siberia, where she was to meet a Russian vessel with a supply of oil after returning from her unsuccessful attempt to drift across the pole.

Amundsen ordered the abandonment of the expedition last winter after the vessel had been incased in ice more than two years.

Hay Market Firm, Says Weekly Report

(Associated Press.)

The hay market continued firm during the past week with receipts below current demand at interior markets the weekly hay review made public today by the United States department of agriculture said. Demand was active but not of large volume.

Weather was generally favorable for haying during the week but pastures needed rain in some sections of the south. Western ranges were reported in fair to good condition. The department estimated that the Canadian crop would be slightly larger than last year.

Timothy prices were mostly higher at the close of the week. The alfalfa movement in the central west was smaller but continued fairly heavy on the west coast. Prairie receipts increased at most markets. Considerable Kansas hay was received at Omaha but the movement from Nebraska continued light. A fair demand at Kansas City held prices barely steady.

Radio Message Brings Son Home To Dying Father

(Special to The Star)

OMAHA Aug 24—(AP)—Zadock S B[illegible] died at his home in Council Bluffs late yesterday after regaining consciousness long enough to recognize his son who arrived last week after picking up a radio message 100 miles west of Yellowstone national park telling of his father's illness and pleading for him to come home

The aged father's illness was brought on from worry about his son who left home last May to join a circus and who had never been heard from since

Appeals had been sent out several times in hopes that the son would hear them and return Just when efforts to find him seemed futile the prodigal heard the message radio cast from station WOAW Omaha and hurried to his father's bedside

THE NEEDLESSLY JEALOUS MR MALLARD MADE A BIG MISTAKE WHEN HE STOOD OUTSIDE THE BUNGLE FLAT AND BROADCASTED A DENUNCIATION OF THE BLAMELESS COLONEL, WHO AFTERWARD TRIED TO EXPLAIN AN INCIDENT—ABOUT WHICH HE KNEW NOTHING — TO A LADY, WHO WOULDN'T LISTEN.
LISTEN JO ILL LAY MY WATCH ON THE TABLE LET ME TALK ONE MINUTE! ALL RIGHT! NOW IN THE FIRST PLACE—
WHEN WE WENT ON OUR VACATION YOU HELPED HER ON THE TRAIN WHILE YOUR WIFE AND DAUGHTER SCRAMBLED ON THE BEST THEY COULD AND TO THINK I WAS SO BLIND AS TO SUPPOSE THAT WAS THE FIRST TIME YOU EVER SAW HER! HEAVENLY DAYS! THEN AT THE BEACH YOU "SAVED" HER I DIDNT SEE THROUGH THAT EITHER! DUMB! DUMB! DUMB! NO WONDER YOU HAVE THE NERVE TO IMAGINE THAT WHEN A POOR MAN COMES TO THIS DOOR AND CALLS YOU A HOME WRECKER ID GIVE YOU A KISS AND A HUG AND SAY, OH WELL ITS ALL IN A LIFETIME
ALL RIGHT THATS YOUR SIDE OF IT! NOW ILL TELL—
WELL I WASN'T AS SIMPLE AS YOU THOUGHT I WAS, GEORGE BUNGLE. I DIDNT TRUST THAT WOMAN FROM THE FIRST MOMENT I SAW HER. JUST AS SOON AS THAT MAN SHOUTED THAT HIS NAME WAS MALLARD I KNEW WHY HE WAS HERE I WASN'T SURPRISED AT YOU TRYING TO LOOK STUNNED EITHER
LISTEN! GIVE ME—
WHAT I CANT UNDERSTAND IS HOW YOU COULD SO COMPLETELY LOSE EVEN A 22 CALIBER MIND OVER SUCH A SILLY WOMAN. YOU PROBABLY THINK SHE'S BEAUTIFUL I KNOW YOU DO. HA! HA! HA! WHAT A LIFE! A SOFT HEADED ROMEO AND A JULIET WHO SHOULD BE ON A DIET

Links Divide Sunday Twin Bill With Indians

Links Lose First Game When Whitey Felber Smashes Homer In Ninth.

Wilson Balks Redskins In Second Game and Links Win, 5 to 4.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 24.—Links and Indians divided the spoils in a Sunday doubleheader, the home tribe annexing victory, 5 to 4, in a ninth-inning rally and the visitors forging to the front in the second encounter by a similar score.

Jimmie Christian for the Links and Joe Brown for the Indians collided in a hurling duel in the curtain-raiser, the Lincoln right-hander having a distinct edge until the combat entered the final lap.

Trailing on the short end of a 4-2 score when the Indians took their final turn at bat, Whitney Felber pounded out a home run with two runners on the bases, netting the Indians the three runs needed to win. The Links outbatted the Indians by a comfortable margin, but Felber spoiled it all with his cricuit smash.

Wilson Outpitched Roberts.

Lefty Wilson stacked up against Red Roberts in the second game and the Lincoln southpaw demonstrated that he has conquered his tendency to wildness by walking but one batter and striking out eight. The result was in doubt until the eighth, when the Links peeled off three runs and compiled a commanding advantage of 5 to 1 in the scoring. The Indians came right back with three runs in their half, but Wilson was supreme in the ninth and turned back the Bedskins without a run.

Moore, Shaner and Gottleber accounted for the bulk of the batting and run-making for the Links, each poling four hits in the two games.

The final contest of the Links-Indians series is scheduled for Monday, following which the Links will pull away to St. Joseph. The Sunday scores:

Corpse of Fighter To Lay In State

MANILA, Aug. 24.—(I. N. S.)—The body of Pancho Villa, flyweight boxing champion, lay in state here today, with plans for a week of mourning until the burial next Saturday. Crowds were at the dock yesterday when the steamer President Harrison arrived from California with the body of the little fighter.

Charles Welch, past 50 years of age, of the Baldwin team of the Monroe-Randolph County league, in Illinois, boasts a batting record of .400 for the present season. He is a pitcher for the team.

When the American league started in 1900, the annual expense for baseballs for the entire league was about $4,000, while it is now five times that amount. An average of 24 balls is used in each game.

Third—Bernard Good.
Fourth—William Boyd.
Fifth—Joe Hamlon.
Sixth—C. L. Finlay.

Lewis Russell, eighteen-year-old farmer lad of Bennet, won the 1925 horseshoe pitching championship of Lincoln and Lancaster county in competition with a field of twenty-five pitchers Sunday. The matches were held on the Nebraska State fair grounds lanes, which also will be the scene of the annual state tournament to be held during the Nebraska exposition early in September.

Russell, the new champion, has only been tossing the iron for a year and one-half, practicing noons and evenings in his father's barnyard. He throws a shoe with a one and one-quarter turn, his shoes being swift and low, showing perhaps less variation than any of the Sunday pitchers.

In Tie With Ewing.

The crowd of barnyard golf followers that gathered at the fair grounds was treated to an extra thrill when young Russell and A. W. Ewing, 1924 champion, finished the finals in a tie, having won eleven of the thirteen contests. Bernard Good took the measure of both players, while Feathers had beaten Ewing and the 1924 champ had trimmed Russell.

In the match game of fifty points between Ewing and Russell, the Bennet lad won by a decisive margin, 50 to 18. Russell tossed thirteen ringers and Ewing was credited with eight.

The score by innings:

Good Wins From Boyd.

In the pitch-off for third money, Bernard Good won from Boyd, 51 to 31. Good had the best record of ringers thrown in any game Sunday, tossing twelve ringers out of 26 six shoes for a mark of 46 per cent.

In an exhibition match following the windup of the tourney, Thompson of Ashland defeated Russell, 50-22. Thompson, however, was fresh for the contest, while the Lincoln champion had been through a gruelling series of play to win his title.

Touching the Bases.

Despite the fact that the present Giants-Pirate series may cut New York out of its share of the 1925 world series, 58,000 fans saw the Pirates break even in a Sunday doubleheader and maintain their five-game lead over the Giants. Young Greenfield proved more effective in the opener than old man Adams and the Giants registered, 7 to 4. In the second the Giants got 12 hits, but had 13 left on the paths and the Pirates won, 3 to 2.

Vance pitched the Robins into fourth place, but the Cubs took the second game, 9 to 7, with Alexander on the mound.

Alex Ferguson held the slugging Tigers to four hits and the Senators won, 6 to 4, maintaining their one-game lead over the Athletics.

Gray outpitched Lyons and Philadelphia, with the aid of home runs by Simmons and Miller, defeated the White Sox, 3 to 0.

A pitch-out by Pennock, a piece of strategy in the ninth, nearly went out of the park and the Indians accepted a game from the Yankees, 7 to 6.

Ray Schalk, aged 33, catcher for the Chicago White Sox for 13 years, played in more than 1620 games His period of service behind the bat has established a record in organized baseball.

PIRATES SURELY ON WAY TO FLAG

Smoky City Outfit Proves Class and Courage In Gotham Series.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(I. N. S.)—If the writer's memory does not play him false, it is his impression that it was only a few days ago that the Pittsburgh Pirates were being referred to incertain articles as a club with a competitive heart the size of a ball bearing. That was the Pirates' trouble, they said. Just a ball club that couldn't rise to an emergency.

This might be taken as a deplorable state of affairs and the writer would be only too glad to have the volunteer pall bearers form on the left, if it had not been for the fact that the late week-end provided an emergency and the Pirates provided the self-rising batter, both human and semifluid.

Equal To Emergency.

They simply bounded right up to meet the emergency at the top of its arc, and beat in the Giants in three of the first four games. A fifth and final contest is scheduled for this afternoon, but it seems to have become of slight consequence.

Working on a five-game lead, about the only way the Pirates can lose the pennant now is to leave the country. They have thirty-nine games to play and if they lose more than half of them, they still can head the Giants at the wire even if the latter considerably improve their present pace by winning twenty and losing thirteen.

The burden of proof, therefore, is all on the Giants and they are carrying more than they want right now.

Giants Failed in Crisis.

They were the ones to show the strain most in the early games of the present series. They won the first game yesterday, but it was the Pirates who came from behind to win the second, which also was the case Saturday, when Pittsburgh pulled out a victory in the late innings of the second game. This would appear to be the manners of a pretty good ball club.

As a matter of fact, the Pirates have had to show more than gameness to win the majority of games played. Like the Giants, they entered the series somewhat weakened from injuries. They had a substitute at second base and in right field, but the former, Johnny Rawlings, proved to be the life of the series.

Carey Out of Lineup.

The club, however, has missed Max Carey, its field captain, best base runner and outfielder and one of its leading hitters. You don't replace men like Carey seven days in every week, but the Pirates have managed to live this down.

It takes real courage to go on winning with two of your best ball players lost to you on the eve of the year's biggest series.

Pirates-Giants Divide Pair At New York Park

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates drew an even break in a twin program with the New York Giants Sunday, winning the second game, 3 to 2, after losing the opened, 7 to 4. Pittsburgh continues to lead in the National league flag race by a five-game margin. Rawlings, New York cast-off, drove in the winning run for the Corsairs. A crowd of 55,000 saw the game, thousands of others being turned away. By innings:

Dodgers-Cubs Split Pair.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 24.—Brooklyn divided a doubleheader with Chicago yester, winning the first game, 6 to 0, and dropping the second, 9 to 7. Dazzy Vance was close to a no-hit game in the opener, the Cubs getting only two scratch hits. Vance fanned nine batters. Alexander had a rocky road to victory as the Robins outbatted the Cubs in the second encounted. A. Brown, a southpaw recruit, was permitted to pitch six innings, Captain Fournier deferring to the fans, although Brown was erratic. By innings:

First game— R H E

Second Round In Antelope Tourney

Elton George won a second round match in the second flight of the annual Antelope Golf club tournament Sunday, defeating J. W. McKibbin, 3 and 2. Jim Beltzer won over J. L. Roscow in the fourth flight, 4 and 3.

In fourth flight first round matches, W. S. Elliott defeated W. C. DeVriendt, 4 and 3, and Glenn Fordyce won from W. R. Rumel, 7 and 6.

Fairmont Shooter High Gun Sunday

Frank Baand of Fairmont was high gun in a Sunday practice shoot staged by the Lincoln Gun club at Capital Beach. Baand broke 92 targets in shooting at 100. R. A. Brown of Lincoln ranked second with 45 hits out of 50. The Sunday scores: Baand, 92x100; Brown 45x50; Carter, 44x50; Linderman, 43x50; H. L. Wood, 41x50; Bivins, 36x50; J. A. Wood, 35x50; VanDorn, 30x50; Sqhnake, 29x50.

HERE AND THERE IN BASEBALL

Pirates Look Like Cinch.

Pennant prospects of the Pittsburgh Pirates are soaring with the clouds. Knocking down the Giants in three of the four games of the present New York series, the Buccaneers can lose the Monday battle and still pull away from Gotham with a commanding lead—a margin so great that it appears to be quite beyond the hopes of the McGraw aggregation to overtake its rivals. The standings of the two teams today follow:

	G	W	L	Pct.
Pirates	115	70	45	.609
Giants	121	68	53	.562

The remainder of the 154-game schedule favors the Pirates, who will play only three series away from home. The Giants must go on the road in September, making the complete swing around the western circle. The western trip was disastrous to the Giants on their last junket, as the McGraw club was well drubbed in St. Louis and Cincinnati, although it succeeded in winning three out of four from the Cubs and getting an even break of four games with the Pirates at the Smoky City park.

Assuming that the Pirates will win at least twenty of their remaining thirty-nine games, an analysis of the figures discloses that the Giants to capture the flag, must reel off twenty-three victories in thirty-three starts during the final six weeks of the pennant race—a task which appears to be quite beyond the New York club's possibilities.

Instead of winning only twenty games, the Pirates, like as not, will add at least twenty-three to their victory column, while the Giants would be doing well indeed to win nineteen and lose only fourteen during the final dash to the wire. If this latter phophesy is verified by actual results, the percentage figures at the windup of the season would read:

	G	W	L	Pct.
Pirates	154	93	61	.604
Giants	154	87	67	.565

Conceding to the Pirates only twenty victories in thirty-nine games, the Smoky City crew would finish the season with a percentage of .584. To climb to a tie with Pittsburghers, the New Yorkers must win twenty-two games while losing eleven, in which event the figures would stand:

	G	W	L	Pct.
Pirates	154	90	64	.584
Giants	154	90	64	.584

It isn't in the dope, quite apparently, for the Giants to win a fifth successive pennant. This is a Pittsburgh year.

All Depends on Marberry.

Judging from the figures, Pitcher Fred Marberry will or will not win the pennant for Washington. The bunting seems to be in the keeping of Fred's rubber arm, which has swung into action 49 times this year. That means that he has been on the slab in every two and a third game. From these relief expeditions, he has drawn seven victories and four defeats. He has issued 33 bases on balls and fanned 47. Vangilder of St. Louis, Rommel and Walberg of the Athletics have each figured in 38 games.

Roy Hutson started out to be a teacher down Missouri way, but the Brooklyn scouts saw him play in the outfield for Springfield of the Western association and now he is a Robin.

Demons Grab Two Games From Saints

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 24.—Des Moines took both games from the Saints in a Sunday double-header by scores of 8-2 and 6-0. Thomas and Moon went the full route for the Demons, who fielded with but one error in the two games and made their hits with runners on the bases. Griffin and Stuvengen each poled five hits in the two games. The scores:

AMATEURS CLASH IN THREE GAMES

Sandlotters Do Their Stuff In Triple Bill At Landis Field.

Gaddis, Cleaners and Woodmen Teams Victorious In Opening Round.

Before a good-sized gathering of fans, the Lincoln amateur championship baseball tournament got under way at Landis Field Sunday afternoon with a triple bill of three fast ball games.

In the curtain-raiser, the Gaddis Construction Co. won over the Lincoln Ramblers, 7 to 3. The Varsity Cleaners disposed of the City Hall Wildcats, 10 to 7, in the second game. In the final encounter, the Modern Woodmen defeated the Havelock Boilermakers, 13 to 7.

Heavy hitting in the first and fifth innings enabled the Gaddis Contractors to eliminate the Ramblers. The Contractors rushed Barney to the showers in the first frame and nicked Dick, Rambler relief pitcher, for four runs in the fifth.

Recroft Fans Twelve.

Recroft, who toiled for the Gaddis club, scattered eight hits throughout the game, turning back twelve batters by the strikeout route.

The Varsity Cleaners scored seven runs in the first two innings of their game with the City Hall Wildcats and coasted through to a 10 to 7 victory. The Wildcats were wild with the willow, but perfectly tame on the bases and in the field. The City Hall bunch outhit the Cleaners two to one, but seemed to carry a trifle too much avoirdupois to shine in the field or on the paths.

Daugherty, who started for the Cleaners, was effective, but was forced to retire in the sixth, Floth seemed fairly who took up the mound duty, seemed fairly easy for the Wildcats.

Gilliland to Rescue.

Excellent relief pitching by Gilliland enabled the Modern Woodmen to defeat the Havelock Boilermakers, 13 to 7. The shoptown pastimers bunched hits with errors for several runs off Latta in the first two innings and apparently were off to win by a big margin.

Pitcher Gilliland, however, was rushed to the rescue and he proceeded to stand the Boilermakers on their heads the remainder of the game, striking out twelve and allowing but two hits in seven innings. The official scores:

WITH THE AMATEURS.

Monday and Tuesday twilight games will complete the first round play. The Munsons and Lincoln Independents will tangle tonight and the Capital City Tires and Shogo Lithias will cross bats Tuesday. Both games are called for 5 p. m., and fans will be admitted free.

Gilliland, relief pitcher for the Woodmen, showed the real goods in smothering the Havelock Boilermakers. "Gillie" struck out nine of the first ten batters to face him. His fast ball caught the Boilermakers flat-footed. The Shoptowns scratched two hits off of him in the eighth, but he fanned two men to pull himself out of trouble in that inning.

Frank Ullstrom of the Cleaners had a big day at bat. He poled a triple and two doubles, drew a walk and lived on an error in five trips to the plate. Cameron of the Contractors got a single, double and triple in three accredited times at bat.

Louis Stroud of the Contractors made a nice stop of Deberry's hot roller in the opening game| Cameron contributed a nice catch in left field. Hamilton of the Boilermakers made a rifle throw to the plate from centerfield in the final game. Kean, who was trying to score from second after B. Yordy's single, was nipped with several yards to spare.

The three games were run off in a speedy manner, the caliber and manner of play looking improved over two years ago, when the Lincoln Amateur association had two leagues in operation.

Mickey Risks His Crown In Indiana Ring

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will take his title into the ring with him when he meets Sailor Freedman tonight at the East Chicago arena. Both fighters will be under the 147-pound welterweight limit.

The row over the selection of a referee, which for a time threatened to bring about cancellation of the match, was settled yesterday when Jim Mullen, Aurora, Ill., promoter, was accepted by both sides.

Rods Twice Drubbed By Wichita Izzies

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 24.— The Izzies had all the better of the Burch Rods in both hitting and pitching yesterday and snatched two victories by scores of 14-5 and 14-0. Gregory's pitching featured the second game, the Wichita veteran allowing one scratch hit in the seven innings. The scores:

Gray Puzzle To White Sox; Wins Shutout Victory

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Home run smashes by Al Simmons and "Bing" Miller, the latter with a man on base, enabled Philadelphia to shut out Chicago, 3 to 0, yesterday. Sam Gray, ace of the Athletics' pitching staff, held the White Sox to seven hits, four of which were made by Bob Falk. Ted Lyons also pitched good ball, the two fourbaggers being the only heavy blows off him. Simmons' blow was his twenty-second homer of the year.

The White Sox played without the services of Manager Eddie Collins who is in the hospital with a strained ligament. Collins will be unable to play for at least a week. By innings: R H E

Senators Trim Tigers.

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—Alex Ferguson, Boston and New York castoff, held Detroit to four scattered hits and Washington won Sunday's game, 6 to 4. A home run by Stanley Harris in the seventh, scoring Ferguson and Rice, gave Washington the runs that were the margin of its victory. After holding Detroit to two hits, up to the ninth, Ferguson faltered, allowing two hits and passing two men.| Marberry, who relieved him, pitched one ball, Rigney driving it to Rice in deep right for the last put out of the game. By innings:

Detroit .....1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 2—4 4 2

Batteries—Ferguson, Marberry and Severeid; Collins and Bassler.

Yankees Los In Ninth.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—For the third successive day, Cleveland defeated New York by one run, yesterday's score being 7 to 6. Both Shocker and Karr, who started the game, were knocked out of the box. Speece, who replaced Karr, did not allow a man to reach first. Pennock, who also was effective until the ninth, when J. Sewell reached third when Combs let his single go through him. Burns was passed purposely and with Spurgeon at bat, a wild pitch scored Sewell. Ruth made his fourteenth homer of the year, Karr being the victim. By innings: R H E

Cleveland ...0 0 3 0 0 3 0 0 1—7 11 2

Batteries—Shocker, Pennock and Luebbe; Karr, Speece and L. Sewell.

Browns Find Boston Easy.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—The St. Louis Browns quietly returned to winning form yesterday with a victory over Boston's Red Sox, 5 to 2. The bright spot of the game was Bennett's triple in the fourth, scoring Sisler and McManus. By innings: R H E

Boston ......0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—2 8 1
St. Louis ....0 0 0 3 0 1 0 0 x—5 7 0

Batteries—Ehmke and Bischoff; Giard and Hargrave.

No-Hit Game By Genoa Pitcher

GENOA, Neb., Aug. 24. — (A. P.)—Paul Tinning, star hurler for Genoa, pitched a no-hit, norun game against Creston yesterday, while his teammates battered Creston for an 8 to 0 victory. Tinning was the master of the game at all times.

The Genoa star is slated to have a tryout with the Omaha Western league club before the close of the present season. He is 19 and six feet tall.

GRAIN MARKET.

The wheat market followed an irregular course last week but generally maintained a firm tone in response to the belief that aggregate supplies in this country are barely adequate for the season's requirements says the Kansas City Star. Increased pressure of spring wheat and a continued indifferent export demand and depressed prices moderately on several occasions but the losses were soon recovered.

Future prices closed yesterday a little under the high level of the week up 3 1/8 to 3 [illegible] cents for September deliveries and 3 1/4 to 4½ cents [illegible] months. The market covered a range of about 6 cents and at [illegible] down about 1½ to [illegible] cents.

[illegible] Chicago [illegible] and later deliveries [illegible] relative to other markets Kansas City has been relatively the [illegible] wheat market in the country for several weeks as futures here are within a cent or so of the Chicago basis and are higher than Minneapolis or Winnipeg quotations. This is about as expected in view of the fact that the crop in the states that ship [illegible] this market is only half as large as last season's and is little [illegible] above the estimated requirements of mills in this territory.

Future prices at Minneapolis made gains of about 4 [illegible] to [illegible] cents last week and Winnipeg [illegible] to [illegible] cents.

Underlying sentiment is as bullish as ever though last week there was a tendency to market the wheat more [illegible] is known of the [illegible] spring wheat movement and the Canadian yield.

Harvest has started in the Canadian provinces and movement of new wheat to Winnipeg [illegible] under way in another [illegible] Provincial Canadian reports vary widely [illegible] estimates [illegible] total [illegible] well above [illegible] to the [illegible] east of [illegible] million [illegible]

The department [illegible] estimate of the [illegible] winter wheat acreage [illegible] suggested a big increase [illegible] 10 per cent more than was planted last season and a little more than 38 per cent above the average of the [illegible] years prior to the war. If the estimated increase is realized the area planted will be 4 411 000 acres compared with 4[illegible]31 000 sown last fall of which 3 [illegible]8 [illegible]000 were left for harvest. Abandonment last season was usually large [illegible] per cent.

Liverpool Lower than Kansas City

Export demand continued dull and there was no indication that foreigners are concerned in any degree over their nearby requirements. Sales of a few hundred thousand bushels were reported daily the bulk of which was spring varieties and Manitobas. A few loads of hard winter were reported sold from St Louis for Gulf shipment and there were claims of a little business at Baltimore but generally bids were well under a working basis. The Liverpool market made gains of 1 3 4 to 2⅛ pence for the week. Liverpool December wheat quotation is actually about [illegible] cents a bushel under the Chicago December price. A year ago the Liverpool December quotation was 38 cents above the Kansas City December price. The Liverpool spot price however is about 38 cents above the December delivery.

Exports of wheat and flour from the United States last week as reported by Bradstreet's were a little more than [illegible] million bushels mostly from Canada about [illegible] million bushels less than in the preceding week and 1 1-4 million less than a year ago.

Shipments of wheat from Argentine were small only [illegible] bushels or half as much as in the preceding week and a year ago.

The movement from Australia is holding up well exports last week amounting to nearly a million bushels making a total of 1[illegible] million since the first of the [illegible] or [illegible] per cent more than in the corresponding time last season.

Liberal Spring Wheat Arrivals

The initial movement of spring wheat promises to be full [illegible] Minneapolis received [illegible] cars last week an increase [illegible] per cent more than a year ago. Compared with two years ago there was an increase of [illegible] per cent. Duluth arrivals were about twice as large as in the preceding week and moderately larger than a year ago.

At southwestern markets the movement was small but generally [illegible] size of the [illegible] Kansas City had [illegible] cars [illegible] per cent less than in the week before and only about a third as much as a year ago.

Total arrivals at the five principal markets were 5 118 cars a decrease of [illegible] per cent from the preceding week and less than half as much as a year ago.

A decrease of 809 000 bushels in the visible supply statement last Monday was somewhat unexpected. Since the new crop movement started the accumulation in commercial channels has been only about [illegible] million bushels compared with an increase of [illegible] million in the corresponding time last season. The total at present is 30 3 [illegible] million bushels or [illegible] million less than a year ago. A small increase is generally expected in tomorrow's statement.

Stocks at Kansas City increased 761 000 bushels last week and now are 4 million bushels or about one fourth as much as was held here a year ago.

In the carlot market demand was good for moderate offerings. Compared with a week ago hard and dark hard wheat yesterday were up to 4 cents and red was [illegible] to 3 cents higher. Milling samples ranged from $1 60 to $1 [illegible] Outside milling demand was [illegible] and more or less restricted by the fact that this market is largely on [illegible] basis.

Small Changes in Corn

Corn futures continued to move narrowly closing yesterday [illegible] 3 4 lower [illegible] cent higher for the week except the Kansas City September delivery which was down [illegible] cents.

Highest temperatures of the season were reported in most states last week but there apparently was little damage except in parts of Kansas Oklahoma and Nebraska where the outlook was already known to be poor. The heat wave was followed by rather general rains. In most of the area east of the Missouri river condition of the crop continues good.

Receipts of corn were liberal the four principal markets receiving 251[illegible] cars an increase of 61 per cent over the preceding week and 10 per cent more than a year ago.

In the carlot market demand was only fair. Compared with a week ago white corn yesterday was 1 ½ to 2 1 4 cents lower yellow was 2 to 2½ cents lower and mixed was unchanged to 1 3 4 cents lower. Quotations ranged from 9 cents to $1 01.

Appreciation of Loyalty

It has been a great honor and privilege to be pastor of this church. I have followed a notable succession of pastors and have been associated with as noble a group of men and women as are to be found in any church in the land. Those who were here seven years ago many of whom were friends of former days have been most loyal and helpful. To these have been added [illegible] One [illegible] of [illegible] are with us and many of whom are holding responsible places of leadership in the church [illegible] appreciation of their [illegible] we can never express.

We have been together in times of gladness and of sorrow. Our hearts have been filled with joy [illegible] boys and girls have given their hearts to the Lord. We have been together in the sickroom [illegible] hospital at the marriage altar and in your happy hospitable homes. More than one hundred [illegible] have been taken the [illegible] journey to [illegible] together. These experiences [illegible] treasure [illegible] precious jewels.

Briefly Told News From The Wires

NEWPORT, R. I.—Death had claimed fifty lives in the boiler explosion on the excursion steamer Mackinac up to last night, when Sarah Powers, 15, of Central Falls, R. I., succumbed to burns. Earlier in the day death ended this suffering of ames Henderson and Charles Koeford. All were patients in the naval hospital.

ROCKFORD, Ill.—Fifteen persons were burned, one probably fatally, during a demonstration of the chemical warfare service at Camp Grant yesterday. All were spectators. The explosion of a smoke bomb during a gas attack put out by the Thirty-third division troops caused the accident. Leo Flanders, 30, Rockford, was critically burned.

PHILADELPHIA—Lyman Ford of Lakewood, N. J., made a half mile parachute jump from an airplane Sunday and landed on a moving truck. The driver of the vehicle was oblivious to Fords efforts to attract his attention. Ford was jounced off and fell ten feet to the road, breaking his leg.

WASHINGTON — The government's re-organized prohibition enforcement personnel, said a statement last night by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league, deserves the "support of the friends of law enforcement in the fight against liquor lawlessness."

MADRID—Gen. Primo de Rivera, head of the military directorate of Spain, has returned to Madrid from Algeccias, where he conferred with the French Marshal Petain about the finishing touches of the long heralded Franco-Spanish offensive against the rebellious tribesmen in Morocco. After five days the general will proceed to Morocco to lead the Spanish forces against the Moors.

NORFOLK, Va.—The four masted schooner Victoria of New York, lumber laden, from Georgetown to New York, went ashore two miles off Ocracoke island on the North Carolina coast early Sunday and is expected to be a total loss. Her crew of eight men was rescued with a breeches buoy by coast guardsmen.

CANON CITY, Colo.—James Pardue, Denver highway robber, serving a ten year sentence in the state penitentiary, yesterday fatally stabbed Charles Bosworth, a negro murderer and life termer, in the state prison here. The killing occurred in the punishment tier where both convicts were confined for violation of prison rules.

BUDAPEST, Hungary.—With five minutes to say goodbye before their death, allowed by the court, Mitzi Lederer and her husband, Gustav, a former lieutenant, chocking with anguish and blinded by tears, were unable to say a single word. They had been convicted of the murder of Franz Kudelka, who was visiting the couple in a surburb of Budapest.

PARIS—M. Caillaux, French finance minister, has gone to London to try to settle France's debt to Great Britian, amounting to 623,000,000 pound sterling. As he departed he said he took with him "a gentleman's offer," but was fully conscious of France's "rights" conferred by the war. It is known that Great Britain wants 20,000,000 pounds sterling a year and France has offered about 10,000,000 pound sterling.

CANON CITY, Colo—Mrs. Emma J. Agard, who was a second cousin of Abraham Lincoln, died at her home here Sunday, at the age of 71. Mrs. Agard was born in Quincy, Ill., May 19, 1854, the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. V. Hanks. She moved to Canon City with her husband in 1881.

WELLINGTON, N. Z.—This city had inside its spacous harbor Saturday the greatest gathering of warships ever seen in the southern hemisphere. The visiting American fleet was augmented by squadrons of destroyers from Dunedin and Lyttleton. This made more than forty vessels, exceeding the number that visited Sydney and Melbourne.

Radio Message Brings Son Home To Dying Father

(Special to The Star.)

OMAHA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Zadock S. Bethers, 77, died at his home in Council Bluffs, late yesterday after regaining consciousness long enough to recognize his son, who arrived last week after picking up a radio message 100 miles west of Yellowstone national park telling of his father's illness and pleading for him to come home.

The aged father's illness was brought on from worry about his son who left home last May to join a circus and who had never been heard from since.

Appeals had been sent out several times in hopes that the son would hear them and return. Just when efforts to find him seemed futile the prodigal heard the message radio cast from station WOAW, Omaha, and hurried to his father's bedside.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID now sold by Harley Drug Co. and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.—Advertisement.

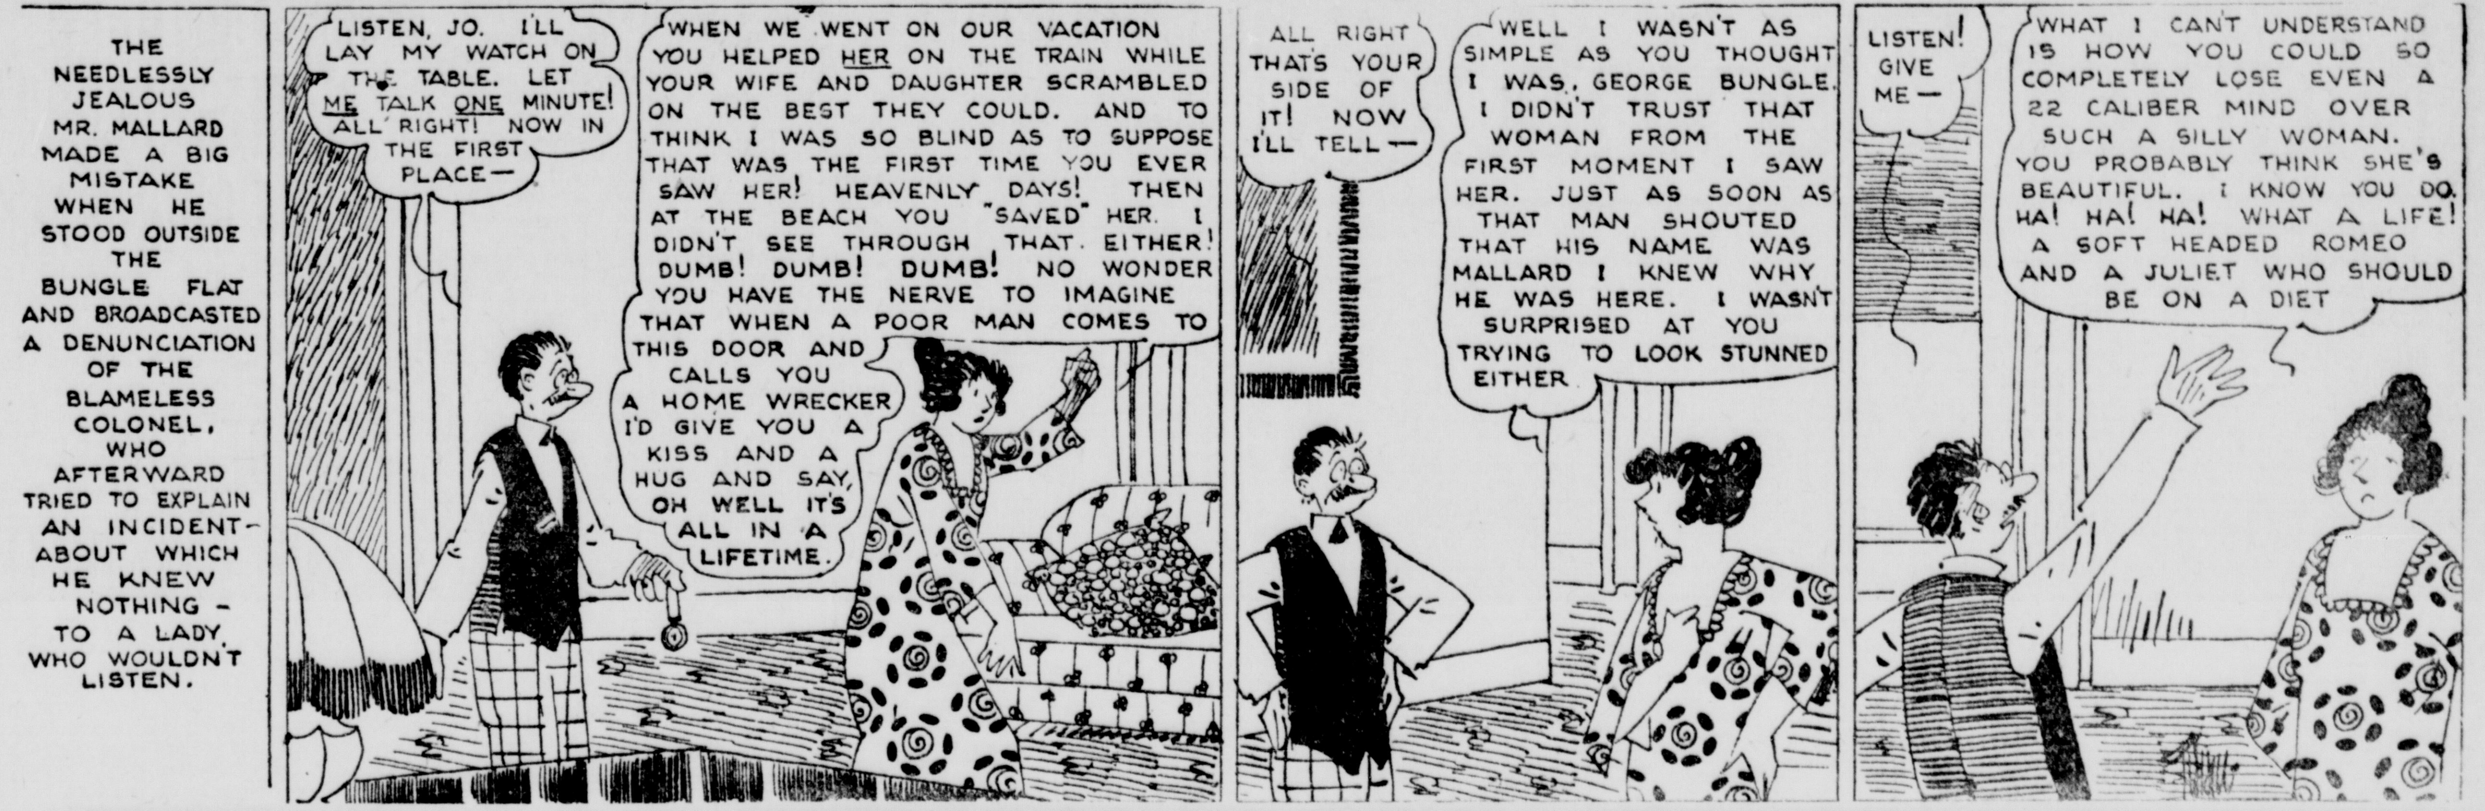
HOME SWEET HOME

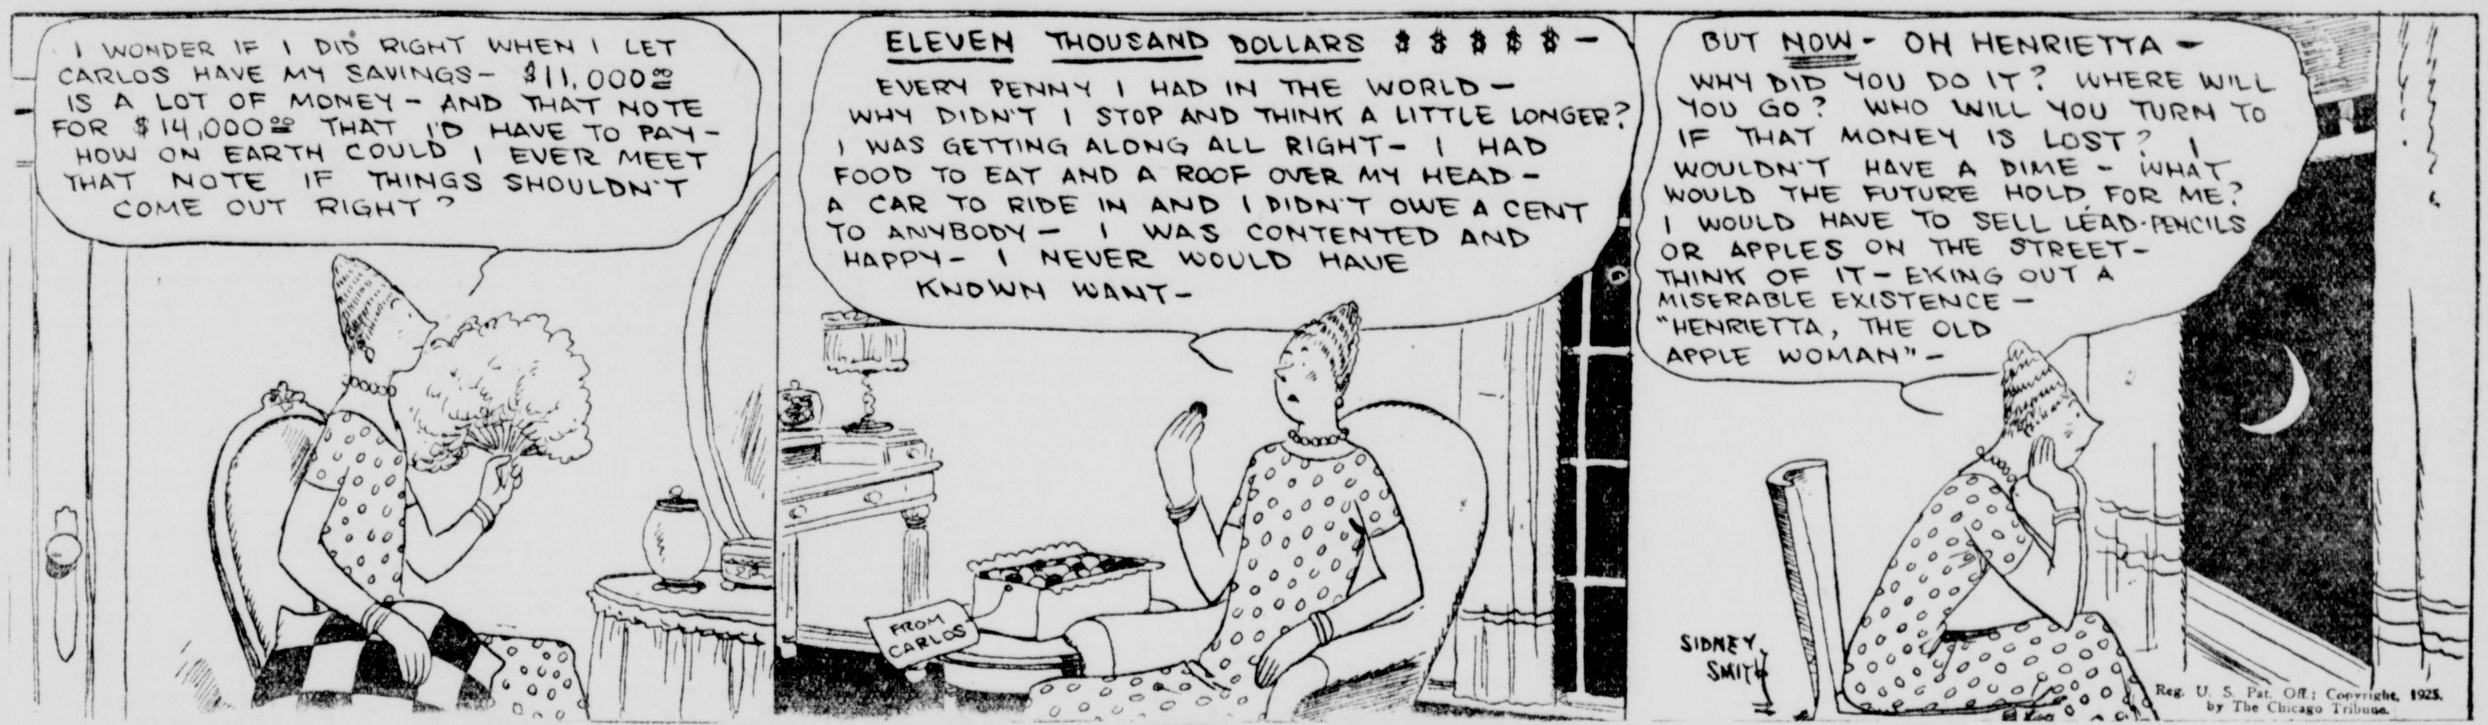
Speak Up Colonel—

By H. J. TUTHILL



THE NEEDLESSLY JEALOUS MR. MALLARD MADE A BIG MISTAKE WHEN HE STOOD OUTSIDE THE BUNGLE FLAT AND BROADCASTED A DENUNCIATION OF THE BLAMELESS COLONEL, WHO AFTERWARD TRIED TO EXPLAIN AN INCIDENT—ABOUT WHICH HE KNEW NOTHING—TO A LADY, WHO WOULDN'T LISTEN.
LISTEN, JO. I'LL LAY MY WATCH ON THE TABLE. LET ME TALK ONE MINUTE! ALL RIGHT! NOW IN THE FIRST PLACE—
WHEN WE WENT ON OUR VACATION YOU HELPED HER ON THE TRAIN WHILE YOUR WIFE AND DAUGHTER SCRAMBLED ON THE BEST THEY COULD. AND TO THINK I WAS SO BLIND AS TO SUPPOSE THAT WAS THE FIRST TIME YOU EVER SAW HER! HEAVENLY DAYS! THEN AT THE BEACH YOU "SAVED" HER. I DIDN'T SEE THROUGH THAT. EITHER! DUMB! DUMB! DUMB! NO WONDER YOU HAVE THE NERVE TO IMAGINE THAT WHEN A POOR MAN COMES TO THIS DOOR AND CALLS YOU A HOME WRECKER I'D GIVE YOU A KISS AND A HUG AND SAY, OH WELL IT'S ALL IN A LIFETIME.
ALL RIGHT THAT'S YOUR SIDE OF IT! NOW I'LL TELL—
WELL I WASN'T AS SIMPLE AS YOU THOUGHT I WAS, GEORGE BUNGLE. I DIDN'T TRUST THAT WOMAN FROM THE FIRST MOMENT I SAW HER. JUST AS SOON AS THAT MAN SHOUTED THAT HIS NAME WAS MALLARD I KNEW WHY HE WAS HERE. I WASN'T SURPRISED AT YOU TRYING TO LOOK STUNNED EITHER
LISTEN! GIVE ME—
WHAT I CAN'T UNDERSTAND IS HOW YOU COULD SO COMPLETELY LOSE EVEN A 22 CALIBER MIND OVER SUCH A SILLY WOMAN. YOU PROBABLY THINK SHE'S BEAUTIFUL. I KNOW YOU DO. HA! HA! HA! WHAT A LIFE! A SOFT HEADED ROMEO AND A JULIET WHO SHOULD BE ON A DIET

THE GUMPS—COMING EVENTS, ETC.



I WONDER IF I DID RIGHT WHEN I LET CARLOS HAVE MY SAVINGS— $11,000.00 IS A LOT OF MONEY— AND THAT NOTE FOR $14,000.00 THAT I'D HAVE TO PAY— HOW ON EARTH COULD I EVER MEET THAT NOTE IF THINGS SHOULDN'T COME OUT RIGHT?
ELEVEN THOUSAND DOLLARS $ $ $ $ $— EVERY PENNY I HAD IN THE WORLD— WHY DIDN'T I STOP AND THINK A LITTLE LONGER? I WAS GETTING ALONG ALL RIGHT— I HAD FOOD TO EAT AND A ROOF OVER MY HEAD— A CAR TO RIDE IN AND I DIDN'T OWE A CENT TO ANYBODY— I WAS CONTENTED AND HAPPY— I NEVER WOULD HAVE KNOWN WANT—
FROM CARLOS
BUT NOW— OH HENRIETTA— WHY DID YOU DO IT? WHERE WILL YOU GO? WHO WILL YOU TURN TO IF THAT MONEY IS LOST? I WOULDN'T HAVE A DIME— WHAT WOULD THE FUTURE HOLD FOR ME? I WOULD HAVE TO SELL LEAD-PENCILS OR APPLES ON THE STREET— THINK OF IT— EKING OUT A MISERABLE EXISTENCE— "HENRIETTA, THE OLD APPLE WOMAN"—

SAY, ARE YOU CRAZY? LOOK AT THAT RAIN! NOBODY BUT A DEEP-SEA DIVER WOULD WANT TO GO OUT ON A NIGHT LIKE THIS— I WOULDN'T GO OUT ON A NIGHT LIKE THIS TO SEE A MOVIE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES DIVE OFF THE WOOLWORTH BUILDING INTO A BOWL OF CLAM CHOWDER
WHY, JOE IT'S ONLY SPRINKLING
WHEN SHE WANTS TO. GO TO A MOVIE.
JOE, IT'S POURING
YOU MUST BE BLIND— IT'S PRACTICALLY STOPPED RAINING— WHY SHOULD A LITTLE DAMPNESS KEEP ME HOME? I'M NO BABY!
WHEN HE WANTS TO PLAY GOLF.
R L GOLDBERG
DARLING, I'M GOING TO PLAY GOLF TOMORROW IF THE WEATHER'S NICE
BOLONEY! NO MATTER HOW THE WEATHER IS, YOU'LL SAY IT'S NICE FOR GOLF

THAT OFFICE BOY WILL DRIVE ME MAD WITH HIS WHISTLING! OH! WILLIE, COME HERE!
DID YOU CALL ME?
YES AN' I'M GONNA CALL YOU RIGHT—
HOW MANY TIMES MUST I TELL YOU NOT TO WHISTLE WHEN YOU ARE WORKIN'?
BUT I WUZN'T WORKIN'— MR. JIGGS!
IF I ONLY HAD A CLUB!!

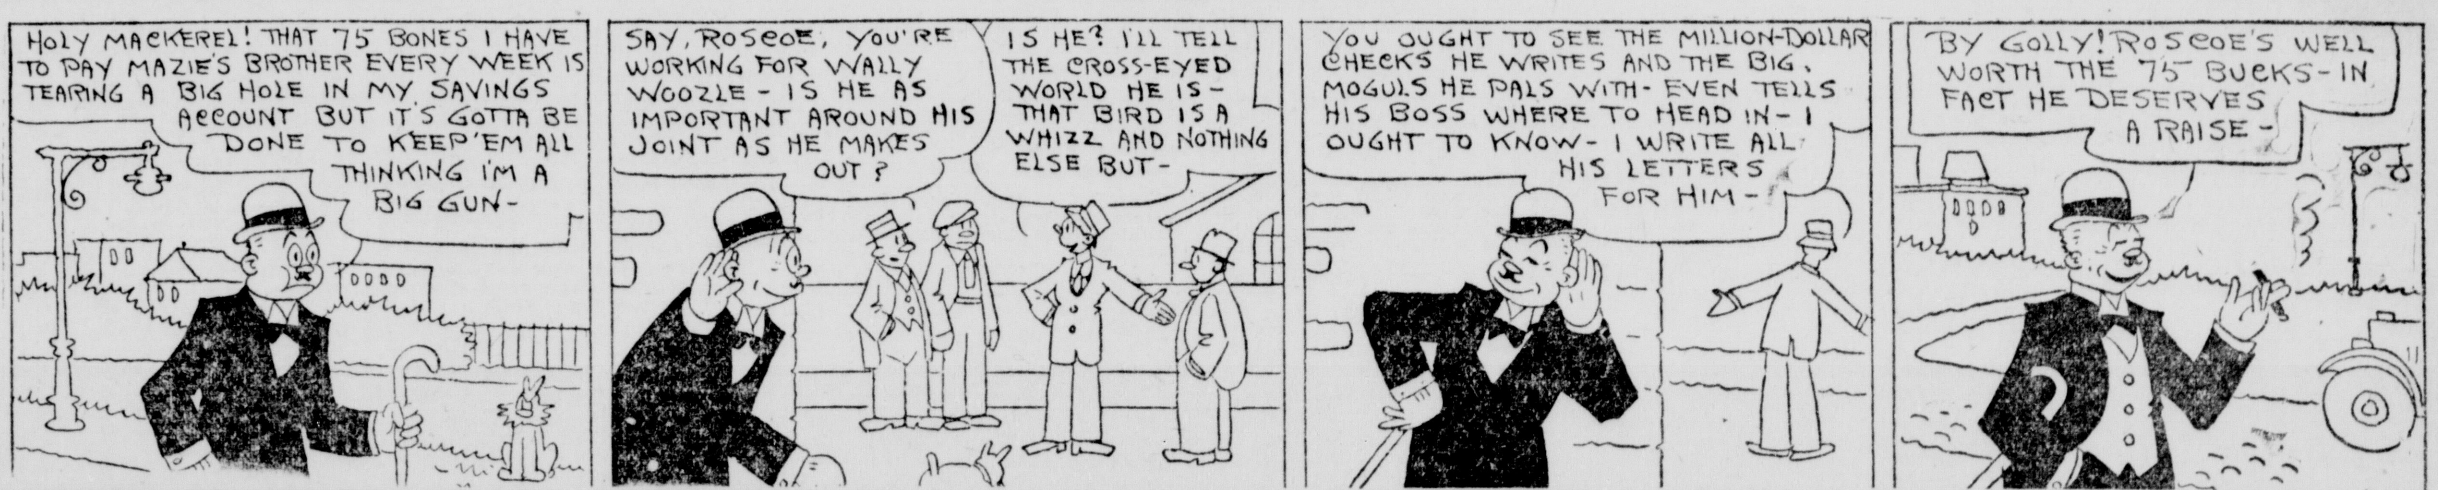
A Paying Investment

—By ARNOT



HOLY MACKEREL! THAT 75 BONES I HAVE TO PAY MAZIE'S BROTHER EVERY WEEK IS TEARING A BIG HOLE IN MY SAVINGS ACCOUNT BUT IT'S GOTTA BE DONE TO KEEP 'EM ALL THINKING I'M A BIG GUN—
SAY, ROSCOE, YOU'RE WORKING FOR WALLY WOOZLE— IS HE AS IMPORTANT AROUND HIS JOINT AS HE MAKES OUT?
IS HE? I'LL TELL THE CROSS-EYED WORLD HE IS— THAT BIRD IS A WHIZZ AND NOTHING ELSE BUT—
YOU OUGHT TO SEE THE MILLION-DOLLAR CHECKS HE WRITES AND THE BIG MOGULS HE PALS WITH— EVEN TELLS HIS BOSS WHERE TO HEAD IN— I OUGHT TO KNOW— I WRITE ALL HIS LETTERS FOR HIM—
BY GOLLY! ROSCOE'S WELL WORTH THE 75 BUCKS— IN FACT HE DESERVES A RAISE—

Market Quotations

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 24.

WHEAT—The wheat market on the board of trade opened in rather listless fashion today. An easier tone abroad accounted for some selling of deferred deliveries. September showed strength over December as the September market acted light and advanced on moderate buying. Commission-houses were buying September and selling December wheat. The opening, unchanged to ⅞c up, found September at $1.63¼@1.63½ and December at $1.61¼@1.61⅝. Both months fell off fractionally after the opening, but later steadied and moved within a narrow range.

Wheat broke sharply toward the finish of the market when the visible supply report was posted showing an increase of 2,367,000 bushels. Earlier a report of a severe rainstorm in the northwest held up trading to some extent, but the market was easily influenced and as the increase in the visible supply was considerably more than had been anticipated the break came immediately after the posting of the bulletin. Wheat closed 1¾ to 3c net lower with September at $1.60⅝@1.60⅞ and December $1.58¾@1.58⅞.

CORN—There was little action in corn, which seemed to sympathize with the movement in the leading grain. After starting unchanged to ⅜c down with September at $1.03¼@1.03⅜, there was a brief rally and then a fractional reaction with prices moving in narrow limits.

Corn was weak and lower. Weather reports over the corn belt were favorable for the new crop in the central states, but the northwest continued to send reports of high temperatures. The close showed corn ¾ to 3¼c net lower, with September at $1.00½@1.00¾.

OATS—Oats opened at ⅛c up to ⅛c down with September at 40@40¼c and then sagged with the other grain.

PROVISIONS—Provisions were inactive and lower.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.

Alternate periods of heaviness and strength characterized today's stock market. An outburst of strength in the early trading lifted more than 30 issues to new peak prices for the year, but subsequent profit taking and bear selling apparently based on the theory that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction brought about sharp declines from earlier levels. Total sales approximated 1,450,000 shares.

Stock prices displayed impressive strength at the opening of today's market. With the financial community apparently convinced that good fall business was in store, large buying orders were distributed throughout the list. General Railway Signal jumped over 5 points to a new record high at 320, and initial gains of a point or more were registered by St. Louis-Southwestern, Illinois Central, Allied Chemical and Loose-Wiles Biscuit.

Low and medium priced rail swere taken in large blocks, new 1925 high records being recorded in the first half hour of trading by Chesapeake & Ohio, Frisco common, Seaboard Air Line common, St. Louis-Southwestern, Kansas City Southern, Wabash common and Western Pacific common. Standard industrials displayed a firm undertone, U. S. Steel common touching a new high on the current movement and American Can soon selling a point above last week's close. Pools were again active in the specialties, International Cement, Loew's Inc., American Ice, Indian Motorcycle and Postum Cereal all being pushed through their previous peaks for the year. White Motors and Mack Trucks were in supply, quickly falling back 1 and 3½ points, respectively. Sharp rallies in the Scandinavian exchanges again feature the foreign exchange market, Norwegian kroner rallying 25 points to 19.18 cents and Danish kroner jumping 37 points to 24.18 cents. Demand sterling held firm around $4.58⅝ and French francs at 4.70½ cents.

The market went through a temporary reaction around the end of the first hour when bear traders renewed their attacks in an apparent effort to test its technical condition. Nash Motors broke 9 points, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe 5½ and some of the other steels, motors and public utilities sagged a point or so from the early highs. Good buying support quickly developed, however, and the market was headed upward again around midday.

General Railway Signal was bid up over 12 points to 327, Chrysler Motors 5½ to 121 Sears Roebuck 4 to 207¾, and Allied Chemical 3¾ to 99½, all at new 1925 prices. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

Buoyancy cropped out in a number of shares in the early afternoon and the establishment of new prices for the year by some of the popular issues caused the general list to spurt upward. General Railway Signal sold at 338¾, a jump of 24 points. Western Pacific, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Kelsey Wheel and Pressed Steel car also showed conspicuous strength.

The closing was easy.

SUGAR—The raw sugar market was quiet early today at 4.37 for Cuban duty paid. No sales were reported.

The raw sugar market was steady during the forenoon session, with most of the business in the form of exchanges. Prices at midday showed little change from the close of last week, with trade interests buying September and selling the latter positions.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.40@5.60 for fine granulated. Withdrawals on old contracts were of liberal proportions but only a moderate new business was reported.

GRAIN MARKET.

The wheat market followed an irregular course last week, but generally maintained a firm tone in response to the belief that aggregate supplies in this country are barely adequate for the season's requirements, says the Kansas City Star. Increased pressure of spring wheat and a continued indifferent export demand depressed prices moderately on several occasions, but the losses were soon recovered.

Future prices closed yesterday a little under the high level of the week, up 3 1-8 to 3 5-8 cents for September deliveries and 3 1-4 to 4½ cents for later months. The market covered a range of about 6 cents and at one time was down about 1½ to 3¼ cents.

The Kansas City September delivery went to a small premium over Chicago for a while and later deliveries here generally strengthened relative to other markets. Kansas City has been relatively the highest wheat market in the country for several weeks, as futures here are within a cent or so of the Chicago basis and are higher than Minneapolis or Winnipeg quotations. This is about as expected in view of the fact that the crop in the states that ship to this market is only half as large as last season's and is little if any above the estimated requirements of mills in this territory.

Future prices at Minneapolis made gains of about 4½ to 5 cents last week and Winnipeg rose 3½ to 3½ cents.

Underlying sentiment is as bullish as ever, though last week there was a tendency to mark time until more is known of the initial spring wheat movement and the Canadian yield.

Harvest has started in the Canadian provinces and movement of new wheat to Winnipeg will be under way in another week or so. Provate Canadian reports varied widely last week, with estimates of the total yield well above and well below the last official forecast of 375 million bushels.

The department of agriculture's estimate of the intended winter wheat acreage, issued Monday, suggested a big increase, near 10 per cent more than was planted last season and a little more than 38 per cent above the average of the five years prior to the war. If the estimated increase is realized, the area planted will be 46,411,000 acres, compared with 42,317,000 sown last fall, of which 32,813,000 were left for harvest. Abandonment last season was usually large, 22.5 per cent.

Liverpool Lower than Kansas City.

Export demand continued dull and there was no indication that foreigners are concerned in any degree over their nearby requirements. Sales for a few hundred thousand bushels were reported daily, the bulk of which was spring varieties and Manitobas. A few loads of hard winter were reported sold from St. Louis for Gulf shipment and there were claims of a little business at Baltimore, but generally bids were well under a working basis. The Liverpool market made gains of 1 3-4 to 2½ pence for the week. Liverpool December wheat quotation is actually about 5 cents a bushel under the Chicago December price. A year ago the Liverpool December quotation was 38 cents above the Kansas City December price. The Liverpool spot price, however, is about 38 cents above the December delivery.

Exports of wheat and flour from the United States last week, as reported by Bradstreet's, were a little more than 5 1-4 million bushels, mostly from Canada, about ½ million bushels less than in the preceding week and 1 1-4 million less than a year ago.

Shipments of wheat from Argentine were small, only 866,000 bushels, or half as much as in the preceding week and a year ago.

The movement from Australia is holding up well, exports last week amounting to nearly a million bushels, making a total of 105 million since the first of the year or 64 per cent more than in the corresponding time last season.

Liberal Spring Wheat Arrivals.

The initial movement of spring wheat promises to be fairly liberal. Minneapolis received 2,376 cars last week, an increase of 23 per cent more than a year ago. Compared with two years ago, there was an increase of 5 per cent. Duluth arrivals were about twice as large as in the preceding week and moderately larger than a year ago.

At southwestern markets the movement was small, but generally is in proportion to the size of the crop. Kansas City had 1,234 cars, 23 per cent less than in the week before and only about a third as much as a year ago.

Total arrivals at the five principal markets were 5,118 cars, a decrease of 7 per cent from the preceding week and less than half as much as a year ago.

A decrease of 809,000 bushels in the visible supply statement last Monday was somewhat unexpected. Since the new crop movement started, the accumulation in commercial channels has been only about 5 million bushels, compared with an increase of 24 million the corresponding time last season. The total at present is 30 3-4 million bushels, or 27 million less than a year ago. A small increase is generally expected in tomorrow's statement.

Stocks at Kansas City increased 261,000 bushels last week and now are 4 million bushels, or about one-fourth as much as was held here a year ago.

In the carlot market demand was good for moderate offerings. Compared with a week ago, hard and dark hard wheat yesterday were up 2 to 4 cents, and red was 2 to 3 cents higher. Milling samples ranged from $1.60 to $1.77. Outside milling demand was reported more or less restricted by the fact that this market is largely on a local basis.

Small Changes in Corn.

Corn futures continued to move narrowly, closing yesterday 3-4 lower to 5-8 cent higher for the week, except the Kansas City September delivery, which was down 2¼ cents.

Highest temperatures of the season were reported in most states last week, but there apparently was little damage except in parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska where the outlook was already known to be poor. The heat wave was followed by rather general rains. In most of the area east of the Missouri river condition of the crop continues good.

Receipts of corn were liberal, the four principal markets receiving 2,542 cars, an increase of 61 per cent over the preceding week and 40 per cent more than a year ago.

In the carlot market demand was only fair. Compared with a week ago, white corn yesterday was 1½ to 2 1-4 cents lower; yellow was 2 to 2½ cents lower, and mixed was unchanged to 1 3-4 cents lower. Quotations ranged from 9 cents to $1.01.

CHURCHILL AND CAILLAUX SEEK AN AGREEMENT

here today for conservations with Winston Spencer Churchill, chancellor of the British exchequer, regarding the terms for the settlement of France's debt of 623,000,000 pounds.

No time has been set for the duration of the conversations and speculation as to the length varies from three days to a week or more. But in any case the talks will not finally settle the question for M. Caillaux will make a report to his government before any decision is taken.

Recent statements in the French press have created the opinion here that France is not prepared to consider the payment of anything like 20,000,000 pounds yearly which Great Britain mentioned being an acceptable sum when the French financial experts were here recently and the expectation is that M. Caillaux' offer will not exceed 10,000,000 annually although it is suggested that this sum might be increased if France were able to make an advantageous arrangement with the United States respecting her debt to that country.

Undecided On U. S. Trip.

Asked by the Daily Mail whether he expected to go to the United States to discuss the French debt there, M. Caillaux replied: "I really don't know. It all depends on what happens in Londan."

In today's comment by the London newspapers stress is laid on Great Britain's having cancelled more than 50 per cent of her allied debts, requiring only enough to enable her to cover her own indebtedness to the United States.

The Daily Telegraph foresees that the negotiations will be difficult and prolonged. It adds: "It is no wise desirable that a settlement with Great Britain precede settlement wiht the United States. In all these questions of debt redemptions the initiative must lie with Washington and prudence and common fairness require that this country should not be committed until terms for the adjustment of the American claim on France are settled.

Departing from Paris, M. Caillaux said he took with him "a gentleman's offer," which, he added, was the only one that he could be sure of fulfilling.

"It is only propositions of that sort that the French government has ever considered," he said.

ELMORE GIVES UP PASTORATE

cision to take this action. I have been a member of other churches, but this is the home church of my life's work. Thirty-three years ago I came to this church as a freshman in the university. Twenty-seven years ago my parents came to this church. Twenty-five years ago I placed my membership here, and it has been here ever since except for three and one-half years, when I was pastor at Hamilton, N. Y.

"For the most of these twenty-five years I have stood in a special relation to this church. Twenty-five years ago you ordained me to the ministry and I went to India, where for fifteen years of missionary service, twelve on Indian soil, I was your representative. Seven years ago next November you called me to come to Lincoln as your pastor, a phophet returning to his own country, and I can say with Jacob that these seven years have seemed as one day as I look back over them. No other church can ever be to me what this church has been and is.

"But I feel that it is God's leading that I make this change at this time. As missionary I was nearly one-half my stay in India in the work of training young ministers in Ramapatnam Theological seminary. In America I have had the experience of being pastor in two distinctive and outstanding churches. These experiences are no slight preparation for further work in the training of ministers and missionaries, to which work I expect now to give the major portion of my time.

Appreciation of Loyalty.

"It has been a great honor and privilege to be pastor of this church. I have followed a notable succession of pastors, and have been associated with as noble a group of men and women as are to be found in any church in the land. Those who were here seven years ago, many of whom were friends of former days, have been most loyal and helpful. To these have been added 770 new members, the most of whom are with us, and many of whom are holding responsible places of leadership in the church. Our appreciation of the friendship of you all we can never express.

"We have been together in times of gladness and of sorrow. Our hearts have been filled with joy and our eyes with happy tears when our boys and girls have given their hearts to the Lord. We have been together in the sick room, the hospital, at the marriage altar, and in your happy hospitable homes. More than one hundred times have we taken the sad journey to Wyuka together. The heart throbs of these experiences I can never forget. These are memories I shall treasure as precious jewels.

"As I lay down this leadership of this church, I see for you the greatest future. The city of Lincoln is entering upon a period of marked development in the things which will make it a city unsurpassed in attractiveness in all the west. This church is most admirably located. Its spirit and traditions are of the best. It has a place of acknowledged leadership among our churches in the state. The coming years will see unprecedented growth and strength in the work of this church.

"It is hard to leave at such a time, and yet it is a joy to know that this church is in a position and condition to make continual advancement. It is not a case of laying down a work because of fearfulness for the future as to the work or our mutual relations, but it is a matter of passing on to someone else the great challenge of the opportunity in this church, because of the challenge of another opportunity which has come to me.

"I need not tell you that I shall pray continually for this church; that your prosperity will be my exceeding great joy, and that news from you will be welcomed only second to that from absent dear ones, and that whenever an opportunity shall come, my feet will turn with eagerness to this place. Thus may God's blessing be upon you, and His hand ever guide you, and not one of you come short of the glory of His high calling for each of you.

(Signed) W. T. ELMORE."

THE LINCOLN STAR Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Lincoln Star, as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty.

Advertising offered for irregular insertions takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines.

Ads ordered for seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Special rates for yearly advertising upon request.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION.

All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and to the regular Lincoln Star style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

Errors in advertisement should be reported immediately. The Star will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES.

Daily rate for consecutive insertions. Count six average words to a line. Cash rate per line per day. These special cash rates apply to advertising paid for within seven days after last insertion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

A trough of low pressure overlies the eastern slope of the Rockies and the upper Missirul valley, causing warm weather in these regions and showers in the Dakotas and Colorado. It is followed by rising pressure and cold weather in the farther northwest, with freezing temperature in northern Alberta. High pressure and fair, cool weather prevail generally east of the Mississippi River except for showers in Texas and Florida.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Man In the Offing

Dear Minerva: I too need to be advised.

A little over a year ago I was keeping company with a young man I was very fond of (I'll call him A). I had been going with him for about seven months. I began to go with another boy once in a while. A began to ask for fewer dates and finally stopped altogether. He never gave any reason for stopping and I never asked him. Minerva, I love him but I tried to lie to myself and the girls and say that I liked the other the better. I truly believe that absence makes the heart grow fonder because one year has passed since I have been with A but nevertheless I love him more.

Minerva, I am always shy when around him. But I am never jealous when other girls are with him although I would love to be in their places.

I am old enough to know my own mind but not old enough to advise myself. How can I win him back? LOVELORN.

A. Absence makes the heart grow fonder, they say. Probably this is true enough. But certainly inaccessibility is a lure. The young man in hand, as it were, seems so much less attractive than the one in the offing. It is always such a temptation to try to ensnare the skittish one.

Probably you wouldn't care any more for the absent one if he were giving you the mad rush than you do for the one who does hover about you attentatively.

Being a girl you will have to find that out for yourself. So invite the oldtime lover out to your home for an evening. Tell him you would like to have him call for old times sake. Wear your prettiest frock, be your nicest self and perhaps he will ask for permission to make future calls.

Screened From Life

Dear Minerva: My twin sister and I are bringing our troubles to you in hopes that you can help us. We are not extremely beautiful but are not at all homely, having beautiful golden curls and pink and white skins.

All of our lives we have had everything we wanted of the material things of life, but there is more than that to life. What is our beautiful roadster to the friendship of young people? Would not a little camping trip with girls our own age be much more enjoyable than a trip to Honolulu with our parents?

We are young and want to live and enjoy life with other young folks, which is forbidden us. Never in our lives have we [illegible] dance. So close has been the supervision and chaperonage of our parents that we have never talked to a [illegible] cousin who is two years our senior. We are often tempted to sneak away but would rather do the honorable thing. Many girls who are poor envy our wealth and think that we should be content with our lot, but we are absolutely sick of it. Next year we finish our third year of college work under the supervision of governesses. We would much rather go to college with other young folks and get some of the pleasures that one should get from college life, but our folks are horrified at the idea. We are almost desperate with loneliness although we do have each other.

What shall we do? How can we stand it? How can we bring our folks to our way of thinking? PEG AND MEG.

A. How unfortunate that your parents harbor this very mistaken idea of keeping their daughters in a glass cage far from the influence of other young people. True enough, some such influence may be contaminating, but it is broadening and normal and decidedly necessary. Young people cannot thrive happily and normally without companions their own age any more than the corn can grow without rain and sunshine.

But how you can convince your parents of this fact is another question, is indeed the question. They are no doubt following theories formulated for years, may be before you were born, and my convictions would not influence them one way or another.

I wish I could warn them though of the great danger of the experiment. This is the inability of children so sheltered and kept in a hot house to cope with the world when liberty is known. Not knowing people they are easily duped and misled. Having abnormal curiosity about men and romance they accept the first lightly spoken words of flattery from the first man they know as the signs of undying love, and difficulties develop.

As the child raised on predigested food is unable to assimilate food in the raw, so is the child screened from contact with other human beings equipped to live with human beings in later years.

Your opportunities are wonderful and you should not be very unhappy. It would be too bad to resort to rebellion or to any such mode of emphasis. Time will permit you to know more young people your age as you grow older. I am sure, and so far as I can see you can only abide by their desire in the matter. Enjoy to the fullest your opportunities at hand. That should not be difficult. And adventure and even romance will be found just around the next corner.

CHAPTER LV

Rhoda Thorne laid her hand impulsively on her aunt's arm. She could not let her go away in this mood and write dreadful things to the anxious mother up in Hillsdale. The exhilaration caused by the liquor was rapidly evaporating.

"Aunt Jane," she pleaded, "do not worry mother unnecessarily, please. For really there is nothing to write her—nothing that she does not know already."

The matron eyed her coolly. "I shall do what is proper," she declared.

"But there is nothing to write," the girl reiterated.

"There is a great deal to write," Mrs. Bates contradicted. "I have witnessed enough this afternoon to confirm me in my worst suspicions."

"Oh—you are mistaken," Rhoda demurred feebly.

"Mistaken in the evidences of my own senses?" the woman demanded sternly. "Did I imagine that you and that man were sitting—or lounging—side by side on that couch—" pointing to the crushed cushions. "I certainly gave you an abundance of time to get up after I knocked—for I could not turn the knob immediately with these new gloves on—" glancing at the soiled fingertips. "That you continued to sit there showed you are so accustomed to that kind of thing that you had no objection to any chance caller seeing you loafing on the same seat. Of course you jumped up scared enough when I appeared, for you know that I belong to a different set from the one into which you have chosen to sink. Then I was hardly mistaken in believing that I saw a flask on the table, nor that you had been drinking liquor with a man. You cannot deny that—nor that you took more than the taste you spoke of a while ago. Am I not right? With all your faults you used to be truthful. Answer me."

Even at this juncture Rhoda would not lie. "Yes," she admitted. "I did take a little drink of applejack. But Aunt, you have wine on your own table. There is no harm in an occasional glass, is there?"

"An occasional glass in the house of a friend is one thing. I have never offered a young man a glass of liquor in my life. In my set girls don't drink with men. It is not done."

"You do not know of their doing it, perhaps," Rhoda objected. "But Aunt Jane, girls have changed since your day."

The prominent eyes actually snapped. "Let me [illegible] you understand that I am not yet a fossil and that this is still my day! As this is the case I consider myself competent to judge between right and wrong.

"I shall describe to your mother just what I have seen, heard and—yes, smelled—for even now there is liquor on your breath and a horrible odor of cigarettes about you. I shall also describe to her the type of man with whom you are supposed to be studying—a man who knows so little of the ways of polite society that he actually grabbed my hand before I even offered it to him and shook it most roughly. He probably does not know that a gentleman waits for a woman to offer him her hand. He was presumptuous and illmannered."

But Rhoda ventured a feeble demur. "Surely the etiquette of hand shaking is too trivial for one to make an issue of it. A man may be a gentleman yet never know that the move to shake hands should come from the woman."

"I do not agree with you! But then I can hardly expect you in your new environment to hold to the traditions in which you were born. You speak of my being mistaken"—recurring with maddening persistence to her first proposition—"yet I surely am right in believing that your dress is many inches shorter than it should be, that you have cut off your beautiful hair and that you have even—worst of all—put rouge on your cheeks—in fact that you have suceeded in making my brother's daughter look like the kind of person that I do not care to mention even in your presence. There, that is what I have to write to your mother. And it is quite enough."

"Oh," Rhoda pressed her hands together—"you would not write all this to her! It would seem so different when put on paper from what it really is."

"It cannot seem any worse than it looks!" was the harsh rejoinder. "When you adopted this mode of life you should have been prepared to stand by the consequences."

The tone roused the girl's faltering pride. She lifted her head with the old familiar touch of defiance.

"I am willing and glad to stand by the consequences," she declared. "I should not have asked you to try to see my position in a broad fair minded way. I do not suppose you can help feeling as you do about the new times and the new ways that have become a part of the life of the world of today. I regret that I suggested your not writing to mother. I was wrong to do so. She trusts me. I would not mind a bit having her see me in exactly the conditions in which you found me."

Mrs. Bates paused, her hand on the door knob.

"You mean that?" she demanded. "You mean that you would be willing to have your mother see you as I saw you—and that man—when I came in here a while ago?"

"Yes, I mean just that."

"Very well. I shall tell her that also when I write. She has been wrong in her training somewhere if you would not be ashamed to have her witness what I have witnessed."

"She would understand," Rhoda asserted.

"And I do not," was the retort. "Now I am going. I hope that I shall not break my neck on those crazy stairs. They are a disgrace to any decent house. Yet I suppose they are what is to be expected here."

Jackson Admits Burglary Charge

Joe Jackson, alias Ray Collins, 19 years old, who for several hours following his arrest was believed by Seward county authorities to be Richard Emerson, an escaped convict, pleaded guilty Monday in Municipal court to a burglary charge. Bail was set at $1,000 which the prisoner was unable to furnish.

Jackson was taken into custody near Milford Friday by Deputy Sheriff Runty, who explained that he believed Jackson was Emerson, who made a successful dash for freedom from the state penitentiary last week.

After having been an inmate of the city jail for a short time Jackson told police that he broke into the home of Fred P[illegible], a farmer living 11 miles southwest of Lincoln, and carried away [illegible] in cash.

Attired in overalls and a jumper and wearing a large straw hat, the prisoner appeared crestfallen when he entered the court room. When questioned by Judge W. A. Hawes he readily admitted his guilt.

Following his arraignment he said that he was anxious to begin paying the penalty for his offense.

MISHAPS CLAIM LIVES OF SCORE

Twenty-Six Killed Throughout Country In Week-End Accidents.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Twenty six persons were killed and many others were injured throughout the country in week end accidents ranging from automobile collisions to flying mishaps. Seven automobilists were killed, five persons were drowned, five succumbed to violence while six others were fatally hurt in train, storm, fire and launch accidents.

The automobile toll for the entire week in nine middlewestern states was eighty seven. Capt. B. L. Hoey, 3?, of Spokane, Wash., was killed by a machine at Columbus, Ga.

Capt. Frazer Hale of the army air service and his mechanic, Priv. Earl C. Norris, were killed at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., when the machine of the airplane exploded shortly after they had hopped off for Washington, while Joe Lachatelle, 20, of Grand Rapids, Mich., fell 00 feet to his death while doing airplane stunts with a flying circus.

INDIANA CULT INVESTIGATED

Fourteen Face Charges After a Raid Led by Newspaper Woman.

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—Fourteen persons connected with headquarters of a religious cult five miles from here will appear in police court today and answer charges of obtaining money under false pretense. Warrants were issued at the request of Miss Virginia Swain, Cleveland, O., newspaper woman who has been investigating the camp for five weeks under an assumed name.

Considerable argument on the part of an attorney member of the cult prior to the serving of the warrants caused Sheriff Davies to leave without the purported prisoners. One of the leaders of the organization promised to have all those named in the charges present at the court hearing today.

When Miss Swain, who led the raid, was discovered by the enraged members of the cult considerable commotion was caused and one member in a high pitched voice shouted "lynch her," but the prompt action of the police force stalled any violence.

Few Changes In Private Car Line Co. Assessments

Private car line companies will be assessed in Nebraska this year for payment of taxes to the state on virtually the same basis as in 1924. The state board of equalization Monday forenoon turned down the request of the Union Tank Car Co., Standard Oil subsidiary, and the Skelley Oil Co. for reductions in their valuations. Two or three small companies were slightly increased.

The Union asked to have its average daily car mileage increased from 100 to 150, which would have been equivalent to a decrease of one third in its tax. The Skelley concern wanted its average [illegible] raised for the same purpose, but were left the same as last year.

The exact amount of tax to be paid by each of the 200 or more car-line corporations operating in Nebraska will not be known until the amounts have been figured out by a complicated process including daily mileage, number of cars in service and the value of each car.

Tank cars are valued at $1,100 each, refrigerator $1,000, fruit $825, stock $900, box $850, poultry $900, heater $8[illegible], steel coal cars $1,200 and ordinary flat cars $4[illegible].

The mileage per day allowed on these classes ranges from [illegible].

All car line valuations are subject to a state tax of [illegible] mills.

Mrs. Steiner Hurt As Car Overturns

Mrs. Elizabeth Steiner, 48, was painfully injured Sunday evening when the auto in which she was riding overturned on the South Fourteenth street road.

A passerby brought her to Lincoln and Dr. Clayton F. Andrews was summoned. He advised that the patient be taken to the general hospital. Her injuries include a bruised head, strained side and broken left hand.

The driver of the car was partially blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, went into loose gravel at the edge of the road and the auto overturned. It was not going very fast and suffered little damage.

According to a statement made by Jack Dempsey he will fight [illegible] promoter who will guarantee him at least 1,000,000 for his end of the match.

An offer of $100,000 was refused by F. Wallis Armstrong of Philadelphia for the great stallion [illegible] P. Grier. The horse was sold a year ago for $[illegible]0,000.

AGAINST DUAL JOB HOLDING

But Governor Does Not Directly Mention Hart-Knudson Case.

Intends to See That Code Rule Is Strictly Enforced.

Governor McMullen declared Monday that he heartily approved that section in the code law of Nebraska which requires officials and employes working under it to give their whole time to the service of the state and forbids their holding any other lucrative job as a side issue.

The governor declined to comment directly on the cases of L. E. Hart and K. C. Knudson, former heads of the trade and commerce department under the two administrations preceding his own, who had themselves named as receivers of failed banks and then asked to be paid for such service in addition to their regular salaries.

However, Mr. McMullen expressed himself as to the system in general by saying:

"The provision of law in regard to officers and employes devoting themselves entirely to the state's service and limiting their employment to that field is very wise and proper. It should of course be observed. Otherwise there would be no limit to the side job which heads of departments might seek for themselves in order to collect more pay."

Can Consolidate Jobs

Governor McMullen does not interpret the law as in any way preventing him from consolidating positions under the code where this can be done in such a way as to save money to the state without impairing efficiency. He is given specific authority to discontinue the services of any secretary or employe when he deems them no longer necessary. He is also empowered to transfer employes or combine their duties even to the extent of having one person perform for two or more departments.

Recently the governor has combined the position of capitol custodian with that of purchasing agent in the finance department. The double position is held by Clarence Stine who has been acting as purchasing agent since last January. He now receives a salary of $ 50 a month. As purchasing agent since last January he now receives a salary of $250 a month. As purchasing agent alone Stine drew $[illegible]. H. A. Baugh, who was assistant construction superintendent for the capitol commission at $1[illegible] a month and custodian at $15[illegible], resigned to go to Chicago.

Purchasing Agent Stine now has charge of all the janitors, the governor informed newspaper men, and is responsible for their work. The force of janitors has been reduced by two men, each of the remaining ones being assigned one corner of the building to look after. Stine buys coal and other supplies for the capitol building as well as stationery and supplies for its various offices.

"I also consolidated the position as chief of the blue sky bureau with that of examiner and raised Chief Crug's salary $1,000," said the governor. "At the same time the service of two examiners at $2,100 a year each dispensed with so that a net saving of $3,200 was accomplished."

Rains Credited To Snake Prayer By Indian Tribe

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—The rattlesnakes of the Hopi Indians evidently carried the prayer of the red men for rain to the spider woman of the underworld, whom the Indians believe has control over the rain clouds, for heavy rains fell Saturday and Sunday, breaking the long extended drouth which threatened the crops and livestock ranges of central and southern Arizona.

The Hopi Indians last Wednesday staged their annual colorful and weird snake dance at their puebla at Walpi near Winslow, offering up their prayers for rain by liberating hundreds of rattlesnakes which were supposed to carry the rain prayers to the snake mother and thence to the spider woman of the underworld. The dance is one of the most fantastic of American Indian dances—the Indians wrap and wind the snakes about their bodies and even take the reptiles in their mouths during the dance with utter abandon as to the danger of the poisonous fangs. Often the Indians are bitten, but they have a secret antidote which they imbibe in huge quantities, almost a bucketful by each dancer after the dance, and it is reported none has ever died from the effects of the snake bite.

Even though the Hopi Indians [illegible] brought [illegible] farmer and stockman, some damage was caused by today's downpour, highways being damaged and several streams running high.

Jewish Population Of Six Million At Palestine Is Seen

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—The prediction that in twenty years from now Palestine will have a Jewish population of no less than 6,000,000 was made by Mr. Sp[illegible], head of the [illegible] Zionist executive committee in [illegible] Zionist congress.

[illegible] immigration [illegible] 3[illegible],000 [illegible] In the next two years this will grow to 60,000 annually. No unemployment is prevalent in that country in spite of the arrival of these immigrants.

Darrow Claims Evolution Fight Step Backward

DENVER, Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—"The fight on evolution is a step back to the civilization of the middle ages," Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney and Scopes defense counsel in the Tennessee evolution trial, said last night in an address at the Grace community church here.

"We have started back on the road to the medieval ages when men were drawn and quartered because they didn't agree with the accepted precepts concerning the existence of things," Mr. Darrow said.

"There is a large and financially powerful group in this country which is laying plans for a campaign to pass legislation primarily in the western and southern states which will make it a criminal offense to teach in the public schools any doctrine concerning the origin of anything which is contrary to the doctrine found in the book of Genesis."

NO HOPE SEEN IN MINERS' DISPUTE

Contracts Near Expiration and Opposing Forces Hopelessly Estranged.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Anthracite operators and miners are apparently proceeding with their original plans for whatever situation is to develop in the coal fields after September 1 while citizens committees appeal in vain for pledges assuring peace.

The last week in the life of the present working contract opens today with both sides seemingly hopelessly estranged. No single contract, direct or indirect, still remaining between the mine owners and the men pulses with any hope of immediate change in their attitude.

Operators say flatly any renewal of the contract on its expiration August 31 must provide against increase in production cost by so much as a cent, while as for granting the men's plea for the check off the owners call that impossible.

The miners call this a blanket refusal, spelling the wholesale rejection of all their terms, and they take the stand that until the owners show some yielding even negotiations are useless.

TWO KILLED IN GANGLAND WAR

Another Thought Dying as Result of Mysterious Shooting In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—With two men dead and a third dying of bullet wounds in what police believe a revival of a gangland feud two years old, the west side district of Chicago is being combed by police and detectives today for three men, one of whom was named by the dying man as his assailant.

Frank Spina, 38, an oiler; Giuseppe Vecchio, 41, and Joseph Preiti, 29, were the victims. The three men were walking along the sidewalk last night when they were met by four.

Somebody said:

"I ought to kill you."

Guns barked.

Spina fell and died before police reached the hospital with him. Vecchio was found unconscious in a pool of blood. He died before he reached the hospital. Physicians said late last night that Preiti would probably die.

Motives leading up to the shooting had not been unearthed early today.

BOY SCOUTS RETURN

(Special to The Star.)

NELIGH, Neb., Aug. 24.—The members of the various troops of the Boy Scouts who have been on their annual vacation in the neighborhood of the Santee agency returned last evening from their week's outing. Every member of this organization is also a member of the Scout band under the direction of Percy Put[illegible]ottom, who announces that the next open air concert by the band will be held Wednesday evening on the court house lawn.

Towns to Try For Low Interstate Rate

Members of the executive committee for the newly organized Nebraska traffic league will be in Lincoln for a conference Tuesday with the state railway commission relative to securing equal through freight rates from the east on interstate shipments. Grand Island, Hastings, Columbus and other interior Nebraska points. George Olson of Hastings arranged the conference by long distance telephone.

BEGIN CITY WORK TOTALING $79,000

Council Acts on Special Assessment Improvements, Mostly Paving.

Surfacing of D From Twenty-seventh to Thirty-third to Cost $50,000.

Special assessment improvements [illegible] by the city commission Monday afternoon. The largest of the projects is the paving of D street from Twenty seventh to Thirty third and Thirty second street and Linwood avenue from D to Randolph street. The engineer's estimate of the cost is $50,000.

Plans and specifications were also approved for the construction of water mains on First street from B to D and F street from First to Second, and a sewer on Twenty third from W to X, another on Hitchcock street from Thirty second to Thirty third, one on Otoe street from Fourteenth to Sixteenth and still another on Van Dorn, Otoe and Washington from Sixteenth to Seventeenth. Included with the plans and specifications were resolutions instructing the city clerk to advertise for bids for the construction of each.

Besides the big paving contract offered the following were included in the list:

Alley paving between C and D and Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets and paving of Twenty second street, Dudley to Holdrege and Sheldon from Twenty second to Twenty third at an estimated cost of $1[illegible]000. The estimated cost of the C street alley paving is $1,1650.

The alley between O and P streets from Eighteenth to Nineteenth streets will be paved at a cost of $2,300 and it will cost $3,800 to pave the alley from Thirteenth to Fourteenth between O and N street and $3,000 for the one from Eleventh to Twelfth between O and P. The alley between M and N and Ninth and Tenth will also be paved at a cost of $1,200 and that between Twelfth and Thirteenth and O and P at $2,000.

Sidewalk to School

The Reimers Kaufman company was awarded the contract for building a sidewalk in front of a lot at the corner of Forty third and O street. Completion of this walk will provide walk from the end of the paving to the Hawthorne school.

The Cochrane Construction company was awarded the contract for paving K street from Twenty sixth to Twenty seventh and the council approved the bond and contract which the company submitted. Contract for laying a water main on W street from Sixteenth to Seventeenth streets and on Sixteenth street from W to Northside avenue at a cost of $1,382 was also approved. The work was awarded to J. F. Deffenbaugh.

An ordinance up for third reading provides for the building of an underground conduit by the board of education at the high school. New ordinances introduced provide for the creation of a paving district on Twenty third street from Park to Lake and amend the grades already established at the corner of Twenty second and Sheldon streets.

BIGGER COTTON CROP FORECAST

Report Prospects for This Year's Yield Improved In Last Half Month.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(By the Associated Press)—An increase of 424,000 bales in this year's prospective cotton crop was announced today by the department of agriculture in its semi monthly report which forecasts production at 13,990,000 equivalent 500 pound bales.

The condition of the crop improved in the half month in all states except South Carolina, Alabama and Arkansas.

Stage Scenery of Long Ago Brought From Hiding Place

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Aug. 24.—Some knock and some praise the dramatic and light opera companies of the good old days before movies led the coming generations astray, but Columbus people are now forced to admit that their scenery was wonderful.

In the season of 190[illegible] the Floradora light opera company went broke in Columbus. Walking was just the style among actors in those days but the Floradora players were not slaves of fashion. Rather than count the [illegible] ties between here and [illegible] they left their sets in exchange for railroad tickets.

The sets were stored in an old barn. This summer the barn was torn down to make room for a new residence property and a complete half dozen sets together with fixtures of the company were brought to light again.

The scenery is made of Irish linen crash, a material regularly used two decades ago but replaced almost entirely now by muslin. In spite of the exceedingly rough usage the sets are still in a remarkable state of preservation and the painting is scarcely marred. The sets have now been installed in the North theatre and patrons are unanimous in their praise of the old time scene painter's work.

Omaha Workman Is Killed By a Car

OMAHA, Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—Tony Ditoni, a laborer, was almost instantly killed early today when he was struck by an automobile as he was alighting from a streetcar. John Reimers, driver of the car, was jailed on an investigation when witnesses said he did not stop to let the train discharge passengers.

Thieves Rob Pool Hall at Grafton

The Clyde Ranson pool hall at Grafton, Neb., was entered by thieves sometime during Sunday night and robbed of about $30 in money, three Elgin watches, a revolver and a diamond ring, according to word received at the state sheriff's office this morning.

The thieves rifled two slot machines from which they obtained the money. No further details were given in the message to Sheriff Condit.

Deny Attempt On King's Life

Treasures of Czar Found in Home of His Former Tailor

LENINGRAD, Russia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—In a house formerly occupied by the tailor to the czar, whose name is [illegible] and who now carries on a banking business in Paris, a large quantity of gold and silver articles set with precious stones and diamonds has been discovered.

On a wall [illegible] was found to contain fifty seven gold articles of elaborate workmanship and a number of the finest blue diamonds weighing [illegible] carats.

There also was a great number of gold enamelled cigaret cases, snuff boxes, rings and tie pins.

The present occupants of the house had not the slightest idea of the treasure which had been deposited in a wall safe since the beginning of the revolution. It was only when the tenants committee of the house decided to use the safe for storing books and papers that the treasure was discovered.

Minerva's Mail

Man In the Offing.

Dear Minerva: I too need to be advised.

A little over a year ago I was keeping company with a young man I was very fond of. (I'll call him A). I had been going with him for about seven months. I began to go with another boy once in a while. "A" began to ask for fewer dates and finally stopped altogether. He never gave any reason for stopping and I never asked him. Minerva I love him but I tried to lie to myself and the girls and say that I liked the other the better. I truly believe that absence makes the heart grow fonder because one year has passed since I have been with "A" but nevertheless I love him more.

Minerva I am always shy when around him. But I am never jealous when other girls are with him although I would love to be in their places.

I am old enough to know my own mind but not old enough to advise myself. How can I win him back? LOVELORN.

A. Absence makes the heart grow fonder, they say. Probably this is true enough. But certainly inaccessibility is a lure. The young man in hand, as it were, seems so much less attractive than the one in the offing. It is always such a temptation to try to ensnare the skittish one.

Probably you wouldn't care any more for the absent one if he were giving you the mad rush than you do for the one who does hover about you attentatively.

Being a girl you will have to find that out for yourself. So invite the oldtime lover out to your home for an evening. Tell him you would like to have him call for old time's sake. Wear your prettiest frock, be your nicest self, and perhaps he will ask for permission to make future calls.

Screened From Life.

Dear Minerva: My twin sister and I are bringing our troubles to you in hopes that you can help us. We are not extremely beautiful, but are not at all homely, having beautiful golden curls and pink and white skins.

All of our lives we have had everything we wanted of the material things of life, but there is more than that to life. What is our beautiful roadster to the friendship of young people? Would not a little camping trip with girls our own age be much more enjoyable than a trip to Honolulu with our parents?

We are young and want to live and enjoy life with other young folks, which is forbidden us. Never in our lives have we been to a dance. So close has been the supervision and chaperonage of our parents that we have never talked to any young men only our one cousin, who is two years our senior. We are often tempted to sneak away, but would rather do the honorable thing. Many girls who are poor envy our wealth and think that we should be content with our lot, but we are absolutely sick of it. Next year we finish our third year of college work under the supervision of governesses. We would much rather go to college with other young folks and get some of the pleasures that one should get from college life, but our folks are horrified at the idea. We are almost desperate with loneliness although we do have each other.

What shall we do? How can we stand it? How can we bring our folks to our way of thinking? PEG AND MEG.

A. How unfortunate that your parents harber this very mistaken idea of keeping their daughters in a glass cage, far from the influence of other young people. True enough some such influence may be contaminating, but it is broadening and normal and decidedly necessary. Young people cannot thrive happily and normally without companions their own age any more than the corn can grow without rain and sunshine.

But how you can convince your parents of this fact is another question, is indeed the question. They are no doubt following theories formulated for years, maybe before you were born, and my convictions would not influence the mone way or another.

I wish I could warn them thouh of the great danger of the experiment. This is the inability of children so sheltered and kept in a hot house to cope with the world when liberty is known. Not knowing people they are easily duped and misled. Having abnormal curiosity about men and romance they accept the first lightly spoken words of flattery from the first man they know as the signs of undying love, and difficulties develop.

As the child, raised on predigested food, is unable to assimilate food in the raw, so is the child screened from contact with other human beings equipped to live with human beings in later years.

Your opportunities are wonderful and you should not be very unhappy. It would be too bad to resort to rebellion or any such mode of emphasis. They will permit you to know more young people your age as you grow older, I am sure, and so far as I can see you can only abide by their desire in the matter. Enjoy to the fullest your opportunities at hand. That should not be difficult. And adventure, and even romance, will be found just around the next corner.

CHAPTER LV.

Rhoda Thorne laid her hand impulsively on her aunt's arm. She could not let her go away in this mood and write dreadful things to the anxious mother up in Hillsdale. The exhilaration caused by the liquor was rapidly evaporating.

"Aunt Jane," she pleaded, "do not worry mother unnecessarily, please! For, really, there is nothing to write her—nothing that she does not know already."

The matron eyed her coolly. "I shall do what is proper," she declared.

"But there is nothing to write," the girl reiterated.

"There is a great deal to write," Mrs. Bates contradicted. "I have witnessed enough this afternoon to confirm me in my worst suspicions."

"Oh—you are mistaken!" Rhoda demurred feebly.

"Mistaken in the evidences of my own senses?" the woman demanded sternly. Did I imagine that you and that man were sitting—or lounging—side-by-side on that couch—pointing to the crushed cushions. "I certainly gave you an abundance of time to get up after I knocked—for I could not turn the knob immediately with these new gloves on—glancing at the soiled fingertips.

"That you continued to sit there showed you are so accustomed to that kind of thing that you had no objection to any chance caller—seeing you loafing on the same seat. Of course you jumped up, scared enough, when I appeared, for you know that I belong to a different set from the one into which you have chosen to sink. Then I was hardly mistaken in believing that I saw a flask on the table, nor that you had been drinking liquor with a man. You cannot deny that—nor that you took more than the 'taste' you spoke of a while ago. Am I not right? With all your faults, you used to be truthful. Answer me."

Even at this juncture Rhoda would not lie. "Yes," she admitted, "I did take a little drink of applejack. But, Aunt, you have wine on your own table. There is no harm in an occasional glass, is there?"

"An occasional glass in the house of a friend is one thing. I have never offered a young man a glass of liquor in my life. In my set girls don't drink with men. It is not done."

"You do not know of their doing it, perhaps," Rhoda objected. "But, Aunt Jane, girls have changed since your day."

The prominent eyes actually snapped echoed. "I will have you understand that I am not yet a fossil, and that this is still my day! As this is the case, I consider myself competent to judge between right and wrong.

"I shall describe to your mother just what I have seen, heard and—yes smelled—for even now there is liquor on your breath and a horrible odor of cigarettes about you. I shall also describe to her the type of man with whom you are supposed to be studying—a man who knows so little o fthe ways of polite society that he actually grabbed my hand before I even offered it to him, and shook it most roughly.

"He probably does not know that a gentleman waits for a woman to offer him her hand. He was presumptuous and illmannered."

"But," Rhoda ventured a feeble demur—"surely the etiquette of hand-shaking is too trivial for one to make an issue of it. A man may be a gentleman yet never know that the move to shake hands should come from the woman."

"I do not agree with you! But then I can hardly expect you in your new environment to hold to the traditions in which you were born. You speak of my being mistaken"—recurring with maddening persistence to her first proposition—"yet I surely am right in believing that your dress is many inches shorter than it should be, that you have cut off your beautliful hair, and that you have even—worst of all—put rouge on your cheeks—in fact, that you have suceeded in making my brother's daughter look like the kind of person that I do not care to mention even in your presence. There! that is what I have to write to your mother! And it is quite enough."

"Oh!" Rhoda pressed her hands together—"you would not write all this to her! It would seem so different when put on paper from what it really is!"

"It cannot seem any worse than it looks!" was the harsh rejoinder. "When you adopted this mode of life, you should have been prepared to stand by the consequences."

The tone roused the girl's faltering pride. She lifted her head with the old familiar touch of defiance.

"I am willing and glad to stand by the consequences," she declared, "I should not have asked you to try to see my position in a broad, fair-minded way. I do not suppose you can help feeling as you do about the new times and the new ways that have become a part of the life of the world of to-day. I regret that I suggested your not writing to mother. I was wrong to do so. She trusts me. I would not mind a bit having her see me in exactly the conditions in which you found me."

Mrs. Bates paused, her hand on the door-knob.

"You mean that?" she demanded. "You mean that you would be willing to have your mother see you as I saw, you—and that man—when I came in here a while ago?"

"Yes, I mean just that."

"Very well, I shall tell her that also when I write. She has been wrong in her training somewhere if you would not be ashamed to have her witness what I have witnessed."

"She would understand," Rhoda asserted.

"And I do not!" was the retort. "Now I am going. I hope that I shall not break my neck on those crazy stairs. They are a disgrace to any decent house. Yet I suppose they are what is to be expected here."

To Be Continued.

Jackson Admits Burglary Charge

Roy Jackson, alias Ray Collins, 29 years old, who for several hours following his arrest, was believed by Seward county authorities to be Richard Emerson, an escaped convict, pleaded guilty Monday in Municipal court to a burglary charge. Bail was set at $1,000, which the prisoner was unable to furnish.

Jackson was taken into custody near Milford Friday by Deputy Sheriff Runty, who explained that he believed Jackson was Emerson, who made a successful dash for freedom from the state penitentiary last week.

After having been an inmate of the city jail for a short time, Jackson told police that he broke into the home of Fred Petsch, a farmer living 11 miles southwest of Lincoln, and carried away food and $28 in cash.

Attired in overalls and a jumper and wearing a large straw hat, the prisoner appeared crestfallen when he entered the court room. When questioned by Judge W. A. Hawes, he readily admitted his guilt.

Following his arraignment, he said that he was anxious to begin paying the penalty for his offense.

MISHAPS CLAIM LIVES OF SCORE

Twenty-Six Killed Throughout Country In Week-End Accidents.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Twenty-six persons were killed and many others were injured throughout the country in week-end accidents ranging from automobile collisions to flying mishaps. Seven automobilists were killed, five persons were drowned, five succumbed to violence, while six others were fatally hurt in train, storm, fire and launch accidents.

The automobile toll for the entire week in nine middlewestern states was eighty-seven. Capt. B. P. Hoey, 32, of Spokane, Wash., was killed by a machine at Columbus, Ga.

Capt. Frazer Hale of the army air service, and his mechanic, Priv. Earl C. Norris, were killed at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., when the machine of the airplane exploded shortly after they had hopped off for Washington, while Joe Lachattelle, 20, of Gand Rapids, Mich., fell 200 feet to his death while doing "airplane stunts" with a flying circus.

INDIANA CULT INVESTIGATED

Fourteen Face Charges After a Raid Led by Newspaper Woman.

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—Fourteen persons connected with headquarters of a religious cult five miles from here will appear in police court today and answer charges of obtaining money under false pretense. Warrants were issued at the request of Miss Virginia Swain, Cleveland, O., newspaper woman who has been investigating the camp for five weeks under an assumed name.

Considerable argument on the part of an attorney, member of the cult, prior to the serving of the warrants cause Sheriff Dayles to leave without the purported prisoners. One of the leaders of the organization promised to have all those named in the charges present at the court hearing today.

When Miss Swain, who led the raid, was disovered by the enraged members of the cult, considerable commotion was caused and one member in a high pitched voice shouted, "lynch her," but the prompt action of the police forestalled any violence.

Few Changes In Private Car Line Co. Assessments

Private car line companies will be assessed in Nebraska this year, for payment of taxes to the state, on virtually the same basis as in 1924. The state board of equalization Monday forenoon turned down the request of the Union Tank Car Co., Standard Oil subsidiary, and the Skelley Oil Co. for reductions in their valuations. Two or three small companies were slightly increased.

The Union asked to have its average daily car mileage increased from 100 to 150, which would have been equivalent to a decrease of one-third in its tax. The Skelley concern wanted its average of 75 raised for the same purpose. Both were left the same as last year.

The exact amount of tax to be paid by each of the 200 or more car-line corporations operating in Nebraska will not be known until the amounts have been figured out by a complicated process including daily mileage, number of cars in service, and the value of each car.

Tank cars are valued at $1,100 each; refrigerator, $1.000! fruit. $825; stock, $900; box, $850; poultry, $900; heater, $850; steel coal cars, $1,200, and ordinary flat cars, $450.

The mileage per day allowed on these classes ranges from 50 to 100.

All car line valuations are subject to a state tax of 15½ mills.

Mrs. Steiner Hurt As Car Overturns

Mrs. Elizabeth Steiner, 48, was painfully injured Sunday evening when the auto in which she was riding overturned on the South Fourteenth street road.

A passerby brought her to Lincoln and Dr. Clayton F. Andrews summoned. He advised that the patient be taken to the general hospital. Her injuries include a bruised head, strained side and broken left hand.

The driver of the car was partially blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, went into loose sand at the edge of the road, and the auto overturned. It was not going very fast and suffered little damage.

According to a statement made by Jack Dempsey, he will fight for any promoter who will guarantee him at least $1,000,000 for his end of the match.

An offer of $100,000 was refused by F. Wallis Armstrong of Philadelphia for the great stallion, John P. Grier. The horse was sold a year ago for $50,000.

AGAINST DUAL JOB HOLDING

But Governor Does Not Directly Mention Hart-Knudson Case.

Intends to See That Code Rule Is Strictly Enforced.

Governor McMullen declared Monday morning that he heartily approved that section in the code law of Nebraska which requires officials and employes working under it to give their whole time to the service of the state and forbids their holding any other lucrative job as a side issue.

The governor declined to comment directly on the cases of J. E. Hart and K. C. Knudson, former heads of the trade and commerce department under the two administrations preceding his own, who had themselves named as receivers of failed banks and then asked to be paid for such services in addition to their regular salaries.

However, Mr. McMullen expressed himself as to the system in general by saying:

"The provision of law in regard to officers and employes devoting themselves entirely to the state's service and limiting their employment to that field is very wise and proper. It should, of course, be observed. Otherwise, there would be no limit to the side jobs which heads of departments might create for themselves in order to collect more pay."

Can Consolidate Jobs.

Governor McMullen does not interpret the law as in any way preventing him from consolidating positions under the code, where this can be done in such a way as to save money to the state without impairing efficiency. He is given specific authority to discontinue the services of any secretary or employe when he deems them no longer necessary. He is also empowered to transfer employes or combine their duties, even to the extent of having one person perform for two or more departments.

Recently, the governor has combined the position of capitol custodian with that of purchasing agent in the finance department. The double position is held by Clarence Stine, who has been acting as purchasing agent since last January. He now receives a salary of $250 a month. As purchasing agent since last January. He now receives a salary of $250 a month. As purchasing agent alone, Stine drew $75. H. A. Baugh, who was assistant construction superintendent for the capitol commission at $175 a month and custodian at $75 resigned to go to Chicago.

Purchasing Agent Stine now has charge of all the janitors, the governor informed newspaper men, and is responsible for their work. The force of janitors has been reduced by two men, each of the remaining ones being assigned one corner of the building to look after. Stine buys coal and other supplies for the capitol building, as well as stationery and supplies for its various offices.

"I also consolidated the position as chief of the blue sky bureau with that of examiner, and raised Chief Craig's salary $1,000," said the governor. "At the same time the service of two examiners at $2,100 a year each dispensed with, so that a net saving of $3,200 was accomplished.

Rains Credited To Snake Prayer By Indian Tribe

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 24. — (A. P.)—The rattlesnakes of the Hopi Indians evidently carried the prayer of the red men for rain to the "spider woman of the underworld," whom the Indians believe has control over the rain clouds, for heavy rains fell Saturday and Sunday, breaking the long extended drouth which threatened the crops and livestock ranges of central and southern Arizona.

The Hopi Indians last Wednesday staged their annual colorful and weird snake dance at their puebla at Walpi, near Winslow, offering up their prayers for rain by liberating hundreds of rattlesnakes, which were supposed to carry the rain prayers to the "snake mother" and thence to the "spider woman of the underworld." The dance is one of the most fantastic of American Indian dances—the Indians wrap and wind the snakes about their bodies and even take the reptiles in their mouths during the dance, with utter abandon as to the danger of the poisonous fangs. Often the Indians are bitten, but they have a secret antidote which they imbibe in huge quantities, almost a bucketful by each dancer after the dance and it is reported none has ever died from the effects of the snake bites.

Even though the Hopi Indians' rain prayer has been answered and relief has been brought to the farmer and stockman, some damage was caused by today's downpour, highways being damaged and several streams running high.

Jewish Population Of Six Million At Palestine Is Seen

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—The prediction that in twenty years from now Palestine will have a Jewish population of not less than 6,000,000, was made by Mr. Sprinzak, head of the labor immigration department of the Zionist executive committee in Jerusalem, in his address to the Zionist congress Sunday.

"Jewish immigration into Palestine averaged 3,000 monthly this year, said the report. "In the next two years this will go to 60,000 annually. No unemployment is pevalent in that country despite the arrival of these immigrants."

Darrow Claims Evolution Fight Step Backward

DENVER, Aug. 244.—(A. P.)—The fight on evolution is a step back to the civilization of the middle ages, Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney and Scopes defense counsel in the Tennessee evolution trial, said last night in an address at the Grace community church here.

"We have started back on the road to the medieval ages when men were drawn and quartered because they didn't agree with the accepted precepts concerning the existence of things," Mr. Darrow said.

"There is a large and financially powerful group in this country which is laying plans for a campaign to pass legislation primarily in the western and southern states which will make it a criminal offense to teach in the public schools any doctrine concerning the origin of anything which is contrary to the doctrine found in the book of Genesis.

NO HOPE SEEN IN MINERS' DISPUTE

Contracts Near Expiration and Opposing Forces Hopelessly Estranged.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Anthracite operators and miners are apparently proceeding with their original plans for whatever situation is to develop in the coal fields after September 1, while citizens committees appeal in vain for pledges assuring peace.

The last week in the life of the present working contract opens today with both sides seemingly hopelessly estranged. No single contract, direct or indirect, still remaining between the mine owners and the men pulses with any hope of immediate change in their attitude.

Operators say flatly any renewal of the contract on its expiration August 31 must provide against increase in "production cost" by so much as a cent, while as for granting the men's plea for the check-off, the owners call that impossible.

The miners call this a "blanket refusal," spelling the wholesale rejection of all their terms and they take the stand that until the owners show some yielding even negotiations are useless.

TWO KILLED IN GANGLAND WAR

Another Thought Dying as Result of Mysterious Shooting In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—With two men dead and a third dying of bullet wounds in what police believe a revival of a gangland feud two years old, the west side district of Chicago is being combed by police and detectives today for three men, one of whom was named by the dying man as his assailant.

Frank Spina, 38, an oiler; Giusseppe Vecchio, 41, and Joseph Preiti, 29, were the victims. The three men were walking along the sidewalk last night when they were met by four.

Somebody said:

"I ought to kill you."

Guns barked.

Spina fell and died before police reached the hospital with him. Vecchio was found unconscious in a pool of blood. He died before he reached the hispital. Physicians said late last night that Preiti would probably die.

Motives leading up to the shooting had not been unearthed early today.

BOY SCOUTS RETURN.

(Special to The Star.)

NELIGH, Neb., Aug. 24.—The members of the various troops of the Boy Scouts who have been on their annual vacation in the neighborhood of the Santee agency, returned last evening from their week's outing. Every member of this organization is also a member of the Scout band, under the direction of Lerey Rubottom, who announces that the next open air concert by the band will be held Wednesday evening on the court house lawn.

Towns to Try For Low Interstate Rate

Members of the executive committee for the newly organized Nebraska traffic league will be in Lincoln for a conference Tuesday with the state railway commission relative to securing reduced through freight rates from the east on interstate shipments to Grand Island, Hastings, Columbus and other interior Nebraska points. George Olson of Hastings arranged the conference by long distance telephone.

The Nebraska commission has no jurisdiction over the rates complained of, but its co-operation will probably be asked for in presenting the matter to the interstate commerce commission.

Other cities of central and western Nebraska have been invited to join the traffic league, and some of them which were not represented at the organization meeting in Columbus last week may send spokesmen to the conference here.

BEGIN CITY WORK TOTALING $79,000

Council Acts on Special Assessment Improvements, Mostly Paving.

Surfacing of D From Twenty-seventh to Thirty-third to Cost $50,000.

Special assessment improvements, all of which are either street or alley paving, aggregating $79,115.90, were set in motion by the city council Monday afternoon. The largest of the projects in the paving of D street from Twenty-seventh to Thirty-third, and Thirty-second street and Elmwood avenue from D to Randolph street. The engineer's estimate of the cost is $50,000.

Plans and specifications were also approved for the construction of water mains on First street from B to D and B street from First to Second, a sewer on Twenty-third from W to X, another on Hitchcock street from Thirty-second to Thirty-third, one on Otoe street from Fourteenth to Sixteenth; and still another on Van Dorn, Otoe and Woodsview, from Sixteenth to Seventeenth. Included with the plans and specifications were resolutions instructing the city clerk to advertise for bids for the construction of each.

Besides the big paving contract offered, these were included in the list:

Alley paving between C and D and Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, and paving of Twenty-second street Dudley to Holdrege and Sheldon from Twenty-second to Twenty-third at an estimated cost of $12,000. The estimated cost of the C street alley paving is $1,1650.

The alley between O and P streets from Eighteenth to Nineteenth streets will be paved at a cost of $2,300 and it will cost $3,800 to pave the alley from Thirteenth to Fourteenth between O and N streets, and $3,000 for the one from Eleventh to Twelfth between O and P. The alley between M and N and Ninth and Tenth will also be paved at a cost of $1,200 and that between Twelfth and Thirteenth and O and P at $3,000.

Sidewalk to School.

The Reimers-Kauffman company was awarded the contract for building a sidewalk in front of a lot at the corner of Forty-third and O street. Completion of this walk will provide walk from the end of the paving to the Hawthorne school.

The Cochrane Construction company was awarded the contract for paving K street from Twenty-sixth to Twenty-seventh and the council approved the bond and contract which the company submitted. Contract for laying a water main on W street from Sixteenth to Seventeenth streets, and on Sixteenth street from W to Northside avenue at a cost of $1,382, was also approved. The work was awarded to J. L. Deffenbaugh.

An ordinance up for third reading provides for the building of an underground conduit by the board of eucation at the high school. New ordinances introduced provide for the creation of a paving district on Twenty-third street from Park to Lake, and amend the grades already established at the corner of Twenty-second and Sheldon streets.

BIGGER COTTON CROP FORECAST

Report Prospects for This Year's Yield Improved In Last Half Month.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—An increase of 424,000 bales in this year's prospective cotton crop was announced today by the department of agriculture in its semi-monthly report, which forecasts production at 13,990,000 equivalent 500-pound bales.

The condition of the crop improved in the half month in all states except South Carolina, Alabama and Arkansas.

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Aug. 24—Some knock and some praise the dramatic and light opera companies of the "good old days" before movies led the coming generations astray, but Columbus people are now forced to admit that their scenery was wonderful.

In the season of 1905, the Floradora light opera company went broke in Columbus. Walking was quite the style among actors in those days, but the Floradora players were not slaves of fashion. Rather than count the Union Pacific ties between here and Fremont, they left their scenery in exchange for railroad tickets.

The sets were stored in an old barn. This summer the barn was torn down to make room for a new residence property and a complete half dozen sets, together with pictures of the company, were brought to light again.

The scenery is made of Irish linen crash, a material regularly used two decades ago, but replaced almost entirely now by muslin. In spite of the exceedingly rough usage the sets are still in a remarkable state of preservation and the painting is scarcely marred. The sets have now been installed in the North theatre and patrons are unanimous in their praise of the old-time stage painter's work.

Omaha Workman Is Killed By a Car

OMAHA, Aug. 24.—(A. P.)—Tony Datoni, a laborer was almost instantly killed early today when he was struck by an automobile as he was alighting from a streetcar. John Reimers, driver of the car was jailed on an investigation when witnesses said he did not stop to let the tram discharge passengers.

Thieves Rob Pool Hall at Grafton

The Clyde Ranson pool hall at Grafton, Neb., was entered by thieves sometime during Sunday night and robbed of about $30 in money, three Elgin watches, a revolver and a diamond ring, according to word received at the state sheriff's office this morning.

The thieves rifled two slot machines from which they obtained the money. No further details were given in the message to Sheriff Condit.

Treasures of Czar Found in Home of His Former Tailor

LENINGRAD, Russia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—In a house formerly occupied by the tailor to the czar, whose name is Lidval, and who now carries on a banking business in Paris, a large quantity of gold and silver articles set with precious stones and diamonds has been discovered.

One jewel box was found to contain forty-seven gold articles of elaborate workmanship and a number of the finest blue diamonds weighting 338 carats.

There also was a great number of gold enamelled cigaret cases, snuff boxes, rings and tie pins.

The present occupants of the house had not the slightest idea of the treasure, which had been deposited in a wall safe since the beginning of the revolution. It was only when the tenants' committee of the house decided to use the safe for storing books and papers that the treasure was discovered.
